MILLARD IS NONCOMMITTAL

Declines to Say Emphatically What He Will Do on Railway Legislation.

HOPES FOR BILL TO PLEASE PRESIDENT

Asserts, However, that Published Reports He is Opposed to Roosevelt's Ideas Are Not Correct.

Senator Millard was shown a telegram from Sioux City, printed in a St. Paul paper, which draws the conclusion that he is opposed to the president's plans for railway rate legislation, because, he said, when he was asked if he would favor a bill embracing substantially the president's views:

"I do not want to be interviewed on the matter at this time. I am a member of the interstate commerce committee of the SENATE, WHICH IS CALLED TO MEET NOVEMBER 21 TO CONSIDER THE QUESTION OF RAILWAY RATES AS SUGGESTED BY THE PRESIDENT, AND TO TRY TO PREPARE A BILL WHICH WE HOPE WILL MEET WITH THE APPROVAL OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND OF CONGRESS. IT IS ENTIRELY OUT OF PLACE FOR ME TO SAY NOW WHAT I WOULD DO REGARDING A BILL THAT HAS NOT BEEN PREPARED NOR CONSIDERED BY THE COMMITTEE."

Declines Making Statement. The senator read over the statement that "Senator Millard has long been a railroad sympathizer, whose utterances left no room to doubt that he will oppose the president's plan to the utmost."

"I don't care to make any statement," said he, "except to say that the statement that I am opposed to the president's ideas is incorrect. Personally I am hoping very much that we can frame a bill which will meet with his entire approval." In an attempt to poll the senators of Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska a Sioux City paper ascertained that Senators Allison, Dolliver, Burkett and Gamble do not hesitate to place themselves on record as favorable to the president's promised legislation, but that Senators Millard and Kittredge decline to express themselves definitely.

NEW PASTOR IS INSTALLED

Rev. McBride Given Formal Charge of Congregation at United Presbyterian Church.

Rev. R. B. A. McBride was formally installed last night as pastor of the Central United Presbyterian church. Not only Mr. McBride's congregation, but many members of other churches were there.

Rev. C. M. Litchie of North Bend presided and preached a brief sermon on the text, "He that winneth souls is wise." He propounded the usual formal questions, by the answers to which the pastor took his vows. Then the congregation took his vows to support him. Rev. D. R. Turnbull delivered the charge to the pastor, taking for his subject, "The Pastor: His Responsibilities and Rewards." The charge to the people was delivered by Rev. Andrew Renwick of the United Presbyterian church of South Omaha. In speaking of "Heavenly Treasures in Earthly Vessels," he called attention to the fact that the pastor is only a man and needs all sympathy and help from his people. After the ceremonies the good hand of fellowship was extended by the members of the congregation.

AFTERMATH OF LOCAL FRAY

Various Explanations from the Mouths of the Vanquished.

CONGRATULATIONS POUR IN ON VICTORS

Interesting Bunch of Gossip Gathered Up in the Cold Gray Dawn of the Morning After.

Expressions by politicians ament the result of the county election all lean to the view that the republican party is stronger in Douglas county than it has ever been before. County Treasurer Fink gave it as his opinion that the election of the full ticket nominated at the primary indicates from this time forward all the republicans will have to do, after strengthening the primary law in a few spots shown to be weak, will be to nominate good men.

"The voters are with us even more strongly than the present result indicates," said Mr. Fink, "and when all of the electorate becomes familiar with the voting machines I do not believe the opposition will have any license to win in this county. This election, to my mind, presages a clean sweep in the spring."

"Don't quote me by name and I'll tell you what did most to do us all up," said one of the defeated candidates on the democratic ticket. "It was the complete show-down we got from the democratic party here to which we had a right to look for whole-hearted support. Mr. Hitchcock was so set on getting even with Fink for not giving him that scavenger advertising that he would not do a thing except hammer Fink and boost Fleming, and his very apparent personal vindictiveness hurt Fleming more than it helped him. Several of us had campaign matter prepared and asked the World-Herald to print it for us, but were refused space because Hitchcock had lines out with some of our republican opponents and really wanted them elected. If the democrats had a newspaper here in Omaha that would go to the front for them and take advantage of the news' weak points we would make a good deal better showing and occasionally come within sight of the fish pots."

"The democrats themselves did a good deal to help along the republican landslide in this county," said one of the democratic committeemen. "We made a tactical blunder in not having men on every point of the firing line. We didn't have a nominee up for county superintendent, nor any one nominated for justice of the peace or constable, and we handed the school board over to the republicans without a contest. We ought to have made nominations for every place on the ticket and in that way gotten more people interested. Every candidate has a few friends he can bring out and they all help. We started out lame and got left at the post."

