

COHN ON AMERICA AND ISRAEL

Jews Grandest People of Past, Yankee Nation Best at Present.

BOTH HOPE OF FUTURE FOR WORLDS

Jewish Anniversary is Celebrated in All the Synagogues of Omaha— Exercises Will Be Held Sunday, Too.

At the Saturday morning services of the Jewish anniversary celebration large audiences greeted the orators. At Temple Israel Rabbi Cohn conducted the services and delivered the address. At the two orthodox synagogues Rabbis A. Bronson and H. Grodzinsky conducted the services, but the addresses for the occasion were delivered by Dr. A. H. Rosen at both Haimanah Hagadol and by Dr. Philip Sber at Congregation B'nai Israel. Dr. Rosen discussed the emigration of the Jew to America and the influence on the national life of his strong characteristics. Dr. Sber considered "The Wandering Jew" from the philosophical and sociological standpoints. Rabbi Cohn's topic at Temple Israel was "America and Israel." He said in part:

"Israel was the grandest people of the past; America is the greatest nation of the present. Both are the hope of the future for all the world. It may seem strange to one both an American and a Jew to make such a large assertion, but there is one virtue that takes precedence of modesty and that is truth. One great fault of the Jew in the past, no matter what his 'enemies' may say to the contrary, is that he has been too modest. He has been too submissive, has too patiently endured the humiliation and indignities heaped upon him. Zangwill says that the Jews are the only Christians in Europe; they are the only ones who have turned to the olive, if they had been more self-assertive, if they had evinced more of the spirit of the Maccabees in a brave resistance against wrong and oppression, it would have been better for them."

Great Lesson to the Jew.

"That is the great lesson this celebration reveals to the Jew. It was the brave stand taken by some of the bravest men like Peter Stuyvesant and the brave assertion of their rights to those early times by which obstacle after obstacle was overcome and restriction after restriction removed. To those pioneers not only the Jews of America are indebted, but all men who care for manhood, for justice and for liberty throughout the world.

"The Jew has been and still is the chief representative of these things throughout the ages. The Jews of Russia are now learning this lesson and are trying to defend themselves. It is only since taking that stand that a new day has begun to dawn in Russia. It is only as they continue to take stand that full rights will emerge from the present chaos and come at last, after so much bloodshed and so much cruelty, to its own."

Rabbi Cohn ardently advised that wherever any prejudice or oppression arises or shows itself the Jew should manfully resist and stand upon his rights as a man, to which all of God's children are entitled, not by any favor, not by any privilege, not by any tolerance, but through divine and inalienable right.

Self-Respect Needed.

"Men respect those who respect themselves. It is better to die for liberty than to live without it. Better be a corpse than a slave." In this connection he quoted Henry Ward Beecher's assertion, at the time a Jew was denied his rights in New York, "There is not another race of people that in its struggle is a benefactor of the human race as the Jews are and have been." This saying was praised by Dr. Cohn as a fine tribute, coming from a Christian and a clergyman, a class not too favorably disposed toward the Jew, though professing a religion of love.

"The rabbi then expanded at some length on the manifestation of God's spirit in the Jewish people.

"He desired to dwell among the Jews. It was through their sons and daughters that he spoke with the voice of prophet and of sage. It was the Jews who gave a God to the world, and gave it religion and the loftiest ethics; and the book of books, the Bible, every word of which, both old and New Testament, was written by Jews. Jesus Himself was a Jew. And yet even the so-called Christian world would defy one Jew while it would crucify all the rest.

Recognition Some Day.

"It will come some day he recognized that the Jew has indeed been, more than Greece or Rome, or Babylon or Egypt, or any other nation, the world's greatest blessing."

Of America the rabbi said:

"It is positively the grandest country on God's earth—a land whose ideals of freedom, justice and humanity are actually woven in the very structure of the government and in the foundation of the state. America is another name for opportunity, the land of the square deal, where all men have a fair chance on their side as men, to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The very unique distinction of our country is that it welcomes men of all lands, of all nationalities and of all creeds. In this way is America the hope of the world and is becoming more and more an example and an inspiration to all mankind. On this virgin continent of the new world the new experience has made a government built up from the foundation on the noble principles of justice and of right.

"To be a Jew is an honor, and has always been. To be an American in an equal honor, but to be a Jewish American, an American Jew, is to bear a double distinction. It is to wear a two-fold crown, and is the greatest honor of all."

TWO HOMES MINUS A BOY

Both Fathers Anxious and One Gets False Tip from Kansas Clairvoyant.

And now Detectives Heitfeld and Donohue wish they had not spent that five.

The note was cast on the waters as bread, to return in a few days, multiplied ten-fold. Chief of Detectives Dunn received a letter from R. F. Nevin of Pittsburg, Kan., asking for information regarding the whereabouts of John A. Nevin, a 14-year-old son, who left home September 9 and has never since been heard of. The father offers a reward of $50 for the recovery of the boy and offers to pay all incidental expenses, besides requesting that the boy be kept at a good hotel if located here. Mr. Nevin confides the information that he consulted a Kansas clairvoyant, who said the son was living in Omaha under an assumed name. Detectives Heitfeld and Donohue were given the case to work up. With the hope of finding the boy, and incidentally, secure the reward, they called on Madam Smith, seventeenth-century daughter of the seventeenth century of the velvet prophet, paid five plunks for a reading and received this spirit message from the woman:

"John A. Nevin not in Omaha. "The Kansas clairvoyant who said he was in on the burn." The detectives made their report to Chief Dunn in accordance. They say they will have to smoke cheroots for a month to break even.

Oliver Louck of Fort Madison, Ia., has written the chief of police a letter, asking whether Harry Louck, 13-year-old son of the writer of the letter, is in Omaha. Louck states the boy is 13 years of age, left home last Easter morning with two soldering irons and a shoe shining box. The boy is described as having red hair and freckled face.

The father is anxious to have his boy home for Thanksgiving dinner. Chief Donohue will do what he can to unite the father and son.

RAPID RISE IN REAL ESTATE

Fact is Shown by Increase in Property Value of Fifty Per Cent.

The rapid rise in the value of real estate in Omaha is shown by a comparison of the value of the thirty-three feet 1-located between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets, on Harney, for $30,000, and the assessment of this property during the last two years. In 1904 the assessment for the 123 feet, of which the thirty-three feet is a part, was $89,000, which was an increase of almost 50 per cent over the assessment of 1903. At the time of the increase Tax Commissioner Fleming thought he was making the assessment too high, but Saturday morning said he realized the assessment was about 50 per cent too low, or that values were increasing rapidly.

Auditorium Roller Rink.

The new maple floor is nearing completion at the Auditorium and everything will be in readiness for the opening of the big building for roller skating on Thanksgiving afternoon. The floor will be a delight to the patrons of roller skating. It is hard maple, as smooth and hard as they make them, and laid in octagon shape at the ends so that skaters will follow the boards in their course around the arena floor. A new and larger skate room for the women will be provided and the skates have all been overhauled. Music will be furnished by Dimmick's band both afternoon and evening on Thanksgiving day. Manager Gillan announces that the prices will remain the same as last year. The opening matinee will begin promptly at 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon.
