Salendar for the Current Week Has a Mid-Season Aspect.

MANY IMPORTANT AFFAIRS ANNOUNCED place sometime during the winter.

Some of the Smartest Functions of the Season Are on the List and Others Are Expected to Develop.

A Coquette. west, coquettish little nose, The feature of a face like this, Yould win a prize in baby shows, And tempt from womankind a kiss

I like the straight nose; but, above All classic noses, I have learned To like, to venerate, to love, The saucy nose a bit upturned.

A nose that has a danty tilt
Charms greater than the aquiline.
Which is for queenly beauty built;
The girlish nose is more divine.

It fairly makes one's head whirl to think of all the things in prospect this week, and the person who does not keep a calendar in likely to get into trouble. Not for months have the prospects been so bright. There is something planned for every set and every clique, every day, and the week has not yet begun. Conspicuous among the entertainments scheduled is a series of luncheons and dinners to be given in honor of Miss Marguerite Pritchett, whose marriage to Mr. John L. Kennedy takes place next week. The dancing party has come back into favor again and at least three popular clubs that disbanded two seasons ago have reorganized for a series of more or less formal parties to be given during the winter. The whist clubs that weathered the heat of just August are still meeting. and a few of those that have come to be regular organizations have resumed their weekly or fortnightly contests, as the case may be, but there are practically no new clubs this season, which may be taken as an indication that bridge is not as popular as it was a year ago, but more likely that everybody already belongs to as many clubs as can be taken care of.

Other provision having been made for the benefit of the Newsboys' Home, the charity ball planned for that object has been given up. A number of women have interested themselves in the case of Molly Marshall, the blind girl who was to have been the other beneficiary and a committee including Mrs. Herman Kountze as chairman, Mrs. E. A. Cudahy vice chairman, Mrs. George A. Joslyn treasurer, and Miss Buelah Sharp as secretary, will endeavor to raise a fund for her benefit. They have authorized the following persons to receive contributions and any amount from 10 cents up will be acceptabank, Mrs. Albert Fuller, Mrs. A. B. Mc-Connell, Mrs. James McKenna, Mrs. Rome Samuel Burns, Mrs. E. V. Lewis, Mrs. Howard Baldrige, Mrs. F. afternoon. P. Kirkendall, Mrs. Charles A. Sweet, Mrs. J. J. McMullen, Mrs. Ralph W. He will join his regiment at San Francisco at the expiration of his leave and will accompany it to the Philippines. A story by Miss Edith Barabee Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Lewis of Lincoln and a niece of Mr. Homer P. Lewis, formerly of Omaha, appears in Collier's of November 18. It is entitled "Chains of Darkness," and is a prize story. It is a tale of "a college graduate and the cold, cold world." Miss Lewis has many Omaha frientis who will be interested n her future productions. There will be a number of suppers given at the Omaha club next Thursday evening after the Bispham concert at the Lyric, and it is the request of the steward of the club that orders for tables be placed as early as possible in the week. One of the supper parties is to include Mr. Bispham, Mme. Shotwell-Piper, who is a famous beauty, Mme. Kutherine Fisk and Mr. and Mrs. Kelly-Cole, who sing that night.

Weddings and Engagements. The wedding of Miss Marguerite Pritchtt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Pritchett, and Mr. John L. #### WOMAN IN CLUB AND CHARITY

The Council of Jewish Women will hold its fourth triennial meeting at Chicago, December 4 to 12. From all parts of the United States and from Canada delegates have signified their intention of attending and it is expected that the convention will be the largest yet held. The council was organized in 1898 and was the outgrowth of the Council of Jewish Women held as a part of the Parliament of Religious at the Columbian exposition. The possibilities of a permanent organization were so evident that a national society was formed, this being extended to international when two large organizations were formed in Canada. The Chicago meeting was the first delegated body of Jewish women ever called together to represent their religion. The first section was formed in Chicago in 1894, but before the end of that year here were thirteen sections, and today there are seventy-eight sections in more than twenty states. The original object of the council was to bring about closer relations between Jewish women who, theoretically at least, have had their interests confined to the family circle and had never taken part as a class in public movements, however prominent individuals among them have been. Other objects of the council, as stated in the constitution, are: "To further by an organic union a medium of comnunication and a means of prosecuting work of common interest; to further united effort on behalf of Judaism by supplying neans of study; to furnish united effort or sehalf of the work of social reform by the application of the best philanthropic thought." The purely cultural side of the work has for its object better knowledge of the Bible, Jewish history and literature, affairs and conditions.

The largest work of the council is philanthropic, starting with a close and well sysematized study of modern methods of philanthropy and reform, the study of preventive measures as embodied in juvenile courts, homes for wayward or orphaned children, improved conditions of housing open air treatment for consumption, etc. The immigration problem is one of the branches that has been followed most closely by the New York section and an effort is being made to do something to relieve the congestion in eastern cities resulting from immigration. Sections in all the cities of the east are aiding in placing and looking after Russian and Roumanian families who have fied from their native countries and are too frequently in dire need upon their arrival here. The council s very broad in its sympathies and its policy is to co-operate and affiliate with any and all forces at work for the betterment of society. Its sections are members of the state and city federations of clubs The Omaha Guards will give their next and the national body is affiliated with the medal drill and hop Monday evening, No- International Council of Women. The Association of Masters in Dancing has endorsed this wallz and it bids fair to be popular all over the country.

Read what a Boston paper has to say about this dance: "The Roosevelt is fast growing in favor all over the country. The Dancing Masters Association has endorsed it, and are teaching it to their pupils. They are delighted with it and say it deserves to be popular for itself, wholly aside from the certain vogue it will enjoy because of its name." MR. AND MRS. MORAND will introduce this waitz for the first time in Omaha at their next Wednesday assembly. The best dancers attend regularly, therefore they will be able to learn it ahead of any one else in the west. So, first nighters do not fail to be present.
