GRAIN TRUST CASE DROPPED

Matter Dismissed So Far as "Present" Federal Grand Jury is Concerned.

VAGUE STATEMENTS ARE GIVEN OUT

By Mutual Consent Uncle Sam's Dogs of War Are Forced to Let Go Their Deadly Grip.

And it came to pass! People who have been reading impassioned statements in the papers during the last few days to the effect that "no matter if the Grain Trust did dissolve itself the prosecution would be pushed just the same, pushed to the bitter end," or words to that effect—are now beginning to look up and take notice, for it has come to pass that the Grain Trust is not to be prosecuted; at least the federal grand jury, which a few days ago was ticked about this defunct monster, has been coaxed to loosen its teeth and give the victim one more chance for life.

"By mutual consent," as it were, the "determined" plan to have the grand jury investigate the men involved in this trust has been abandoned and instead of telling why interested parties have given out "statements."

Here is the statement of District Attorney Baxter:

"This department has decided not to investigate the Nebraska Grain Dealers' association at this session of the grand jury, for reasons which are deemed sufficient. This conclusion has been reached after a full consultation with the attorneys representing the parties who were to furnish the government with the evidence in this matter. I cannot at this time with propriety make a further statement."

Mr. Baxter did not say whether at any future session of the grand jury the case would be investigated.

Worrall and Peavey on Hand.

Thomas Worrall and Charles T. Peavey, the moving spirits in the action against the Nebraska Grain Dealers' association, reported at the federal grand jury rooms as usual Friday morning with other witnesses, as is required of them daily. Mr. Worrall said:

"I do not know just when the case will be taken up by the grand jury. We have, up to this time, been directed to report each morning, as have all the other witnesses. I do not know for a certainty just when the investigation will be called, but, personally, I am ready at any time."

Mr. Worrall had left the federal building with Mr. Peavey before Judge Baxter had announced the postponement of the hearing.

F. S. Howell of Jetteris & Howell, attorneys for Worrall and Peavey, contributed this frank piece of literature to the occasion:

"Jetteris & Howell have had a full consultation with Judge Baxter over the matter of presenting the Nebraska Grain Trust case to the present grand jury and as a result Judge Baxter has concluded not to present the matter, with which conclusion we are in accord."

But.

Nor did Mr. Howell say that any future grand jury would take action, but he insisted on the word "present" being printed.

LANBERT IS THE STAR WITNESS

Oregon Man Gives Testimony in Land Fencing Cases.

The federal grand jury has completed its investigation into the charges of illegal fencing of public lands preferred against Rev. George E. Ware of Lead, S. D. The witnesses have been dismissed and most of them returned to their homes Friday morning. The star witness was Frank Lambert, who was largely instrumental in securing soldiers' and widows' filings on the lands in the Ware enclosures in Thomas, Hooker and Grand counties. The Ware case is the most important one involving as it does the greatest area of public lands under illegal fence, approximately 150,000 acres.

It is understood Jon J. Riley, the defaulting assistant superintendent of the Omaha postoffice money department has reached the conclusion to enter a plea of guilty and trust to the mercy of the court for a light sentence. Riley was indicted last week on the charge of embezzling $90 from the money order fund of the Omaha postoffice.

The opening proceedings of the trial of the $20,000 damage case of Miss Anna Connell, against the Convent of Mercy began Friday morning in the United States circuit court. Miss Connell was the first witness. Her story is simply an oral repetition of the petition filed in the case hitherto published in The Bee. It is in substance that she entered the convent as a sister of mercy and was required to perform various household duties that overtaxed her physical strength, whereby she became a permanent invalid.

Malignant Mischief

"Tag" Wilson Coming Here.

Lieutenant Commander H. B. ("Tag") Wilson, U. S. N., in charge of the assignment of training of naval recruits, will visit the naval recruiting station in this city on a tour of inspection next week. Commander Wilson is one of the notable characters of the American navy and served for a time as executive officer and board of the Kentucky under Admiral Fighting Bob Evans. He now has charge of the training of about 40,000 enlisted men of the United States navy.

RALPH WANTS LABORATORY

Health Commissioner Says One is Needed Properly to Test Milk.

PRESENT HOWL BASED ON POLITICS

Notwithstanding the Slander Motive Behind Illustrated Onslaughts, Dr. Ralph Hopes for Good Results.

Health Commissioner Ralph will present a statement to the council Tuesday night, showing the expenditures of his office and asking an appropriation be made for a city laboratory, in which all food tests, as well as tests for disease can be made.

