CAITLE—The receipts of cattle this morning were rather small for a Tuesday, only 22 cars being reported in. The larger purion of the stuff consisted of feeders. omy 22s car's being reported in. The larger portion of the stuff consisted of feeders, with a small springling of fed cattle.

There was not a very large run of beef cattle this morning, there were only a few loads of corn fed cattle on sale, the largest portion of these were on the short-fed order, so that as a rule the buyers did not go after them very eagerly. There was a fairly good demand however, and the market was just about steady on the general run of stuff. Early reports from the Chicago market indicated a weak market at that point, but did not seem to have much effect on things here and it is probable that good choice ted beeves would have found ready sale at fully steady prices. Taken as a whole, the market on beef steers was slow and steady.

There was not an over supply of cows and helfers this morning, in fact not quite so many as yesterday, while at the same time the demand for them was good and active. Packers were evidently wanting cow stuff and were out in the yard at an early hour and with a good line of outside orders. The market was fairly active and steady, in some cases a little stronger than yesterday.

There was a fair run of stockers and steady, in some cases a little stronger than yesterday.

There was a fair run of stockers and feeders this morning, but it was not up to the size of the usual Tuesday run. There was a good demand on the part of local and jountry buyers, and the market was reason-ably active, with feeders generally steady.

Henraeulative sales:

12 cows .... I heiter.... 300 1 80 1 cow... 1070 2 06 6 feeders. 383 2 3 4 feeders. 383 2 50 J. Corey & Bro.—8. D.

S. steers... 1301 3 30 1 steer.... 1200 2 35 HOGS.—There was only a small run of loogs this morning as compared with the usual Tuesday receipts. The reports from ather market points indicated fairly large runs and also a decline in prices all around. Trains were late again this morning and he stuff came straggling in all during the orenogn, so that both buyers and sellers were kept guessing as to just how large he run would be. The general conditions any this morning at this point indicated a steady market, but still when trading spened prices were lower.

The market opened this morning with the market on hogs active and generally is lower. In spite of the small run at this point the buyers kept hammering away and aided by the large runs and lower prices at the other principal markets, succeeded at forcing prices down steadily. The bulk of the trading done vesterday, was done at 14.505 18, as against $4.8078, 9 yesterday, which a just about 5c lower than the bulk of the rading done vesterday. The top today was about 5c lower than the bulk of the fading done vesterday. The top today was a flower as a guinst $4.8078, 9 yesterday, also thout 5c lower than the burker of the stuation on the hog market today is as follows: Market active and 5c lower. Wool Market.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—The wool market is active and firm. Territory half-bloods continue in active demand. Fine clothing had a movement at 70fr72c. The short California and Texas wools are without much call, but Oregon eastern staple met with much activity at 75fr7c-clean. A new feature of the week has been the widespread demand for Australian lambs from the underwear mills. For the first time in the history of the wool trade, they are selling on a clean basis at the same prices that domestic territory is, namely, 75c. Pulled wools are doing a little better. Foreign wools are firm. ## WITHNELL WANTS AUTHORITY

Building Inspector Will Ask to Intervene in Hayden Building Construction.

Coroner Brailey Notified by Lumpkin's Sister She is Coming, but Hears Nothing from Mc-Namarn's Family.

Building Inspector Withnell will send a protect life and property.

Lumpkin and McNamara by Thursday, although the exact time has not been set. ing the bond company at the new Hayden building, have requested the inquest postmen present.

The coroner has received word from dster of Lumpkin saying she will arrive in Omaha Tuesday evening from Chicago, The coroner has wired the chief of police at Dayton, O., and the authorities Muncie, Ind., regarding relatives of Mc-Namara, but as yet no reply has been received.

"The arch on the third floor was only a ew days old, meaning that it was yet, to large degree, 'green,' and therefore unable to sustain the weight and impact of the first mass of debris. Had the third floor arch been a week or so old it would not have given way. I have had a thorough investigation made of the tie rod which broke and found a flaw existed in the center of the rod-such a flaw as could not have been detected without the use of a testing machine."

