Contractor McGowan Tells Council He is Ready to Start Work

MISSOURI AVENUE PAVING IN SIGHT

Curbing Contractor Will Begin His Part of Job Monday and Hugh J. Murphy is Expected to Follow On.

At last night's meeting of the city council Adkins reported that John McGowan, the contractor who is to put down the curbing on Missouri avenue, would start work on Monday. Mr. McGowan called at the council chamber before the session was commenced and stated that on Saturday he would move his material down here and be ready to start to work on Monday morning. This was satisfactory to the mayor and council. The curbing will start at Thirtieth street and the contractor will work west on Missouri avenue. McGowan expects to complete the work in two weeks. Councilman Adkins will call on Hugh Murphy today and endeavor to have him get ready to start the paving just as soon as a block or two of curbing has been set.

The judicial committee reported favorably on a petition to establish curb lines on Twentieth street from G street to Missouri avenue. Permission was given the property owners to park or otherwise improve this section of Twentieth street. A petition to grade from I to J streets, between Twentieth and Twenty-third streets, was read and referred to the city attorney and city engineer.

An ordinance was passed providing for the grading of Eighteenth street from I street to Missouri avenue. The engineers were appointed by the mayor: E. R. Leigh, J. J. Ryan and John McMillan. The sewer bond ordinance calling for an issue of bonds in the sum of $250,000 for the construction of sewers was passed. A motion of Council Kiewit Architect L. A. Davis was appointed superintendent of the construction of the fire department headquarters building now being erected at Twenty-fifth and L streets.

City Engineer Beal was instructed to establish the grade on Twelfth street from J street to Missouri avenue. Herman Tombrink's funeral was held Friday at the late residence of the deceased, 1318 North Twenty-fourth street. Rev. R. L. Wheeler, pastor of the First Presbyterian church and Rev. George VanWinkle, pastor of the Baptist church, conducted the services. A large number of friends of the deceased attended the services and followed the remains to the grave at Laurel Hill cemetery. The floral offerings were numerous. One set piece was sent by the Woodmen of the World, and another by employees of Cudahy's office, where a son of the deceased is employed. The pall bearers were: F. A. Creasey, E. L. Howe, G. W. Masson, N. D. Mann, Thomas Geary and C. M. Rich.

Inquest Again Postponed. Only a portion of the testimony in regards to the death of Frank Miller was taken yesterday by Coroner Bailey. A postponement of the inquest until the afternoon of this morning in order to permit the attendance of witnesses not yet arrived from Fairbury. The coroner expects that the jury will reach a verdict this afternoon.

Mike Segment Arrested. Mike Segment, the saloon keeper who is wanted here for throwing Sophia Mattews out of a window at Twenty-fourth and U streets Tuesday, has been arrested in Chicago. When Chief Briggs received satisfaction that Segment had been successful in evading arrest in Omaha he wired the Chicago police to watch the Omaha trains. The result was Segment's arrest as he stepped from a train in Chicago yesterday afternoon. Segment has announced a willingness to return to Nebraska without requisition papers. A Chicago officer is coming this way in a day or two and will bring Segment with him. The woman is reported to be doing as well as could be expected.

Many Witness Parade. Hundreds of South Omaha people went to Omaha Wednesday to witness the Ak-Sar-Ben daylight parade. The public school children were dismissed at noon in order to permit those who desired to attend. The city offices were closed at noon and quite a number of business houses closed. Street car travel was heavy. Many extra cars were put on, but from noon until after 2 o'clock all northbound cars were crowded. A great many who went to Omaha remained to attend the carnival in the evening. Ordinance Not Enforced. Some weeks ago Chief Briggs called the attention of patrolmen to the riding of bicycles on sidewalks. Arrests were threatened, but none made. Now the practice is as bad as ever and boys and men can be seen at all hours of the day and night riding bicycles on the sidewalks. The police board is to be requested to again call the attention of patrolmen to this violation of a city ordinance. A few arrests and a fine would assist materially in putting a stop to this practice.

