

THIRD CRAZY OVER CROWE

One More Person Demented Trying to Fathom the Case.

CHICAGOAN CLAIMS CAPTURE AND COIN

Shows into Chief Donahue's Office, Tells of Arresting Famous Man and Demands Settlement in Cash.

The third person to lose his mind by study of the Pat Crowe question appeared in Omaha Tuesday in the person of Carl Carlson, a middle-aged, red-eyed man who said he was a detective from Chicago and had worked every day on the Chicago kidnaping case since its inception in December, 1900.

Carlson claimed all the credit for the arrest of Crowe at Butte, although he did not explain his exact connection. In addition he said he had three confederates of Crowe under surveillance in Chicago, where they were ready to be taken into custody at any time. Chief of Police Donahue tried to lead the man back into the avenues of gain but without avail, and finally got rid of him by threatening to lock him up.

The first person to display signs of mental unbalance regarding the Crowe business was a French doctor of Chicago, who came out here not long after the crime and declared he had seen Pat Crowe change $15,000 in gold for paper money in Montreal. This man asserted that Jim Callahan was Pat Crowe. He gave the police and city authorities much trouble, on one occasion finally getting before the council and addressing that body.

Poor Woman's Nest. Only last summer a demented Swedish woman of Minneapolis, apparently about 30 years old, came to Omaha thinking she had important and exclusive information gained from the inmates of her boarding house regarding Pat Crowe and his whereabouts. Her case was rather pitiful, as she fully expected to pocket a large reward.

After several scenes at the city hall and court house this woman was induced to go back home. Not long ago the chief received a letter from a Minneapolis legal light, who said the woman had placed the case in his hands and asked for particulars. The chief wrote back he was surprised any lawyer or other person of a bright mind could listen to the woman unfold her tale without knowing she is crazy.

Carlson on arriving from Chicago proceeded at once to South Omaha, where he made efforts to see Edward A. Cudahy, but did not succeed. He then tackled the county attorney's office and kept the attaches guessing for ten minutes or so until one of the assistants had a bright idea and sent the crank to Chief Donahue with the information the chief was the man who would handle his case.

Visions of the Coils. Carlson blew into the chief's office with a light in his eyes that betokened delightful visions of a huge chunk of reward money. By way of preliminary he told the chief he would settle for $10,000, although he really ought to have $20,000.

"Ever since the day after the kidnaping I have worked on the case," declared Carlson in a strong dialect. "I am a detective and Mr. Cudahy knows I have put in every day on the case I have been successful. It was I who got Pat Crowe arrested and I have his three pals waiting now in Chicago. It was a long, hard chase, but I tracked them down. I followed them and they followed me. I have been afraid to five them up before because they threatened to shoot me if I did."

Carlson has been sending letters to Mr. Cudahy for a long time. He did not show up Wednesday.

WOMAN KEEPS HER PURSE

Chags to Pocketbook and Refuses to Get Scared at Drunken Culprit.

She was self-absorbed and very sweet looking. He was almost in the condition of a spoon that has been in contact with water. They approached each other from opposite directions, she with her purse held in her hand almost directly in front of her and elevated at a sort of absent-minded angle. As they got close together just below the Boyd theater he took an involuntary tack toward the "musing female." One hand went up as a sort of balancing pole, then came down plump onto the hand holding the purse.

"Why, shurly, 'f you don' need it; please 'cept 'n' thanks."

But as he started to foreclose on the purse in apparent earnest the girl said sharply, "You go away, you nasty thing," and jerked her hand from the threatened grasp.

"Oh, all right, all right, 'n' dear; this 's Hallowe'en 'an' way. Might 's known afore 't was 'n' bluff."

And he wandered along, while the girl quivered her steps and dropped her hand to her side.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Prospect of the Hammond Packing House Reopening Stirr the Town.

The bill for the five special policemen employed to assist in the reopening of Hammond on October 24th, has been ordered paid. The city has just received a warranty deed for lot 48, Sullivan's addition, which has been purchased to secure the opening of Thirty-fourth street through that block. The consideration was $180.

President of Company Sizes Up Plant

There is every reason to believe that the old Hammond packing plant is to be reopened and South Omaha is rejoicing accordingly. L. B. Patterson, vice president of the National Packing company, was in the city Tuesday with the ostensible purpose of looking over the Hammond plant with the view of its rehabilitation. He left for Denver Tuesday evening, where he will look into further packing investments in that city.

