SHORTAGE OF CARS THE TROUBLE

While Nothing Like Famine is Threatened Supply of Fuel is Said to Be Low Just Now.

South Omaha coal dealers are considerbly worried about the delay in the reelpt of both anthracite and bitumine coal. The assertion is made by the local licalers that orders sent in two months ago have not been filled yet and the blame is placed on the railroad companies.

The trouble is not at the mines," said one dealer last night, "but with the railroads. Orders for coal were placed early enough and reports from the mines are to the effect that cars for the hauling of coal cannot be secured.

Another dealer said there was an abundance of coal in transit but the railroads had been crowded so in moving crops and live stock that cars laden with coal were shoved off on sidings to wait until the big rush is over.