"We need a laboratory in which bacteriological analysis can be made," said Dr. Ralph. "If we had such a laboratory we could examine milk every day and we could test the tubs ourselves. With such a laboratory and a competent man in charge of it, the good that would result could not be estimated. So far as milk tests are concerned this department has not had the money to make as many tests as we would like to. The place where the milk club called on me in regard to the condition of the dairies and I said I would be glad to help in getting these dairies in first class shape. I have visited a number of the dairies and the two principal ones that were complained of I found in a very good condition. The place where the milk was kept was clean, but the curd where the cows stood was muddy. I told the owner he would have to scrape the lot and be promised to do so. However, I shall make a personal investigation of every dairy in the city between now and the first of the year and every one not clean and in first class order will be refused a license.

Not as Bad as Painted.

"The condition of the milk, however, is not as bad as it has been painted, though a test made every day would not be too many. The way to make the tests is to have my own laboratory and secure the milk ourselves, or otherwise we cannot get a conviction. In our laboratory now a bacteriological analysis cannot be made. In my opinion it will cost $1,000 or $1,500 to equip a laboratory. The money would be well spent. While the howl about the milk is more politics than anything else, I hope it will result in the city securing a good first-class laboratory. With the money allowed this office it is impossible to make the tube tests and the milk tests as often as I would like to have them made, but I consider the tube test the more important and we have been looking after that more than the milk tests."

WOMAN ASKS PARTICULARS

Mrs. Saunders Demands Husband Be Specific and He Tries to Do It.

In an amended petition in her suit for divorce against Sherman Saunders, the Bloomfield (Neb.) banker, Alice Maude Saunders asked that the court compel the defendant to make more specific and alleged his charges of misconduct and against her. She wanted names, dates and places and the number of times she was said to have been guilty of misconduct.

In an amended answer and cross-petition just filed in the district court here Mr. Saunders becomes definite and specific to the extent of several pages of typewriting. In numerous paragraphs he sets out the names of men, dates and places, ranging from vacant lots to business places and an uncompleted paragon, with whom and in which wrongful acts are alleged to have occurred. It is also set up by Mr. Saunders that as to certain other occasions mentioned he cannot name the men involved, not being acquainted with their names.

The Bloomfield banker admits the wife's visits to Florida and to Portland, which she alleged were caused by his actions, but he sets up that the trips were taken only after consultation with himself and her parents and brother, because of her alleged indiscreet actions. He threatens that he will be given the decree of divorce and that he will have his costs of action.

EVERYONE WORKS BUT FATHER

Colored Man Actually Wants Wife Arrested on Grounds of Non-support.

A genuine case of "every one works but father" has been discovered in Omaha. The father in the case, George Washington Rice, colored, presented himself before Chief of Police DeWolfe Friday morning with a mournful plaint of marital misfortunes and a request that Mrs. George Washington Rice be arrested on the charge of non-support.

"Ah wants to confab wid de chief ob de police," were the words that caused Chief DeWolfe to look up from his morning paper and behold a champagne vest obstructing his vision. The speaker's head was six feet from the floor, requiring the chief to wrinkle the back of his neck to focus his eyes on the face of the caller. The visitor was directed to a chair and bade to make a clear breast of it all.

"Mah name ah Javage Wash'in Rice, an' ah'm habbin' a heap ob trouble wid de ole gal. Last night, sah, she done throw a pail ob stop-oh-er mah made an' tole me to come back no moah. Ah 'fess, sah, ah hain't done no wuk foh a year, but she am makin' nine dollars a week, an' ah hab been keepin' de bug'ars away from de cabin, been keepin' her good company, never once whipped her an' alers would de clock at night time. Now she tells me to kiddo an' get a real job," said Rice.

"Do you not think you should contribute to the support of your family as a father and husband?" asked the chief.

Rice explained he played a mandolin in saloons until the order prohibiting music in saloons was issued, after which time the man says he has been unable to secure employment to his liking.

Rice appeared quite serious in the matter of trying to have his wife arrested on the grounds of non-support. The chief told the man a few things, which had the effect of making Rice feel like going home, taking off his fancy vest, donning a pair of overalls and getting in close touch with a hod or shovel.

Mrs. Rice has been supporting herself, children and husband for a year by doing washing and other work.

WORK ON THE BIG DORMITORY

Excavation for Building at Twenty-fifth and California Streets is Begun.

Creighton university dormitory, which it was reported would be erected next summer at a cost of $40,000, probably will be ready for occupancy by that time. Work was begun Friday morning on the excavation for the foundation and it is understood it will be pushed to completion. The building will be erected at Twenty-fifth and California streets, and will be used exclusively by the students of the university as a dormitory. It will be constructed by the Creighton University association.