Magie City Gossip. Mr. and Mrs. Byron Smiley returned last evening from a trip to Colorado. Over 5,000 head of horses were shipped from this market to various states last month. Mrs. C. J. McDonald and children, Twenty-third and I streets, returned from Colorado, where they spent a week. Miss Margaret McDonald has returned from Dixon, Ill., where she visited friends and relatives for a portion of the summer. Fraternal Life association circle No. 49 will meet Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Anna Meyer, Railroad avenue and Washington street. Sunday at the South Omaha Y. M. C. A. picnic and ball will visit Council Bluffs and Ordway in the afternoon. In mentioning the construction of a store building in Albright by Pivonka Bros., an editorial in this paper has called the attention of the public to the fact that Katsky & Harding would build a general store in the building. The firm name is Katsky & Harding. The store will move into the new store on November 1.

The women of the Christian church are preparing to hold a rummage sale for three days, commencing October 20. Those having articles for sale are requested to leave the same with Mrs. J. M. Conaway, 202 North Nineteenth street; Mrs. A. L. Conaway, 208 North Twentieth street; or Mrs. G. W. Burch, 212 North Twenty-second street.

STRANGER IN POLICE COURT

Police Judge Lenient with Those Who Have Not Read the Rules.

Police court Wednesday morning had a distinct police appearance. Many of the prisoners assigned were strangers who had traveled many miles to the chief city of Chicago to witness the festivities and bend a knee to King Ak-Sar-Ben XI. Andrew Anderson, arrested by Detectives Mitchell and Davis on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, was discharged by the police judge. Anderson came from Stanton county, looked as if he had been a good boy and has nice folks, so the judge told him to go. Anderson was drinking out of a large bottle of a certain patent remedy on the public highway Tuesday morning when he saw Emergency Officer Devereux coming along. Devereux thought Anderson had a guilty conscience, so he told the detectives mentioned to chase the Stanton county man. When caught Anderson had a revolver and several loaded weapons. Anderson thought Devereux was going to rob him. Irvin Kizler, the Oklahoma boy with the cut fringe under his chin, was in police court Wednesday morning for the first time in his life. Kizler deposed that he is sixteen years of age, but young as a kitten in spirits. Kizler was charged with carrying a pistol and a loaded revolver. He was discharged and told to be more careful the next time he would be detained after school.

T. J. Farley was arrested at the unseasonable hour of 3 a. m. by Officer Shepherd. Farley maintained he could not find lodgings at a hotel that suited him. The man was discharged and told to look for lodgings at an earlier hour hereafter.

CONCERT AT BOHEMIAN HALL

Great Quartet Entertains Fine Audience with Splendid Program.

Bohemians from all parts of the state heard the concert given by Bohemian Star hall last night by the Bohemian quartet, under the auspices of Ted Jed Sokol. A thousand people were present and a large percentage of them were Ak-Sar-Ben visitors. The Bohemian quartet, which has an international reputation, is making its second tour of the United States. It has such fame among the Bohemians that the announcement that it would appear in Omaha last night brought several hundred people to the city who otherwise might not have come. The quartet sang a number of Bohemian folk songs, very simple, some of them, but songs to which the audience listened breathless, thinking of their native land. Among the numbers were the Slavic hymn, Kriszkovsky's "Utonula," Raff's "Fisherman's Song," Rossini's "Sweetest Darling," Saint-Saens' "Berenade" and Malin's "Song of the Bohemian People." Karel Seifriz, tenor, sang "I Love You"; Antonin Svojskik, bass, sang one of Dvorak's songs and Jan Novak, baritone, sang Novotny's "Folk Song." A duet, "The Bartered Bride," by Smetana, was given by Seifriz and Svojskik.

TOO SLOW FOR OMAHA

George Craig and Charlie Duffie Let Their Feet Drag and Miss a Bargain.

