TIPPING OFF THE MARKET

Prefitable Game Worked by Regular Bureaus on Wall Street.

in the way of lighter comment, reference is made occasionally to the "tipping bu-reaus" of Wall street, and it never fails to bring in one or more letters asking the financial editor kindly to recommend some crustworthy purveyor of speculative advice at so much per week. The last time it happened, one letter came from a man in a little village of the far northwest. whose manner of making the request betrayed total ignorance of stock market speculation. Other letters on the same errand, however, have come from men avidently in touch with the world and its affairs-physicians, merchants, lawyers, etc. seems almost incredible that any intelligent person should expect a tipping burean for a fee of $10 or $15 a week to furnsh its subscribers with a dhily budget of coney-making advice, but that is what the tipping bureau undertakes to do, and the fact that a number of such bureaus conlinue to do business year after year and ndvertise extensively is proof enough that they find enough dupes to make the pre iense profitable. If the alleged information which a tipping bureau purveys at so much per week is trustworthy, it is cer-tainly too valuable to sell, and if it is antrustworthy It is not only valueless, but a source of loss to those who may act upon it, and yet there are people who will send in $5 or $10 for the name of a stock that is going to advance 30 points, without inquiring why the man who advertises such information for sale does not play it himself instead of peddling it out to others.

The head of a tipping bureau will not argue the point if you corner him. He will only bluster and point to his "record on the market," and his record will show, not that he has been right most of the time, but that he has been right all of the time; that his advice is infallible. That is the perfection of the science of tipping-to be right all the time no matter what the market may do. The market is doing something all the time, and it goes neither up or down without frequent reversals. A bull market has its setbacks and a bear market its recoveries, and the tipster is able to show you, by his own predictions, that he foresaw every one of these ups and downs. His predictions, of course, have been artfully two-sided, but you were to have attended only to the main prediction if it happened to go right, and only to the qualifications with which it was hedged bureaus, before, but the advertising feature of the business had been neglected. It remained for a man who knew human nature and nothing about the stock market to discover the possibilities of advertising. He borrowed $5 to pay for the insertion of his first small advertisement. It brought him in something like $25, out of which he paid back the $5 he had borrowed and put the remaining $20 into advertising space; that brought him in nearly $100, of which he put $80 into advertisement. pearly $100, of which he put $80 into advertising, and so on as rapidly as the teturns grew, until at the end of a few months he was spending several thousand dollars a week in advertising. All this time he was advising people to buy stocks. He knew only that people wanted to buy, and he supposed it was a bull market. It was a bull market. His business continued to tising, and so on as rapidly as the returns a bull market. His business continued to grow until it became so large that he arranged a code with his subscribers. Instead of sending them letters each day they were to read his advertisements each morning to know what thy should buy that day. Certain words, meaningless without the subscriber's key, meant certain stocks. In less than two years this man cleared $250,000 and gave the business. man cleared $250,000 and gave the business finally went broke buying Chicago & Northwestern at the top of the bull market. His sensational success has never been repeated. He seized the psychological mowas in line with the biggest bull market there has ever been. Stranger than the simplicity of the outside public that is only occasionally in the market is the fact that many habitual followers of the stock market speculation regularly subscribe to a tipping bureau and are influenced by its advices. In almost every bucket shop in the country the daily dvisory service of some Wall street at Wilson college, died from paralysis tobureau is obtained for the benefit of the lients and even small brokerage houses in kinds of markets are those that have per- Remedy. There is no danger from it, and advice they want and of so balancing their tended especially for coughs, colds, croup f the established tipping bureaus have always a strong leaning toward the bull side of the market. Not long ago a new star appeared in the tipping firmament. He was a tremendous bull and had a dizzy ise, subscribers flocking to his call. Then he turned suddenly to the bear side of the market and because his predictions were not forthwith fulfilled his following deserted him abruptly. People will wait for bullish predictions to come true, but with it in the For Exchange column on The Ree bearish predictions, which are unpopular to begin with, they have very little patience. When one who sells speculative advice takes a position from which he cannot retreat he risks his reputation and stands to lose his following if he is wrong. It does not help him any that he has given als honest opinion. The tipster who would last through the ups and downs of the game must be a "trimmer." Once when Sugar was the most active speculative feature of the market a crowd swindlers sent out 100,000 letters predicting a twenty-point movement. In 50,see of the letters it was predicted that the movement would be a twenty-point rise and in the other 50,000 a twenty-point decline was predicted. The stock was sure to move twenty points one way or the other. After the stock had advanced twenty points the 50,000 bull letters were followed up for business-New York Times.

