GOVERNOR PROCLAIMS THANKSGIVING

Attorneys for County Judge Vinson-haler Insist Inheritance Case Was Decided Before It Was Submitted to the Court.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 14.—(Special.)—Last night at 7:30, according to a report filed in the governor's office this afternoon by Warden A. D. Beemer, William Jones and Fred Smith, two trustees or "runners," assaulted Night Keeper Jay G. Cooper at the west end of the west cell house, bound and gagged him, and attempted to saw their way through the steel window bars to liberty.

Jones is a colored man, sentenced from Omaha in 1901 for burglary. Smith was sentenced, recently, in Buffalo county for burglary. He is a pugilist and is known also as Denver Kid. The two men have been allowed the freedom of the cell-house. When the keeper made his inspection of the cell block they were not until he reached the west end, which is away from the entrance, where the guards are posted, and pounced upon him.

The latter saw Cooper freeing himself and ran back to the attack aided by Jones, who left his place in the window. Cooper struggled with the men and loosened the gag until he could cry out. The guard came immediately. The men submitted quietly.

The warden reports that no one is to blame for the occurrence and compliments Cooper for his grit in giving the alarm, although he points out the fact that the men would have been detected by the outside patrol had they cut through the window bars.

Proclaims Thanksgiving.

Today Governor Mickey issued his Thanksgiving proclamation. He calls attention to the general public awakening against graft and for new legislation against it. The governor says:

The flight of time reminds us that another year is rapidly drawing to a close and soon will have passed into history. It has been a year crowded with blessings for the American people. Without war and peace with all nations, while within the evidence on every hand of unexampled prosperity and contentment. As a people our triumphs abroad have been strikingly exemplified by the successful outcome of the peace negotiations in Europe. In Japan, instituted and persistently urged by President Roosevelt, an incident which emphasizes the peace-loving character of our diplomacy and the commanding position to which we have attained as a world power.

At home there has been a steady development of our material resources. Manufacturing industries have prospered, the earth has yielded bountifully to the efforts of our husbandmen, the laborer has found steady employment at a good wage. Here in our own state the conditions have been most favorable. Our crops were never better, the demand is such as to yield fair prices. Destructive storms have wrought but little damage and pestilence is unknown. The spiritual life of the country has also been quickened. In all parts of the country there is manifest a notable awakening of public sentiment in suppression of aviation, graft and greed, a movement which must culminate in the enactment of more wholesome laws and the ultimate purification of the body politic. For all these blessings we are profoundly grateful.

As an evidence of our gratitude and in recognition of the services of our statesmen, John H. Mickey, governor of the state of Nebraska, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 23, 1905, as a day of general thanksgiving. Upon that day let the people assemble in their customary places of worship and participate in such services as will indicate the gratitude of their hearts for the manifold mercies of our Heavenly Father and His merciful assistance in the future. Around the hearth and at the table let us give thanks for the bounty of our God be the topic of thought and let all the people praise Him.

Has Narrow Escape.

Tom Dunn, a linotype operator, narrowly escaped asphyxiation this morning from escaping gas. Workmen have been installing gas pipes in his house at 234 R street and one of them opened into the room to which he retired when he returned from his work early this morning. The workmen turned on the gas, not knowing that there was an open pipe in Dunn's room. His groans awakened his wife, who summoned assistance. The man was resuscitated.

May Have to Fly.

Land Commissioner Eaton has received notice from some of the lessees of state school land in the Dismal forest reserve that they have been warned not to trespass on the government tract, which will be made it impossible to get in and out from the school sections. The state official has addressed a letter of inquiry to the government officials to learn whether or not the settlers are to be marooned.

Case Decided Before Submitted.

The attorneys for County Judge Vinson-haler in the inheritance law case, which was recently decided against him, have filed a motion for a rehearing, alleging that the supreme court decided the case before it was submitted and that on the same day that the card apprising the counsel of the decision was received another notified them of ten days' additional time in which to file briefs. It is urged against the ruling that the court failed to follow Nebraska precedents, which hold that the revenues provisions of the constitution are subjected to an implied limitation which would make the enactment of the inheritance tax law illegal.

"The decision in this case was rendered before the submission of the case," the lawyers allege in their brief. "The opinion was prepared under a misapprehension of the condition of the record and before counsel on behalf of respondents had been given an opportunity to present their case."

The lawyers say that the unfavorable decision is due to the heavy pressure of litigation. "We have a firm conviction that the rapidly with which this court is forced to reach its conclusions, because of the pressure of work under which its labors, had led the court into a serious misconception of our constitution, which will, if this decision is allowed to stand, be far-reaching in its evil effects, and we therefore earnestly urge upon the court the wisdom of granting a rehearing."

Two Superintendents Out.

State Superintendent McErien announced today that, after consultation with the attorney general, he has decided that the two county superintendents-elect who did not have first-grade certificates on election day cannot qualify. The names of the persons and the counties in which they received a majority of the votes are withheld, but he states that the counties are large and have numerous teachers who would have been qualified. He leans toward the theory that the present incumbents, who are properly qualified, will hold over until the next election. He said that it is probable that the minority candidates who were qualified will claim the offices on the ground that those who were without certificates had no right to have their names submitted to the electors.

McErien scolds the suggestion that the new certification law is invalid because it imposes conditions on candidates for county superintendency. He said today that the superintendents are not constitutional officers and that the legislature therefore has power to prescribe any reasonable qualifications for the office.

