What is A Pang-Yanger?

A Pang-Yanger is a primitive village of tanners in the Catskills. Abijah Bead is the Pang-Yanger, a man with a strange sense of justice and revenge, who punishes his faithless wife by bringing her son to grow up in the community where she is best known that his startling resemblance will be a punishment to her. His purpose is overwhelmed and set aside by the irresistible impulse of his love for a Southern girl who comes to live in the mountain village near Pang Yang, and whose love for him awakes over his great nature like the forest fire which wiped Pang Yang out of existence. The Pang-Yanger's comments on men and things are a part of the entertainment of the book.

This is the kind of a story which, when you are once in the heart of it, you finish recklessly without laying it down. The author is Elma A. Travis, M. D. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50. All bookstores.

Mother Wants Her Girl.

Mrs. Wright, living in the south part of the city, has a very interesting matter which she has brought to the attention of the police. She said she sent her girl to school this morning, and that the girl's grandmother came to the school and took the child away to her own home. She wanted to know if the child would be kept from her. The grandmother already has the woman's boy. Both these children were born to a divorced husband, Charles Lower, and it is his mother who has the children. The courts gave the grandmother the boy in the first place, and it seems now that she thinks best to have both under her charge. It is said that Wright has deserted his wife and since then she has been in hard circumstances. However hard her life has been, it was said that she loved her little girl so much that she might send her away to school. The police gave her advice as to how she should find her child in the morning and also concerning the purchase of a new dress for the child.

Hard Luck on Farnam Line.

The Farnam cars were tied up twice last night in a most aggravating manner which the evening rush was on, the first time by a coal wagon which broke down across both tracks at 2 1/2 o'clock and the second time by the car which was stuck at 2 1/2 o'clock when one of the westbound motors burned out while climbing the hill near Sixteenth street. Again all the cars were at a standstill, for the car behind had difficulty in pushing the disabled one along. The car was finally started, pushed to Fourteenth and brought back to Sixteenth and then the cars were again tied up. The old fellow on the corner of Sixteenth, "A" couldn't happen any other time but when I wanted to get home. My wife is waiting for those groceries, and I'm hungry enough to eat raw beans.

Drainage Threatens California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—The weather bureau's report for October shows that California is suffering from excessive drought. Interests in certain sections of the state are alarmed. The drought is particularly North of the Sacramento river in particular the farmers' great losses in that section of the state. The usual fall rain season and the lack of moisture has caused the outlook gloomy. The last rainfall was on May 8, which was nearly six months ago. Only nine times in the last thirty years has San Francisco had a rainless October.

TWO ARRESTS IN GEARY CASE

Lewis F. Crawford and William Howard Apprehended in New York.

ALLEGED TO HAVE DISPOSED OF BODY

Crawford is Son-in-Law of Dr. James Bishop, Who Conducted a Lying-in Hospital in Boston.

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—With three men under arrest, one of whom is said to have made a confession, and four important witnesses on their way to New York to confront two of the men who are in custody there, local authorities believe that they are within a measurable distance of a final solution of the dress suit case tragedy of which Susan Geary, a Cambridge chorus girl, was the victim. The men in custody besides Morris Nathan, the girl's lover, who was brought back from Pittsburgh yesterday in a state of collapse, are Lewis W. Crawford of this city, a son-in-law of Mrs. Dr. Bishop, who formerly conducted a lying-in hospital on Tremont street, and a man calling himself William Howard. The first witness started for New York tonight in charge of Chief Police Inspector William B. Watts and Superintendent of Police William H. Pierce. The men are Joseph Berkman and his partner, Louis Vinsky, proprietors of a loan company; Meyer Rubin, another pawnbroker, and Timothy Howard, a hack driver. Berkman and Rubin claimed to have sold the suit cases in which the dismembered parts of the body were placed and thrown into the harbor, while Howard, the hackman, drove two men who carried two heavy dress suit cases to the Chelsea ferry.

The witnesses will attempt to identify Crawford and William Howard. The office of Dr. Bishop, with which Crawford is said to have been connected, was searched thoroughly by the police two days ago, but little of value was found. The police have been looking for Crawford ever since the arrest of Nathan in Pittsburgh last Sunday night. Crawford has been missing from his office here for several weeks.

Nathan, who was in such a weakened condition physically and mentally upon his arrival yesterday from Pittsburgh that he was taken to the city hospital for treatment, showed signs of improvement today. No effort was made to take Nathan to court for arraignment today.

A ring which was identified as belonging to Miss Geary has been found in a loan office, where it was pawned by a friend of Nathan's.