SPORTS OF A DAY

DEFFEYS RECORDS WIPED OUT Amsteur Athletic Association Declares Him Professional. NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—It was announced today that the Amateur Athletic union's reford committee, at a special meeting Saturday, authorized James E. Sullivan, secretary of the union and publisher of the record book, to eliminate every mark of distinction and champleneship performance with which Arthur F. Duffey has been credited, these having been made up on the assumption that he was an amateur, as evidenced by his signing of entry forms, etc.

This determination by the committee dis aces the following records: Forty yards, 0.96%, made February 13, 99; March 4, 1899, and February 10, 1901, in 1899; March 4, 1899, and February 10, 1801, in Boston.

Fifty yards, 0.05%, made February 21, 1904, in Washington, D. C.

Bixty yards, 0.05%, made November 30, 1899, and June 7, 1862, in New York City.

One hundred yards, 0.09%, made May 31, 1902, at Berkeley Oval, New York City.

While in every instance above mentioned, with the exception of the 190 yards, Duffey held the record jointly with others, the mark of 0.09% stood in a class by itself. By displacing this performance as a best on record, the 0.09% now stands as the top-most mark at 100 yards among amateurs, being held jointly by John Owen, Jr., W. A. Schick, B. J. Wefers and others.

With Duffey's name taken from the list of winners of the intercollegiate champion-ships, the new arrangement shows as intercellegiate champions at 100 yards, through Duffey's displacement, the following men: L. E. Lightner, Harvard, 1901; J. S. Westney, University of Pennsylvania, 1902, and F. R. Moulton, Yale, 1902.

SHAMROUKS OUTPLAY ALL-STARS Lesing Team Was Strong and Willing,

but Wesk in Team Work.

The Shamrocks received the greatest scare of the season Sunday, as the All Blars proved to be the strongest offensive team they have played with this season. Their backs did fine work in plunging through the line and skirting the ends, but on account of lack of training were not able to keep up the good work. The Shamrocks on the other hand, played with a badly crippled team, which proved to be still worse when Fibiger, the Star end, was forced to leave the game on account of a sprained ankle. The team as a whole played brilliant ball and excelled noticeably in line plunging and tackle plays.

The All Stars left side was weakest and the Shamrocks took advantage of this by sending Mercer. Fitzwold and Kerry through for continuous gains. Long runs were few and far between, and when Vic Stevenson went around the right end for forty yards the crowd responded with loud and vociferous cheers. In Krou and Childs, Coach Fitzwold claims to have a pair of the strongest guards in this part of the country, and, sided by McYuckin (a veteran), make a trio that are hard to be at. Shamilu and Daly never failed to gain when called for and Willetts played an excellent and offensive game. In captain McLune the Shamrocks have one of the headlest and sturdlest foot ball generals that has played at Vinton street park this year.

SPECULATIVE TRADE IS VERY LIGHT Although Dull, Markets Are Stendy-

OMAHA, Nov. 18, 1896.

The speculative trade in all grains was at a standstill today. There was little in the news to encourage operations. Although dull, the markets were quite steady. Wheat cables did not reflect fully the American advance of vesterday. A correction was made in Argentina shipments of 500,000 bushels, making the total for the week 1,210,000 bushels instead of 850,000 bushels. Weather conditions in Argentina continue, tavorable. December closed at 85°ku8820. May at 87'ku882 and July at 81'ku8820. The Liverpool corn market was depressed by short selling. The weather is perfect for movement and for husking, and larger receipts are expected. December closed at 44'ku144'kc, old December at 46'kc. May at 18'ku144'kc, old December at 46'kc. of $25,000 bushels. Primary corn receipts were $72,000 bushels and shipments $425,000 bushels, against receipts tast year of 717,000 bushels and shipments of 155,000 bushels. Liverpool closed $6054d lower on wheat and $4d lower on corn.

Kansas City elevators loaded out 350 cars of wheat Thursday, most of it for Texas, Missouri and Kansas mills, where good milling wheat is scarce. It is estimated by Kansas City traders that 35 per cent of the crop is yet in the hands of the farmers.

Australian shipments for the week were 28,000 bushels, against $2,000 bushels last week and 204,000 bushels last year.

The world's wheat shipments for the week are estimated at 12,000,000 bushels. Actual shipments at week were 12,562,000 bushels and those of a year ago 11,508,000 bushels.

port trade Friday than any day since he has been in the business.

Corn along the Burlington and the lown Central in Illinois is husking 30 to 35 bushels to the acre. Early estimates were from 10 bushels more than net returns.

