EMIGRATION TO AMERICA DECREASING

LAST LEADER OF YOUNG IRELAND DIES

Kedra Isod O'Doherty, One of the Men Who Headed Movement of 1848, Passes Away at Brisbane.

DUBLIN, Sept. 30.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)

A recent meeting of the Cork county council at Cork, after some discussion in reference to a vacancy in the clerical staff, the chairman said he had reason to know that a member of the council was going to propose for the position the name of an Irishman and he was certain that every member of the council would hear it put before them with pleasure.

Mr. O'Mahoney then remarked that the members of the council were sorry that they could not give him a better position. Mr. O'Brien caused considerable laughter by inquiring whether he knew Irish or not. Mr. O'Mahoney replied that O'Donovan Rossa certainly understood Irish.

Mr. Hurley, in proposing O'Donovan Rossa for the position of the clerical staff, said that it would be unnecessary to recapitulate his history. It was known to all. He devoted the best years of his life to the interests of his country and showing his earnestness by fighting his enemies wherever they were to be found.

Emigration Decreasing. The autumn emigration this far to America from Ireland this year has fallen below the average of many recent years, and it is believed that it will further decrease before the year expires.

Second class passengers to America ports via Queenstown for eight months ending August 31, 1905, 2,387; third class, 15,977, making a total of 18,364. The second class for the corresponding eight months of 1904 amounted to 2,272; third class, 19,188, making a total of 21,460.

Some idea of the nature of this emigration can be arrived at from the statistics for the returns to the end of August just compiled at Queenstown, as follows: Second class passengers to American ports via Queenstown for eight months ending August 31, 1905, 2,387; third class, 15,977, making a total of 18,364.

Lord Dundonald is represented here in Ireland as a determined opponent of militarism. In a recent interview denying that he was recalling to his countrymen in Canada for making "a jingo speech" and because of his warlike declarations and militant doctrines, he said:

The facts are that my disagreement with the government of Canada arose solely from my determination not to allow appointments in the militia to be influenced by political considerations. My position was not my position as a general officer commanding and the government proposal to appoint a Canadian to the position of adjutant general was a political appointment.

"YELLOW PERIL" COMMERCIAL

Real Danger from Japan Lies in the Field of International Trade.

TOKYO, Sept. 30.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—The people of Japan have taken the lessons of the recent war with Russia very much to heart. They are just waking up to the fact that this is a commercial, and industrial and a banking age and not a military age.

Even the school boys in Japan had it all figured out how the emperor was bound to triumph on land and sea here in the orient over the hated Russians. Some of the children had studied questions of sea power and military tactics until they had become almost experts.

Hence the announcement that Russia would pay no indemnity, came with all the force of a knock-out blow. The elder statesmen saw clearly that Russia could carry on the war financially speaking. Up to the time of the peace conference at Portsmouth, everybody had believed that Russia would be willing to help Japan bear the burden of the war by paying an indemnity.

Colonel Dixon, the talking horse, made a slighting remark about "Lively Lew" when he saw his temper because a girl threw a handful of confetti down his throat, another man raised a row because the gates are to be closed today, he had to be put out of the grounds at closing time and had only had time to see his wife and the attorney who was waiting all the afternoon the stars show at night; nobody kicked at the interference of the police; the governors were satisfied with the crowd; all of the shows were satisfied with their receipts; every child in Omaha was on the grounds or should have been.