Tax Commissioner William Fleming says: "There are no sore spots on me. I am thankful for what support I got and bear no ill-will for what I did not get. I am as good a man today as I ever was. The defeat was caused by a sort of irresistible republican impulse. It was too strong to be overcome. I know that many of my republican friends stood by me and I must have been knifed liberally by democrats. I have no fault to find with those who voted against me, nor any man for casting his ballot in accordance with his convictions and conscience. My term as tax commissioner does not end until next May. Meanwhile I will have plenty of time to make plans for the future."

City Comptroller Lubetk took his head dubiously when requested to furnish a clue for the annihilation of the democratic ticket and prestige in the court house. "Can't do it," he replied. "I don't know. I did not take a very active part in the campaign. What can any democrat expect to do against a republican majority of 5,000? I was offered a county commissioner nomination, with all expenses paid, but I was not interested. There is no use butting into a stone wall."

"It was the voting machines that did it," said Building Inspector Withnell, impressively. "Many a man wanted to vote for Tom Flynn, but was prevented because he was afraid to monkey with the machine. That is why not a single democrat crawled through."

"How could we lose?" asked Secretary Greevy of the republican county committee. "From personal knowledge of the forty republicans we had on the election boards I felt sure there would be excellent work, especially in the clerical line, and I was not disappointed. Then we had for chairman of our committee a winner in Senator Gibson. And it must be remembered that our treasurer is a member of strength as an adviser, and what he takes hold of goes, that's all."

All of the successful candidates are free in their expressions of approval of the good work done by Mr. Greevy as secretary. But Greevy himself lays his success to his training. "What I know of politics I learned from Mr. Edward Rosewater," he says, "and my services are always at the command of the republican party in any place I can serve it to advantage."

Friends of Sheriff Power were quietly remarking, "I told you so," they discussed the defeat of Tom Flynn. "His vote proves that Power and his friends played fair," said a warm friend of the sheriff, but an analysis also shows Flynn was weak when our man would have been strong and would have helped the whole ticket."

Congratulatory sessions have been the order of the day about the county building. Treasurer Fink held a levee that continued all morning, his callers including many democrats as well as republicans. County Judge-Elect L. Die also was the recipient of the congratulations of many callers. Deputy County Auditor Solomon, one of the new commissioners, was early at his desk and found a crowd waiting to shake his hand, the line of callers being continually augmented by people from the country as well as the city.

Praise for the voting machines is heard on all sides. The rapidity with which the vote can be cast and the absolute correctness and quickness of returns seems to have appealed with force to all classes.

The Tax that None Escapes

State taxes may be sworn off, but the tax levied by the railroads on everything you eat, wear or use, cannot be dodged, evaded or escaped. Such is the power of the railroad rate makers, as described in Ray Stannard Baker's first paper of "Railroads on Trial" in November McClure's.

SOUTHWEST IMPROVERS SMOKE

Social Features Combined with the Annual Election of Officers.

The Southwest Improvement club held its seventh annual election at Fred Zottmann's hall last night. A jolly smoker with music accompanied the election. The early part of the session was given up to a general discussion of matters of local interest. Councilman Huntington talked for some time on the matter of the recent gas contracts before the council, explaining at length his position and beliefs in that respect. Music was furnished by the Gate City trio, Messrs. Hughes, Owens and Overmire. While this was going on two members slipped out and brought in a fine upholstered mahogany chair, finished in green plush. This was presented with due ceremony to the treasurer, Fred Zottmann, as an expression of appreciation for his services to the club.

MUSEA OUT FOR COUNCIL

Another bit of municipal politics blossomed out Wednesday in the announcement by State Representative Mathew E. Muxen that he would be a candidate for the republican nomination for councilman from the Sixth ward. To get the honor he will have to down Councilman E. D. Evans, who has no intention of surrendering his job unless he has to.

ANNOUNCEMENTS OF THE THEATERS.

"The Hair to the Hoorah," which follows Richard Mansfield at the Boyd, Paul Armstrong has seized his opportunity to present certain of our sectional follies in juxtaposition, and derive from the resultant confusion a great deal of fun. Part of his comedy is in the fact that he has since the time of the Sixth ward election, and all of it is good, he plays deals with western and eastern types, both of the extreme, and the fun grows out of their efforts to get used to each other. Some of the play is almost farcical, but it is carried off so well that the audience forgets all this in his desire to laugh. It has some scenic effects, too, that are artistic in the extreme. Mr. Post is supported by the same company that made the play a success last season on Broadway.

Thief Makes a Good Deal

The residence of Herbert H. Neale, 540 South Twenty-ninth street, was entered by a lone burglar yesterday afternoon and a number of valuables were taken. The man entered by unlocking the back door. The family was away during the afternoon. Thirty dollars in cash, as well as four rings, of which one was a diamond, a woman's watch, two neck chains and two pins of value were taken. Two sets of silver spoons and a gold filled man's watch with chain were later discovered to be missing. The value of all these articles is close to $200. The police think they have a good line on the thief and hope to land him in jail before long.