Had Assistant City Engineer George W. Craig and Charlie E. Duffie been a few minutes quicker Tuesday night they might have bought a $1,600 automobile for $135. Noting that the city had just bought a cylinder Franklin car for two seasons, was having trouble with the wagon in front of the Merchants hotel. He could not get it started. He fussed and fumed for ten minutes to no good purpose. At last he got angry and swore strong language. "If I could get this car I'd sell the blankety blank blank machine right now," he roared. His words were carried to Craig and Duffie, who were coming up the street. Both had wanted a motor car. Craig felt in his pocket for his check book and started for the Merchants hotel. Before he got to the hotel he saw a smutty-faced young man in an automobile cap had wandered along, noticed the trouble, asked for a small wrench, crawled under the car, emptied the carburetor of a lot of dirt and started the car on its way. Craig and Duffie were one-half of one second too late. Uptide told his Franklin again and wouldn't sell for less than $1,600.

NEBRASKA THE WRONG STATE

Not the Place for Cousins of First Degree to Join in Wedlock.

Two young people from Kansas, showing upon their faces the effects of a long journey, wended their way to the county judge's office Wednesday morning and asked for a marriage license. Before the clerk could even get their names the young man said they were first cousins. They merely glanced at one another and the clerk informed that this kind of marriage did not go in Nebraska, and after a consultation they were asked where the next state was located. They were headed in the direction of Council Bluffs, and by this time it is supposed they are Mr. and Mrs. Somebody. They came to attend Ak-Sar-Ben and the wedding was thought was merely an incident of the trip. Fatal Loss of Life. Results from throat and lung diseases. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure. 50c and $1.00. For sale by Sherman & McConnell Drug Co.

AT THE PLAY HOUSES

"Othello" at the Boyd.

"Othello" at the Boyd. Robert Mantell and Company in "Othello," a tragedy in five acts and a fine play by William Shakespeare, under direction of William A. Brady. The cast: Othello, a noble Moor in the service of Venice, by Robert Mantell; Desdemona, his affianced bride, by Harry Leighton; Iago, his sinister and cunning antagonist, by Alfred Hollingsworth; Brabantio, a senator, by Giles Shinn; Cassio, lieutenant-general of the Cyprian government of Cyprus, by Gordon Busby; Rodolpho, a Venetian gentleman, by Arthur H. Ebbetts; Lodovico, kinsman to Brabantio, by Edmond D. O'Brien; Gratiano, brother to Brabantio, by Paul J. Hamilton; Emilia, Iago's wife, by Emily Dadd.

Whatever Shakespeare intended, beyond writing an extremely clever play, may be left to conjecture for the present. In writing "Othello" he descended with much wisdom and feeling into the soul of one of those that has ever been popular with the dramatist. It plays on the elemental passions of primal man, and as civilization lies scarcely skin deep above those passions even yet, the portrayal of them on the stage finds ready hearing. It has nothing of subtlety in its composition, but comes directly to the point, and thus it touches home to even the dullest of wit and the laziest of understandings. So, then, "Othello" will be a play until man's nature is finally swallowed up in the good life. And then it may still be read, if not enacted.

Mr. Mantell gives a very faithful presentation of the play and the character, making a Moor in whose honest heart there was no room for two thoughts. His portrayal of the character of Iago is a masterpiece of good; it has its faults, and at points it almost touches greatness. It is chiefly to be commended for the fidelity with which he holds to the written text and to the best that tradition affords concerning the right method of expression for those gales of passion that blow a whole man from love to hate, from affection to detestation, from the heaven of a wife's true love to the hell of a cuckold's realization. His strong scene with Iago in the third act has been more effectively rendered by greater actors, but when he utters the expression of the rage that was later vented on his wife rather than on her accuser, again, he has adopted a method for the final scene that is effective from the standpoint of the merely theatrical, but which lacks warrant both in fact and art. It is the woman's fault, for a whole man cannot as Othello lived to deliver any farewell whispers with eight or nine inches of steel in his heart.

