cannot touch, and which must be reached by the force of public opinion. There are men who do not divide actions merely into those that are honest and those that are not, but create a third subdivision—that of law honesty; of that kind of honesty which consists in keeping clear of the penitentiary. It is hard to reach astute men of this type save by making them feel the weight of an honest public indignation. But this indignation, if it is to be effective, must be intelligent. It is, of course, to the great advantage of dishonest men of wealth if they are denounced, not for being dishonest, but for heing wealthy, and if they are denounced in terms so overstrained and hysterical as to invite a reaction in their favor. We cannot afford in this country to draw the distinction as between rich man and poor man. The distinction upon which we must Insist is the vital, deep-lying, unchangeable distinction between the honest man and the dishonest man, between the man and and the dishonest man, between the man and appetite. Above all we should treat with a peculiarly contemptuous abhorrence the man who in a spirit of sheer cynicism debauches either our business life or our political life. There are men who use the phrase "practical politics" as merely a cuphemism for dirty politics, and it is such men who have brought the word "politician" into discredit. There are other men who use the noxious phrisse "business is business," as an excuse and jutification for every kind of mean and crooked work; and these men make honest Americans hang their heads because of some of the things they do. It is the duty of every honest patriot to rebuke in emphatic fashion alike the only kind of "practical politics, and it is such a nation can with safety tolerate is that kind which we know as clean politics, and the wear as severe in our condemnation of the business trickery which fails. The scoundrel who falls can never by any possibility be as dangerous to the community as the scoundrel who succeeds and of all the men in the country, the

Cotton Still King in Spots.

So much for the general subject of industrialism. Now, just a word in reference to one of the great staples of this country, which is peculiarly a staple of the southern states. Of course I mean cotton. I am glad to see diversifications of industry in the south, the growth of manufactures as well as the growth of diversification of crops in agriculture. Nevertheless it will always be true that in certain of the southern states cotton will be the basis of the wealth, the mainstay of prosperity in the future as in the past. The cotton crop is of enormous consequence to the entire country. It was the cotton crop of the south that brought $400,00,000 of foreign gold into the United States last year, turning the basince of trade in our favor. The soil and climate of the south are such that she enjoys a practical monopoly in the production of raw cotton. No other clothing material can be accepted as a substitute for cotton. I welcome the action of the planters in forming a cotton association, and every assistance shall be given them that can be given them by the mational government. Moreover, we must not forget that the work of the manufacturers in the south supplements the work of the planter. It is an advantage to manufacture the raw material here and sell to the world the finished goods. Under proper methods of distribution it may well be doubted whether there can be such a thing as overproduction of cotton. Last year's crop was nearly 14,000,000 bales, and yet the price was sufficiently high to give a handsome profit to the planter. The consumption of cotton increases each year, and new uses are found for it.

This leads me to a matter of our foreign relations, which directly concerns the cotton planter. At present our market for cotton is largely in China. The boycott of our goods in China during the past year was especially injurious to the cotton manufacturers. This government is doing, and will continue to do, all it can to put a stop to the boyc Cotton Still King in Spots.

> BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 20 .- The chances that the police will recover nearly the whole of the $101,000 stolen from the Adams Express company in Pittsburg b Edward George Cunliffe, who was arrested here yesterday and taken to Pittsburg, Pateday, seems bright. Tonight $9.005 was found in a trunk belonging to a butler in a prominent family at Black Rock, but the butler and the family by whom he is employed are ignorant of the fact that the large sum found was within the house. Although there is a possibility that the remaining $10,500 has been destroyed the police are of the opinion that another accomplice of Cunliffe may reveal the hiding place of the missing sum. In round numbers $90,000 has been found within the last twenty-four hours. After figuring on about $500 as the amount which Cunliffe has spent or which was found on him when arrested, there is left a sum of $10,500 yet to be ac-

In his address the president said:

You can have no idea of how much it means to me to come back to Roswell, to the home of my mother and my mother's people, and to see the spot which I already know so well from what my mother and aunts told me. It has been exactly as if I were revisiting some old place of my thiidhood. It has meant very much to me to be introduced by Senator Clay. Senator Clay has been altogether too kind in what he said about me. Now I am going to say nothing whatever but itse bare facts about Senator Clay and those facts amount to this: If the average man I had to deal with in public life possessed Senator Clay's firm devotion to what he deems right my task would be so easy that it would not be worth mentioning. I have gone to Senator Clay for advice and counsel and help, and ever since I have been in Washington, just as I went to Senator Cockrell of Missouri while he was in the senate, with the certainty that all I had to do was to convince that what I wanted done was right—I could not always convince him—but if I did convince him that way.

