

NEBRASKA'S BIGGEST GAME

Eyes of the Cornhuskers Fixed on Ferry Field at Ann Arbor.

BOOTH WILL HAVE HIS TEAM READY

Starts Wednesday with Eighteen Men for Detroit, Where He Will Rest Until Saturday and Practice Signals.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 15.—(Special.)—The coming week is to be an eventful one from an athletic standpoint at Nebraska university, for it will witness the clash of Booth Cornhuskers and Yost Wolverines on the Ann Arbor gridiron. The annual conflict with the Minnesota Gophers generally claims chief attention at Nebraska, and there is no diminution in the interest in this year's Minnesota game, but sentiment is deep rooted within the student body at the Cornhusker institution that the Michigan game affords Nebraska her best opportunity to attain fame in football circles. A surplus of hardihood is required to predict that Nebraska is to prove victorious, but there are few, at least, willing to confess that Michigan is so not to be forced to the limit, and on this basis the enthusiasm of Cornhusker rosters has been keyed at a high pitch. Coach Booth and his squad, eighteen players strong, will depart for Michigan Wednesday night, laying over in Detroit until Saturday morning, and going to Ann Arbor only a few hours before the whistle sounds the beginning of play. The joints of the Cornhuskers will be limbered in Detroit by a stiff signal practice and Booth hopes to marshal his men on the Ann Arbor gridiron in condition to give the Wolverines a stirring tussle for the honors.

Knox Affords an Idea.

The Knox game last Saturday was more of a mud shower for the Cornhuskers than the stiff practice preparation Booth had hoped for. So far Nebraska has played four games, and in two of these Booth's proteges have been forced to disport themselves upon a sticky gridiron. Knox put up a snappy, aggressive fight, and the Cornhuskers were forced to work for all they got, but it was not such a game as Booth had wished. A dry field is an absolute requisite to the development of a fast offense, whereas the Cornhuskers and their opponents found themselves plodding along at a snail's pace with at least two pounds of black Nebraska mud clinging to each foot.

In many respects the game was fairly satisfactory. Knox charged Nebraska's line aggressively, retaining the ball nearly a dozen times on downs, and the Cornhuskers' defense was put to its only severe test of the season. Meanwhile Nebraska's offensive tactics were a force which the collegians could not stay. Taylor and Cotton, the big men of Nebraska's line, rained their way through the Knox forwards almost as they pleased and carried the ball many yards before being downed. Tackle masses also proved effective. Schmidt, Miller and Wilson, the halfbacks, being used to advance the oval on this formation. Michigan will present a much better front than Nebraska next Saturday, but the conviction is quite general in the Cornhusker camp that the offense of Booth's proteges will not prove wholly impotent, and there are to be some badly misguided prophets at Nebraska if the contrary eventuates.

Will Handle Their Work.

Booth is determined to drive his men at a fast pace in the practice this week. Only three days can be devoted to scrimmaging before the departure for Ann Arbor, but there will be no lagging and every moment will be made to count. The strengthening of the defense is to claim chief consideration. Michigan's charges are noted for their rapidity and Nebraska will likely be forced to the limit in the effort to check Yost's speedy formations. The potency of Nebraska's defense, in fact, will have much to do with the final result. If Booth's cohorts can hold at the crucial moment, one of the really stirring games of the year in western football circles is assured, for the Cornhusker offense is a force to be reckoned with in any forecast as to the issue.

Wolverines Working Hard.

ANN ARBOR, Oct. 15.—(Special.)—After the signal defeat of the strong Vanderbilt football team, probably the strongest team that the south has ever sent north to contest with a northern college team, the Wolverines are preparing for a hard week of secret practice and anticipation of a hard game with Booth's Cornhuskers next Saturday.

While the undergraduates, faculty and team claim to anticipate an easy victory for the Michigan team over Nebraska, the latter pretends not to share in their confidence. He said after the game with Vanderbilt Saturday: "Booth is evidently planning a surprise similar to that which he worked on Minnesota three seasons ago. He will sooner win this game than any that has ever been played by a Nebraska football team and he is working every scheme and plan to accomplish this feat."

"I do not take any stock in any of the reports which have been sent out from Lincoln, and I think that the small scores which have been made by the Cornhuskers against the weaker teams so far this season are part of a well laid plan on the part of Booth to throw the student body at Ann Arbor off the track and they have surely succeeded, not only in convincing the students that they have no team at Lincoln, but they have forced that idea into my team. Nevertheless I am on the line and will work the men hard in secret practice all week and try to take some of the overconfidence out of them. Over-

MONOPOLY OF CITY SALOONS

Los Angeles Citizens Offer to Buy All Saloons and Install New Gothenburg System.

Twenty-five prominent business men and capitalists of Los Angeles, advocates of the Gothenburg system of saloon regulation, held a conference recently and decided to incorporate a company which shall offer to take in charge the entire retail liquor business of Los Angeles.

For this privilege the company will offer to pay into the treasury of the city the present revenue derived from the sale of saloon licenses—$100,000 a year—and will close all but seventy-five of the 200 saloons. Here is the proposition of the committee of twenty-five men, who represent almost unlimited capital.

The company will take the entire two hundred saloon licenses issued by the city and pay the present revenue of $100,000 per annum, closing 125 of the saloons and running seventy-five.

SILENCE OF THE UPPER AIR

Awesome Features of a Balloon Voyage Three Miles Above the Earth.

The recent balloon voyage of two Englishmen in the Vivienne III, when they won a race in the air from Liege, Belgium, has attracted much attention, and the altitude maintained being three miles.

"It was dry when we started," said one of the aeronauts, Stanley Spencer, "but when we had reached a height of 2,000 feet rain began to fall heavily, sounding like the rattle of bullets on the case of the balloon. At 3,000 feet, however, we got above the clouds and out of the rain. Here the velocity of the wind was much greater, and we found that the higher we ascended the greater was the wind force, until at our highest point—three miles, which was reached after the sacrifice of a great deal of ballast—it was blowing nearly fifty miles an hour."

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Ordinance to Be Passed Tonight Revising General Indebtedness Bonds.

SEVENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS IN ALL Securities Have Been Drawing Six Per Cent Interest Since November, Five Years Ago, When They Were Issued.

An ordinance refunding $70,000 of general indebtedness bonds is to be passed by the city council tonight. These bonds were issued on November 1, 1900, and since that time have been drawing 6 per cent interest. The usual five years' option is printed in the body of the bonds, and for the purpose of reducing the interest the bonds are to be refunded at 4 1/2 per cent. There is no trouble at present at selling South Omaha securities at this lower rate of interest, while five years ago 6 per cent was demanded by bond buyers. These refunding bonds also will bear the five years' option clause. A date for the receiving of sealed bids for these bonds will be set by the council tonight and an advertisement for the sale of the bonds on the date determined on will be printed during the week.

The city officials propose to refund outstanding bonds just as fast as the five years' option clause becomes effective on all bonds that are drawing more than 6 per cent. In this way the annual levy made for the payment of interest will be kept down. At present the city pays about $2,000 annually in interest on bonds outstanding.

This interest account will soon be increased on account of the issuing of bonds for the paving of Twenty-fourth street. These paving bonds will draw interest at the rate of 4 1/2 per cent, and should reach here this week for the signatures of the mayor and clerk.