Accused Ex-Officials Get More Time.

Today O. M. Routhahn, former chief of police, and W. A. Bentley, former city auditor, who are charged with grafting, secured continuances until December 12. They appeared before Justice Stevens, accompanied by their attorneys, and asked for further time to prepare their cases. One of their attorneys is George A. Adams, the former mayor to whom they owed their appointments. The accused men have not made any statement as to their defense, but it is understood that they will attack the credibility of the witness from whom they are alleged to have collected blackmail and bribes.

BRIDGING PLATTE IS SLOW WORK

Great Northern Has Large Force of Men at Work.

FREMONT, Neb., Nov. 14.—(Special.)—Work on the Great Northern bridge, which it looks doubtful if trains will be running much before February. The bridge across the south channel of the Platte is ready for the ties and rails. On the north channel, which is about 700 yards across, the pile drivers are at work, one on a sand bar and one at either end. At the north end the approach of about 100 yards is finished and about 125 yards driven out in the stream. But little work has been done on the sand bar and about seventy-five yards at the south end.

Two big clam shell dredgers are at work near the south bank dipping up gravel near the south end of the bridge. Each scoop will lift over a ton at a load and many trainloads are already piled up ready for use. Work is nearly completed on the bridges north of the city.

RULERS OF THE WORLD

Meat Eating Nations Are the Leaders in Every Branch of Human Progress.

The ruling nations of the world are meat eaters, and history records that they always have been.

Vegetarians and food cranks may explain this in any way they choose, but the fact remains that the Americans, English, French, Germans and Germans are meat eaters, and they are also the most energetic and most progressive.

The principal food of the heroic Boer soldier, known as Billong, is a sort of dried beef, affording a great deal of nourishment in a highly concentrated form.

It was weak races of people are the rice eating Chinese, Hindoos and Siamese, regarded since the dawn of history as non-progressive, superstitious and inferior physically and mentally to the meat eating nations, who dominate them.

The structure of the teeth plainly indicates that human beings should subsist upon a variety of food, meat, fruit and grains, and it is unhygienic to confine one's diet to any one of these classes to the exclusion of another.

Meat is the most concentrated and most easily digested of foods, but our manner of living is often so unnatural that the digestive organs refuse to properly digest meat, eggs and similar nutritious and wholesome food, but it is not because such food is unwholesome, but the real reason is that the stomach lacks, from disease or weakness, some necessary digestive element, hence arising indigestion and, later on, chronic dyspepsia.

Nervous people should eat plenty of meat, convalescents should make meat their principal food, hard working people have to do so and brain workers and office men should eat not so much meat, but at least once a day, and to insure its proper digestion one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets should be taken after each meal, because they supply the pepsone, diastase and fruit acids lacking in every case of stomach trouble.

Nervous dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, gastritis, sour stomach, gas and acidity are only different names for indigestion, the failure to digest wholesome food, and the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cures them all, because, by affording perfect digestion, the stomach has a chance to rest and recover its natural tone and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the real household medicine; it is as safe and pleasant for the stomach of the baby as it is for the imperfect digestion of its grand-uncle.

They are not a cathartic, but a digestive, and no pill habit can ever follow their use; the only habit Stuart's Tablets induce is the habit of good digestion, and, consequently, good health.

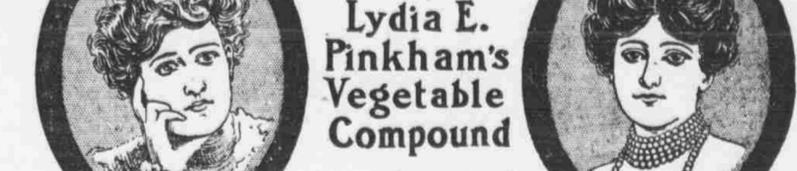

Social Tragedy

Women Who Brave Death for Social Honors.

In the midst of one of the most brilliant social functions of the season, a noted society woman started suddenly from her chair with a scream of agony and fell insensible to the floor.

A few hours later the distinguished physician told her anxious husband that she was suffering from an acute case of nervous prostration brought on by female trouble, and hinted at an operation. Fortunately a friend advised her to try

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The result was that she escaped the surgeon's knife and to-day is a well woman.

The derangement of the delicate female organism sets every nerve in the body quivering with pain. Headaches, backaches, torturing bearing down pains and dragging sensations make women nervous and hysterical.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was troubled for eight years with irregularities which broke down my system and brought on extreme nervousness and hysteria. I could neither enjoy my meals nor sleep nights, became easily irritated and nervous and very dependent. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proved to be the only medicine which helped me. After taking the third bottle, my general health began to improve. At the end of the fifth month I was well and could attend to my household and social duties and enjoy life. Mrs. CHESTER CURRY, 42 Saratoga Street, East Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Curry, whose portrait appears on the right, is the leader of the Ladies' Symphony Orchestra. The following letter is from Miss Goode, President of the Bryn Mawr Lawn Tennis Club of Chicago:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I tried many different remedies to try to build up my system, which had become run down from loss of proper rest and unreasonable hours, but nothing seemed to help me. Mother is a great advocate of Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles, having used it herself some years ago with great success. So I began to take it, and in less than a month I was able to get out of bed and out of doors, and in three months I was entirely well. Really I have never felt so strong and well as I have since.