It has been my very great good fortune How Money Was Found. The discovery of the money in the Black Rock home tonight was brought about by keeping a close watch on one of Cunliffe's chance acquaintances. George Eisenman, who was with Cunliffe when he was arrested yesterday morning. According to Elsenman's story he met Cunliffe in a cheap hotel Wednesday night, the two being together for some time. Cunliffe had a package with him and as the men were about to Eisenman to take the package, as it was laundry that he wanted to keep in a safe place. Eisenman took the bundle to his sister's house, 688 Nash street, and when alone opened it and found the big sum of money. Attempts to Bribe Captain. Two other new features of the chapter of events in connection with the capture of Cunliffe cropped out tonight, one being an attempt by Cunliffe to bribe Captain George Arnold of the local detective force and the other being the story of betrayal by a friend of Cunliffe for the purpose Presbyterian church, in which his grand- of securing the reward of $2,500 offered by father, James Bulloch, was once a leading the Pinkertons for his arrest. of the city. E. G. Cunliffe, the Adams Express empleye who disappeared from Pittsburg, Pa., with $101,000 and was arrested here yesterday, started back to Pittsburg with the detectives today. He seemed more lowspirited today than when first captured. He explained this by saying that he had hoped to arrange for lenlent treatment after reaching Pittsburg by trading on his secret as to the whereabouts of the stolen money, but the fact that the detectives recovered $80,000 of the money in Bristel, Conn., last evening removed the prisoner's lopes in this respect.

Cunliffe at Pittsburg. PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 20 .- E. G. Cunliffe, the Adams Express robber, arrived here tonight. A large crowd of people had assembled at the Union station to see the prisoner, but the officers left the train with their man at Homewood, six miles out, and brought him to the city in a carriage.

The fugitive was landed in detective headquarters at $:20 this evening and at midnight he was still there, presumably being "sweated."

No word of any kind could be secured from the officials beyond the statement that when they got through with their man he would be taken to the Central police station and that a commitment would be made out in the morning for his incarceration in the county jail

Erie's Shores Strewn with Wrecks. CLEVELAND, Oct. 20 .- As a result of the wildest storm that has swept Lake Erie in years wrecks have strewn the shore the entire distance from Buffalo to Detroit. The storm came with suddenness at an early hour Friday morning and continued without interruption throughout the day. At midnight tonight the wind's velocity, which reached fifty-four miles an hour at its highest point today, had decreased little in force and fears were felt that the reports of numerous wrecks received during the day did not entirely cover the extent of the damage wrought.

The storm swept the lake from one end to the other and every vessel that was exposed suffered to a more or less extent. The known losses, as enumerated tonight, include the following: Freighter Sarah E. Sheldon, beached and rreignter Sarah E. Sheldon, beached an wrecked near Lorain. Steamer Wisconsin, on rocks off Lorain. Schooner Kingfisher, beaten to pieces of leveland. Steamer F. A. Prince, damaged near Walter Metcalf, sunk off Breakwater crew rescued.

Several barges sunk off Buffalo harbor Steamer Prinkel reached Buffalo badamaged.
Barge Yukon, sunk off Ashtabula harbor;

Two of the crew of the Sheldon were lost off Lorain. The wreck of this vessel was the most serious of any reported thus far and the story of its experiences was thrilling in every way. The Sheldon left Cleveland with a cargo of coal Thursday night and was bound up the lake. Its troubles began in getting out of the harbor, and from then on until it was beached at Lorain it was almost continuously at the mercy of the tempest. After running ashore it was buffeted and pounded for over seven hours by the wind and waves. Two tugs from Cleveland, one of which bore the life saving crew of this port, succeeded in rescuing all but two of the crew. These two at tempted to escape in a small lifeboat and they were quickly swept out to sea and lost. The drowned men were John Fox, wheelman, and Charles Evans, second mate.

The vessel is a complete wreck. The big steamer Wisconsin was also a victim of the storm off Lorain. It left Lorsin for Teledo at 2:30 a. m., and was struck by the gale which held its head upon the rocks outside the breakwater. It probably can be released without great damage when the sea dies down.

The big passenger steamer City of Erie. from Buffalo, arrived two hours late and, being heavily listed, had great difficulty in entering the harbor here. The boat's officers report that the gale encountered all the way from Buffalo was terrific. The Erie did not leave on its return trip tonight, word having been received from Buffalo that the City of Buffalo, rister ship of the Erie, was tied up at that port on account of being unable to unload freight because of the sturm.

The gale first made itself felt at 4 a. m., when fifty-four miles an hour was registered at the weather bureau. It dropped to forty miles at 9 a. m., and reached its greatest velocity at 2:30 this afternoon when seventy-two miles an hour was recorded. The weather bureau predicted a hard blow all night and issued a warning to marine men to keep inside the breakwater. The regular passages of the Cleveland and Detroit boats for tonight were cancelled. The passenger steamer, Western States, due here from Detroit at 9 a. m., was sighted off port about noon, but the captain evidently feared to attempt the narrow passage between the rock-ribbed breakwaters and turned his boat toward the Canadian shore to ride out the gale behind Long Point. The big propeller, H. I. Wilkinson, the last vessel to make port tonight, reported the Western States about nine miles from Long Point and making fair headway in the teeth of the gale.