GRIP HAS CARRIED FORTUNES

Old Values at Postoffice Has Held Twenty Million Dollars in Its Time. "See that new grip or valise," said Assistant Postmaster Woodard at the post-office Wednesday morning. There is nothing remarkable about that particular grip, but we have just bought it to replace the old grip used in this office for ten or more years to carry the postoffice funds from the office to the banks. The old grip has conveyed more than $20,000,000 between the Omaha postoffice and the banks since it was in use. We have placed the faithful old grip in the vault where it will be kept among the valued archives of this office. It may be worthy of note, too, that there has never been a dollar lost from the old grip. This new one, a stout, brown leather one with heavy brass and steel mountings, is much stronger than the old one and I expect it will make a better record in the next decade than the old one has in the past.

CHAMPION BAD BOY IN JAIL

Youth Whom Captain Dunn Says Gives Police Most Annoyance Pleads Guilty. "This young man has given us more trouble than any other thief during the last ten years," was the testimony of Chief of Detectives Dunn in police court Wednesday morning when Raymond Nelson was arraigned on a charge of assaulting Mrs. E. G. Eckles, proprietress of a small store at 2211 Parman street, last Monday. Nelson changed his plea from not guilty to guilty and was sentenced seventy-five days. It was charged against Nelson that he entered the Eckles store on the pretext of referring to a city director and stole $5 while Mrs. Eckles' back was turned. A little girl informed the woman of the loss and before Nelson could leave the store Mrs. Eckles grabbed the young man, who viciously assaulted her.

Council Makes Big Record.

The records of the last regular meeting of the city council, just made up, comprise twenty typewritten pages, which is the largest record made for a year. The next meeting of the council will be Monday evening, at which time the current miscellaneous bills for October will be passed upon. All who have bills against the city are requested to file them with the city clerk before that time.

Male City Gossip.

Inspection of Postoffice. Congressman John L. Kennedy spent much of Wednesday morning going through the Omaha postoffice with Postmaster Palmer inspecting the needs and improvements, especially in the work rooms. Postmaster Palmer said: "While the office is about as nearly complete as it can be, yet there are constant and growing needs that must be looked after to increase the efficiency of the working tools of the office, and the best way to ascertain these is to make these occasional inspections."

BALDWIN FUNERAL PLANS

Arrangements for the funeral service and burial of Dan Baldwin have been completed. The service will be conducted by Rev. John Williams at St. Barnabas' church at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Members of the police department, Eagles, Ancient Order of United Workmen and other friends will meet at the undertaking rooms of Bralley & Dorrance, 27th and Cuming streets, and leave there for the church at 1:30 p. m. A platoon of police will escort the body to the grave at Forest Lawn cemetery, where officers of the local series of Eagles will conclude the rites.

Water Works Hearing Postponed.

The taking of additional testimony in the water works appraisal matter, which was scheduled for Wednesday afternoon before Special Examiner Charles W. Pearsall at the office of John L. Webster in the New York Life building, has been postponed to Saturday morning. The attorneys interested in the suit were engaged elsewhere and the hearing went over at their request.

CONCESSIONS FOR TRAVELERS

J. L. Timberman of Chicago, aside from his duty as a traveling salesman, is promoting a new organization of the traveling men of the United States. The name of the new order is the League of American Travelers. It was brought into existence June 25, 1905, and according to Mr. Timberman, has a large membership already. The objects of the new organization is to gain and hold more liberal concessions from the railroads and transportation companies.

The plan of the organization is exactly similar to the American Wheelmen. They aim to secure mileage books on a just and equitable basis; 1,500 miles for $20.00 flat covering all territory of the United States, east and west—no rebates, no signing and exchanging mileage for a ticket and no signing on the train. They aim to repeal all limited liability laws wherever in effect; to provide a fund for legal proceedings and to push legal cases. It will do that that baggage list shall be paid for at the full value thereof. To effect this they propose to organize with a membership fee of $1.00 and a yearly fee of $1.00 as dues. If one-half of the computed 6,000,000 traveling men join the organization it is thought that a new and powerful influence will be fostered and made effective among legislatures.

