Becks Show Evidence of Incompetent Work of Some Registrara.

SOME RECORDS NOT EVEN RETURNED

City Clerk Gillin Suggests Wisdom of Registering as Precaution Against Not Being Properly Recorded First Time.

An inspection of the registration books shows that the registrars are a long ways from being competent. This, of course, does not apply to the entire board, but at least to half of the precincts. In many cases the names of voters are so poorly written that it is almost impossible to decipher them. Neglect is shown in the matter of posting the books alphabetically and also in the registrars not signing the books as should be done. Some of the registration books used at the registration of September 19 have not been returned to the city clerk and this is also true of the registration of October 19. In order to complete the copies of the registration, City Clerk Gillin will have to get out to day, and bring in the books that have not been turned in. The fact that the books have not been posted makes the work of copying the lists all the harder at this

City Clerk Gillin makes a suggestion that for all voters who do not register on October 19, but are depending on the registration of September 19, to go and register again in order to be sure that their names are properly enrolled. The primary registration books are so badly mixed and the names in many so poorly written that the clerk thinks it far better for voters to take the pains to register again than to run the chances of having any trouble on election

"If voters will only take an interest in this matter and see that they are properly registered." said Clerk Gillin, "there will be but little trouble and confusion on election day.

Those City Hall Bonds.

An effort is still being made in official circles to dispose of the $70,000 bonds voted for city hall purposes. The bonds were sold when first offered to W. J. Hayes & Sons of Cleveland, but on account of litigation this firm declined to have anything to do with the issue until the case is finally disposed of in the supreme court. The fact that an appeal to the supreme court has been taken does not in the least deter some of the city officials from hunting around for a purchaser. So far no bond buyer has been found who is willing to run the risk of the supreme court declaring the issue void. If for no other reason this issue of bonds can be thrown voting on these bonds the vote cast in east of the tracks, as provided in an orwho are endeavoring to sell these bonds, jorities is past. surrounded as they are with all kinds of legal complications.

Driving Over Sidewalks. Within the last few weeks quite a num er of teamsters have been arrested for violating city ordinances by driving over brick or cement sidewalks. An ordinance prohibiting driving over permanent walks was passed some time ago in order to protect property owners who had gone to the expense of having good substantial walks laid. In nearly every instance those arrested for driving over walks have been fined by Police Judge King. Two or three cases of this kind are now pending in police court and will come up for trial this week.