Mr. Leighton's Iago is a carefully studied production. It lacks in spontaneity and suffers much through the failure of the young man to invest it with that essential venom and rancor that was so great a part of the character. He delivers his lines with much effect and acts the part with a quiet insistence that does much to lift it above the ordinary. Mr. Hollingsworth's Cassio is hardly as commendable as his other efforts of the week. His one great scene being marred by a robustness of utterance hardly compatible with the remorse and shame he felt.

Miss Booth's Desdemona is a finely conceived and splendidly portrayed character. Her Iago is hardly as convincing as he carries here with excellent effect through all. Miss Dodd is also deserving of praise for her portrayal of Emilia.

HEBRON WOMAN IS INJURED

Telephone Lineman Drops Glass Insulator on Head of Mrs. Charles Gosschalk.

Mrs. Charles Gosschalk of Hebron, who with her daughter, Anna Gosschalk, came to Omaha to participate in the Ak-Sar-Ben festivities, is lying at the home of M. O. Headley, 251 A street, with a fractured skull. Mrs. and Miss Gosschalk were the guests of Mrs. Headley. They started downtown Tuesday morning with a party of friends. Before they had gone far a telephone lineman at work on the cross-arms of a pole dropped a heavy glass insulator. It struck Mrs. Gosschalk squarely on top of the head. She dropped to the ground unconscious and was picked up and carried into the Headley home. Dr. Ellis, who was summoned, said the skull was fractured, but was unable to tell whether the injury would result fatally or not.

CHARGE IT TO ELECTRICITY

Venerable Couple of Ak-Sar-Ben Visitors Mystified at Horse Show Kite Banner.

A venerable looking couple of Ak-Sar-Ben visitors was observed, standing at the corner of Seventeenth and Douglas streets, watching with interest the horse show banner floating high up in the air, attached to a kite string. The visitors could not see the kite and were intensely interested in the spectacle of the banner floating 300 or 400 feet up in the air, without any visible means of support. "How do you reckon it done?" asked the woman. "I don't know, but I reckon it must be done by electricity, for they ain't put no anything with electricity these days," said her companion.

ORDINANCE IS SURE TO PASS

Cornish Believes Council Will Enact Measure to Condemn Dumb Tract for Park Purposes.

Park Commissioner Cornish is confident that the council will pass the ordinance making arrangements for the condemnation of the Dumbout tract lying between Riverview park and the river and adding it to the park. He says: "A petition signed by about 200 south end residents was filed, saying that they did not want the extension, but I have filed with a number of the signers and find that they are not really opposed. As soon as the idea is explained to them they fully agree with me that we should have this addition to the park in order to protect the $125,000 we have invested there. I believe the new ordinance will have enough sailing in the council. One or two members may object, but I think the majority will favor it. We simply cannot afford to let the tract become filled up with smoke-producing and noisy industries. It has nothing of subtlety in its composition, but comes directly to the point, and thus it touches home to even the dullest of wit and the laziest of understandings. So, then, "Othello" will be a play until man's nature is finally swallowed up in the good life. And then it may still be read, if not enacted.

Dr. D. K. Pearsons Pays Compliment to MACH Discussed Head of Oil Company.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—"I would rather be John D. Rockefeller today, divested of his wealth and with his lovely personality, than any of the crew, saints or sinners, who are attacking him." The foregoing is a quotation from an interview published today from Dr. D. K. Pearsons, a Chicago millionaire, nationally known as a philanthropist. "Tainted money" continued Mr. Pearsons. "To the popular mind, excited just now by socialistic outcries, there is no wealth that is untainted. This cry of 'tainted money' is no just. It is unfair and not American. It has become the rallying cry of the socialist, the drone and the discontented member of society, who hates those whose talents of wealth exceed his own." Mr. Pearsons, after talking in this strain with vigor for some time, showed a recent letter which he had received from Mr. Rockefeller. Divested of personal items, it concluded:

"Thank you for your kind words. Good friends, I appreciate them. Life is short and you and I have too much in the world to be diverted from our purpose to try and make things better. Let us keep right on and do our best in our day and make the most of it. The beautiful sentiment expressed by you, 'Tainted money' will make toward now and charity for all. Since we have too much to care for."