Mr. Timberman asserts that the traveling man is receiving much less than his rights in all these matters and that it actually costs him more than the casual traveler, when he should be riding for much less. The plan of the organization is simply being passed from hand to hand. There are no paid officials. No meetings are planned until each town has a stipulated membership.

WOMAN DRAWS A SURPRISE

Expected Package Would Contain Decree of Divorce, but Husband Got That.

Mabel Hooker Rochford, who was expecting to draw a divorce decree, got something of a Halloween surprise from Judge Sears. When the cause was called for trial the court allowed the husband, William F. Rochford, to amend his answer and to file a cross-petition. After hearing of the cross-petition was granted and Mr. Rochford got an absolute divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty and infidelity. The Rochfords were married in Omaha in November, 1903.

GREEN ELECTED PRESIDENT

Selected Head of Omaha Real Estate Exchange Against Five Other Candidates.

Officers of the Real Estate exchange were elected at the weekly meeting Wednesday. W. H. Green was chosen president by a vote of 23 out of 44, with six candidates in the field. R. P. Bostwick was elected vice president, H. A. Tukey secretary and George T. Moran treasurer. Charles Saunders, Byron R. Hastings and S. S. Curtis were the choice of the exchange for executive committee. No other business than election was taken up.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

In Judge Redick's court a jury is wrestling with the personal injury suit of John Coffey against the street railway company.

Burglars gained entrance Tuesday night to the home of Mrs. Gilchrist, 1713 Georgia avenue, by unlocking a basement door. Two rings, silver pin and a necklace were stolen.

Proposals have been advertised for by Chief Quartermaster Major M. Gray Zolinski of the Department of the Missouri for the construction of an additional sewerage system at Fort Omaha. The bids will be opened November 8.

While Walter Midgett, colored, was languishing in the city jail some one entered the room and stole a coat, T. Moran Midgett was fined $25 and costs in police court Wednesday morning when arraigned on a charge of vagrancy.

MUCH BUILDING IN OCTOBER

Sixty-Eight Permits, Entailing Estimated Construction of Nearly Half Million Dollars.

Building activity in Omaha was well maintained during October, according to figures compiled by Richard Grutte, chief clerk of the city building department. In the month sixty-eight permits for construction, estimated to cost $473,700, were issued, as against sixty-six permits, calling for only $232,200, during the same month a year ago, the gain being a percentage of 225. With the October totals the figures to date for the year are $3,652,014, against $1,253,560 in the same period of 1904, a gain of 88 per cent, or almost as much again.

October, 1905, was the largest corresponding month with the exception of those of 1887 and 1889.

The largest permits issued were for the Webster-Sunderland building at Sixteenth and Howard streets, $128,000; Union Pacific shop, office building, iron house and stripping shed, $60,000; seven semi-detached brick houses for Thomas Brown at Twenty-first and Cass streets, $24,000; Omaha Casket company, factory, at Seventeenth and Iard, $22,000; Fryer's hall, at Twenty-fourth and Parker, $9,000, and the large residences of G. Storz at Thirty-eighth and Farnam; Reichenberg Bros., Thirty-fourth and Farnam, and Charles Partridge, Thirty-fifth and Douglas.

Permits were issued Wednesday to C. R. Crozier, 263 North Twenty-fourth, $2,000 frame dwelling; Hastings & Hayden, frame dwellings at Thirtieth and Spring, $1,500; Twenty-seventh and Camden avenue, $2,000; Twenty-fifth and Mass, $1,500; and Twenty-fourth and Bristol, $2,000; William Parker, $1,000 addition to frame dwelling at 2533 South Ninth street.

THRASHER AT AUDITORIUM

Machine Will Work Eight Hours a Day During Implement Dealers' Exhibit.

All sorts of shows have appeared at the Auditorium, but one will be there November 14, 15 and 16, which will be a decided novelty. A full-grown threshing machine will be kept running eight hours a day during the three days' meeting of the implement dealers' association. Real grain will be put through it, too, for a short time each day. It is an all-steel separator of the J. I. Case company. The big wagon entrance of the Auditorium is barely large enough to admit the machine. The Omaha Electric Light and power company have agreed to furnish power.

Storz Blue Ribbon Bottled Beer, unexcelled for its purity and fine flavor.
