G. M. Hitchcock has a long standing grievance against County Treasurer Fink—that's very evident.

When talking of the action of the Federation of Churches Rev. Minot J. Savage is almost true to name.

President Roosevelt took a Sunday swim in Florida waters, but no alligator dared come within reach of his heel.

Judge Vinsonhair has made several attempts to resign in favor of his chief clerk, but he has never yet explained the reason why.

In arranging for a "square deal" with China Uncle Sam will take the usual precautions to see that the Asiatics do not "stack the deck."

The outcome of the election this fall will be decided at the registration booth. The party that registers most of the votes will get there.

In the death of Jerry Simpson populism lost the man who did more than any other to make its vagaries popular in Kansas; but, after all, he survived his party.

Japan's naval display in which captured Russian ships took part may not have been as barbaric as the ancient Roman triumph, but the vanquished pay the penalty just the same.

"By their fruits shall ye know them," is a favorite text of President Roosevelt and circumstances indicate that it is to be applied more closely than in the past to departmental clerks at Washington.

Drug clerks are in demand at Kansas City, Kan., since Governor Hoch closed 105 joints in one day. How prohibition must have been prohibiting in Kansas, with that many illicit saloons in one town.

With Santo Domingo in the hands of a receiver and Morocco rapidly heading in that direction, the sultan of Turkey should be careful how he treats the powers who want to administer the affairs of Macedonia.

The extent of railroad building in the west would indicate that the railroad managers either believe they have defeated the presidential plan for freight rate regulation or they are not so much afraid of it as they pretend to be.

Judging from the discharge of double-shotted editorials that are being fired by the Omaha Jack-ass battery one would imagine Chancellor Andrews and John D. Rockefeller were running for relegates of the Nebraska university.

South Omaha is preparing to add another quarter of a million to its bonded debt. Mortgaging the future is a very popular pastime in the Magic City, which confidently expects Omaha to assume all the bonded debt created by it.

While all the railroads now projected and under construction west of the Missouri do not lead to Omaha, they will all tap a territory that will eventually become tributary to Omaha and materially increase the volume of traffic in every branch of its jobbing trade.

The president of the Prison congress deprecates the existence of "lams" in the matter of charities and corrections in the United States; but he must admit that but for these "lams" the men who have studied the subject would be known as when the congress is called to order.

FAIR TREATMENT ON BOTH SIDES.

It is one of the very strong points in the attitude of Mr. Roosevelt toward the corporations that he asks for them absolutely fair treatment. There is no bitterness against them, no bigoted prejudice, no desire to crush them.

In respect to this the president made his position very clear in his Atlanta address. He pointed out the necessity for just treatment on both sides—on the part of the people toward the corporations and on the part of the corporations toward the people.

If the men in control of the railway and other corporations could be induced to accept these views and act in accord with them, there would be no serious controversy or difficulty in settling the questions between them and the public. It is because they persist in demanding conditions and privileges which are not fair to the public that there is an urgent and insistent call for regulatory legislation designed to insure the people fair treatment.

Having with him in this an overwhelming popular support the eventual success of the policy he champions is assured. The corporations, with their attorneys and creatures in congress, may be able to delay its realization, but their opposition serves to strengthen a public demand the ultimate triumph of which is certain.

LACK OF SKILLED LABOR. In most of the cities of the country there is a demand for skilled labor in excess of the supply. Building operations generally have been making fair progress during the summer, but with the approach of winter there is necessity for hurrying them forward and hence an increased demand for labor.

Not the least interesting feature of the campaign is the independent candidacy of District Attorney Jerome for re-election. He has made a fine record in office and has a large and enthusiastic following. It is a very lively contest, with the chances in favor of the success of the Tammany candidate.

NOTORIOUS TRUSTS. The Structural Steel Association met the other day in New York City to consider the advisability of advancing prices. After a lively discussion it was decided to make no change. If a majority of the members had favored an increase the cost of construction of buildings where structural steel is used would have been increased throughout the United States.

HAVERLY FOR COUNTY CLERK. The candidacy of D. M. Haverly for the position of county clerk should commend itself not merely to republicans, but to men of all classes and political creeds. Mr. Haverly is eminently qualified for the position and can point with pride to the record he made in that office during two consecutive terms that were terminated by his voluntary retirement four years ago.

When he was county clerk Mr. Haverly did not transact the business of his office by substitute deputies, but at all times during his four years' service not only actively superintended the work, but participated in it and assumed all its responsibilities.

ARMY GOSSIP IN WASHINGTON.

Current Events Gleaned from the Army and Navy Register. The war department has decided it may be more liberal in the construction of the law which relates to the militia allotment.

Triumph of Surgery. When you read that all the foot ball teams will be in condition to play on Thanksgiving day you get a chance to see what a great thing modern surgery really is.

Solace for Sorrow. A man in Dakota hanged for murder sang a song of his own composition on the way to the gallows. Such an incident must tend to reconcile many opposed to the infliction of capital punishment.

Disappointed Expectations. The gentlemen who have been convincing the president that he ought to change his views on the railroad question now say that they have succeeded. He has traded his former views for a set just a little closer knit than the others.

Genuine Regulation Demanded. No shams, however artistic and ingenious in construction, however attractive in appearance, will pass muster. The people are in no mood to be humbugged. The issue is clear and simple and there must be an open fight upon it.

War on Honest Graft. "Where did you get it?" drove Richard Croker from New York. Mr. Jerome has begun to ask the same question concerning Croker's successor, Murphy, and he will continue asking it until election.

Who Owns the Prescription? The question, who owns the prescription given by a physician to his patient? occupies in its discussion twelve columns in the Druggist's Circular. It seems that the physician, the patient and the druggist all have claims, which, however, are conflicting.

Man's Inhumanity to Woman. It has been judicially decided that a wife has a right to go through her husband's pockets while he is asleep. But now comes another ruling, that a husband has as good a right to keep a rat trap in his pockets to protect his money.

THE FINAL RESPONSIBILITY. Basis of Legislative Granting Traceable to the Voters. In the critical view of the people of the United States President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia college arrived at the principles where they do not exist.

PERSONAL NOTES. Colorado has set up a rather disconcerting habit of putting crooked bankers on the straight path to prison. James Riley, the dialect and humorous poet of Irish life, now a resident of Boston, Mass., is visiting southern battlefields gathering material for a new book.
