Of those I met at the en-campment there were undoubtedly many who would make good field soldiers under proper guidance, but they must first have time for training, and the experience, to fully appreciate the work required. In the short time I was with them, among so many. I feel that I can not in justice to myself, nor to them, single out individuals for special commendation or depreciation. To condemn upon such short acquaintance would not be fair to them, and to com-mend under such circumstances would be but little more than flattery. The barn contained fifteen head of horses, 100 tons of hay, 800 bushels of oats, about fifty bushels of corn, twelve sets of double harness, three sets of single harness and in the barn and adjoining sheds were stored all the farm machinery. The barn and sheds with their entire contents were destroyed. Nothing could be saved, as the windmill tower was on fire and the well could not be used. The loas, it is claimed, will exceed $5,000, which was covered by only $3,000 insurance. As the carcasses of three or four horses could not be found after the fire, it is believed the horses were stolen and that the thieves fired the harn to prevent the theft being discovered. I made a careful inspection of it on Sun-day, the 13th, and though I only found a few men, about half a dozen sick in the hospital. I found an establishment in every way creditable. It was neat, orderly and complete for its purpose. Two hospital tents were used for the sick, and it was at no time crowded. Besides this inspec-tion, I casually observed its workings every day.