Chicago traders who are long on oats say they look for receipts to be between 100 and 125 cars a day for some time, an amount about equal to the daily consumption. They expect to see a spread of only 9c between oats and corn in May. It is now 12%c, while last year at one time it was 28c.

"Big operators in corn are betting their money on both sides," says the inter Ocean. "The bear is betting on the big crop figures shown by the government report being approximately correct. The bull is putting up his money on the theory that the yield has been estimated 200,000,000 to 400,000,000 bushels too high."

> Features of the Trading and Closing Prices on Board of Trade. CHICAGO, Nov. 18 - Trading in the grain

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—Trading in the Brain pits today was exceedingly dull and prices fluctuated within a narrow range. At the close the price of wheat, corn and cats showed practically little change from the final quotations of gesterday. Provisions were 25c to 125c lower.

The wheat market opened a trifle easier with the May option a shade lower to a shade higher at Elfe to Sc. Fit traders and commission houses had moderate offerings, but buyers were hard to find, the severe decline of gesterday having apparently discouraged a number of prospective purchasers. News of the day was somewhat bearieh. Weather in Argentina was said to be favorable to the development of the new crop. In this country absence of rain in the northwest was considered likely to accelerate the movement of wheat to market. Another factor tending to depress values was a statement made by an English statistician, in which it was claimed the world's shipments for the week would show an increase and that exports from Russia would be more liberal than generally anticipated. Before the end of the first hour the price of the May delivery had eased off to STMc. Trading was listless until shortly before the close. On reports from New York of a fair demand from exporters shorts covered quite freely. As a result the market regained practically all of the early loss. The May option advanced to SMc. Trading was listless until shortly before the close. On reports from New York of a fair demand from exporters shorts covered quite freely. As a result the market regained practically all of the early loss. The market closed steady with May at STMc. a shade lower than the closing price of yesterday. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to DECOM bu. Primary receipts were 1.115.000 bu. compared with 1.178.000 bu. one year ago.

Sentiment in the corn pit was exceedingly bearish, but active support from a leading bull prevented any material deciline in prices. A sharp break at Liverpool brought about some selling by commission houses and pit traders, resulting brought about some selling by commission houses and pit traders, resolting in slight losses early in the day. During the remainder of the session prices fluctuated very slightly. The market closed steady. The volume of trading in oats was very small. Influenced by an excellent demand from exporters the market held steady. May opened unchansed to it losses and closed at 32% 632% c. Local receipts were islears.

Provisions had a strong undertone, but trading was almost lifeless. There was a fair investment demand for the January products and some buying of bork by a local packer. The strong market for live house was a buillish factor. At the close May pork was un 1000121% at $12.91% 12.88 Lard and ribs were each up 21% at $7.02% and $7714 respectively.

There has not been much choice cornfed stock in this week, the most of the stuff being on the warmed up and short fed order, and the fore part of the week there was not much good stuff on the market, with the result that there was a sluing Monday and Tuesday, but later the small run, coupled with the improvement in quality, caused the market to firm up, so that the week closed with beef steers practically steady with last week's prices. Caws and hellers also experienced quite

Cows and helfers also experienced quite a slump on Monday and Tuesday, owing to the oversupply and inferior quality of the stuff received, but there was a slight improvement noticeable on Wednesday, the quality of the stock arriving was of a hetter order and there was an increased demand from both packers and outside buyquality of the stock arriving was of a hetter order and there was an increased demand from both packers and outside buyers, so that the week on cows and helfers closed steady with last week.

The trade on feeders and stockers opened with a slow market and lower prices, but the quality improved and the demand hecame good for light, handy feeders, with the result that the week's trade on feeders closed with an advance of 18915c on good choice stuff.

HOGS-The receipts of hogs this morning were moderately large and all the trains were in in good season, so that the market was in shape to begin work at a reasonably early hour. The trading opened very active and it was really the feature of the day's trading, as the most of the stock was cleaned up and disposed of within a few minutes of the time the market opened for trading. While the trade was active, the market was steady to strong in tone in most cases. As compared with yesterday there was no material change in the prices and the trade generally averages up pretty well with the previous day. The top of the market today was $4.75\(\frac{1}{2}\), which is 7\(\frac{1}{2}\)c lower than those of yesterday, but the average stuff went at prices that were steady with yesterday were at $4.55\(\frac{1}{2}\)c, which is just about the same as for yesterday.

There was a moderate run of hogs during the week and it was slightly heavier than that of last week, but is a little smaller than the run for the same week one year ago. The trend of prices has been lower from day to day and the market at the other principal market points has been more or less uneven and unsatisfactory. The decline for the week is from 10015c.