Regarding a report that a section of the freproofing fell on a previous occasion at the building it was pointed out by Mr. Gardner that such had been the case and that it was of but small significance.

PROTEST ON IMPROVEMENT Remonstrance Made by Property Owners on Cost of Grading Thirty-Third Street.

Twenty or more property owners in the Ninth ward have protested to the monthly Board of Equalization at the city hall that the levy plan for assessing taxes for grading Thirty-third street, between California and Chicago streets, is all wrong in that it takes in entirely too much territory. The job cost $2,297 and the result was to

In preparing the plans the engineering department included a section bounded by Farnam and Cuming, Thirty-fifth street and Thirty-first avenue. This the protestants assert is spreading the cost of the improvement altogether too far. Their spekesman, Attorney H. W. Pennock, delares that approval of the plan means a ment and there is no reason why they should be called upon to assist in paying for it.

BABY RAT CREATES PANIC Mouse Seampers Into Banquet Hall and Three Hundred Women Set Up Pandemonlum.

One small mouse was the big feature of the Young Women's Christian association banquet Monday night. Three hundred women were thrown into panic when the mouse scampered across the floor. The dining was half over and no untoward incidents had occurred thus far. When mousie came on it seemed every woman saw him first. These present and who were not too badly scared to be observant declare the pit scene in Wilson Lackaye's play did not possess anything like the thrills and commotion in the banquet room, Tables and chairs were crowded for stand-

Tables and chairs were crowded for standing room. Some of the girls threw themselves on the banisters and hung there breathless. Others climbed on window sills. Every possible means of getting off the floor was resorted to in a turnoil of screams and exclamations.

Finally mousis got scared and retreated and the women climbed down fearfully and endoavored to resume enjoyment at the cloth. Those who had nerves, however, lost seat in any further doings and went home as soon as they could. The mouse could not pluck up enough courage to return, and for the remaindar of the affair the diners were left in peace.

STANDARD OIL IS BLAMED Mr. Rockefeller's Company 5med for Life of Fireman Lost in Collision.

Augusta Lasher, as administratrix of the estate of Charles E. Lasher, has filed one of the most peculiar suits ever docketed in Douglas county. The Standard Oil company is named as defendant and Mrs. Lasher sues for $5,000 for the death of her husband.

Lasher was a fireman on a Chicago, Bur lington & Quincy train, which collided with Standard Oil wagon loaded with illuminating oil and gasoline, October 27, 1904. The collision resulted in the bursting open of the oil tanks on the wagon, and wher the oil and gasoline came in contact with the engine the cab and the front end of the train caught fire Lasher was so badly burned that he died within a few hours. Mrs. Lasher sets up that the collision occurred through the carelessness of the driver for the Standard Oil company.

"Trilby" at the Boyd. How popularity does languish with the years. A decade ago, when Trilby had a heart beating for her under every housetop and on every street corner, people could not pay out money fast enough to see her and the odious Svengali. And yesterday afternoon Wilton Lackage, the greatest Svengall of them all, and who created the part and made it synonomous with his name, drew only a few hundred to the Boyd. In Omaha at least the "Trilby" revival strikes no common chord. It would seem as though all the sentiment and heartburning was poured out en masse when the poor model was sent out in the world by

Du Maurier. Everyone is agreed that Lackage is great in the part of Svengali. The reason is because he makes you see the character of the musician clearer than you see him in the book. This is done for no other character. The dramatization of books is disappointing. Much of the etherial, evanescent quality which is so strong a factor in making any book appeal usually is lost in a stage version, and he who has been charmed by the volume finds fault with the play. This is the truth with "Trilby," and the single thing that the imagination and the book does not do better is Sven gall. Possibly Du Maurier, hating his villian, slighted him. But certain it is that all of the other persons are better realized and their motives and minds and sentiments better understood between the covers than behind the footlights.

But in Svengali Lackaye gives you new insight. You get the exact slimy flavor of his deviltry, his satante humor. All in all, the company played "Trilby" well. The small audience seemed thoring had Vaughn by the throat when the oughly pleased with it, and particularly shooting occurred.
