

FAIR IS DRAWING CROWDS

Plattsmouth Societies Entertain Through at Washington Hall.

BUSY NIGHT AT BOOTHS AND PALM ROOM

Book and Pencil Brigade Keeps Things Moving at a Rate that Lets Neither Dime Nor Dollar Lag.

Monday night the German Fair at Washington hall was greeted with a large attendance, and the proceedings throughout were of the enthusiastic order which bodes well for the financial success of the fair for the coming seven days. Many improvements have been made in the hall which adds materially to its attractiveness.

The proceedings opened Monday night with a concert by the Plattsmouth societies of fifteen members which rendered some very pleasing music. Then came an exercise drill by one of the Forester teams of the Modern Woodmen of America. Aside from this there were uniformed visitors from the Woodmen of the World and Ancient Order of United Workmen, the Harburg lodge, Sons of Herman of South Omaha, and members of the Pythian lodges of Omaha and adjacent cities. It was the first of the lodge nights, and all the orders were fairly well represented.

Sons of Herman Officers.

Among the guests present were John Van Wolp of Bloomington, and John Mallick of Plattsmouth, state president and vice president respectively of the Sons of Herman, the great German society of Nebraska. This order has 6,000 members in the state, and during the fair a contest will be held for a handsome silk flag to go to the most popular lodge of this order in the state. President Wolp and Vice President Mallick delivered short addresses giving a brief history of the order and its progress in the state during the past year. The Palm room on the second floor was a popular resort during the evening and the festivities were full of interest from start to finish. The fair is now under full headway, and will be found a most enjoyable place to spend an hour or two each evening during the week.

Book and Pencil Brigade.

The booths are all liberally patronized from the fact that a brigade of fair women is armed with books and pencils for the ostensible purpose of seeing that no one escapes a visit to one or a dozen of them, according to the state of his bank account. Any person having the temerity to try to escape the importunities of the book and pencil brigade will have to make his peace with the judge of the kangaroo court or take his chances in the cooler provided for violation of court orders of the evening. The fines are usually about double the amount of the assessment supposed to be contributed to the booth brigade. The jail is comfortable and warm and is so handy to the judge's bench that suspended sentences are unnecessary, as the suspended sentence in book before the echo of the commitment has died away.

Coming Nights at Fair.

Tuesday will be Benson night and it promises to be a hummer, with a varied program of music from all the German singing societies of this city and region. Wednesday night the Cephus singing society will furnish the music. A big program is booked for Thursday night, and on Friday night the lodges will hold forth again with an exhibition drill by the South Side Turners. The Saturday matinee will be a big event, giving an impulse to the big time that is to be held Saturday night, which will be Omaha night. The fair will wind up Sunday night with another big program. In brief, the programs for each evening will be worth attending, as the first class entertainment of music, social diversions, etc., will signalize each of them.

Incidentally, it is suggested that the Palm garden be not neglected in your visit, as it is one of the most thoroughly popular resorts of the fair.

BEFORE THE PEOPLE'S BAR

Boastful Boy Helped Over the Hard Places by the Police Judge.

When arraigned Monday morning before the people's bar on the charge of drunkenness and sleeping in the park, Barney Myer was as boastful as a 2-year-old boy trying to "moor" for the first time, with all the farm hands looking on. Myer was boastful, while falling, the police judge tried to cover over by helping the prisoner across the rough places.

"Myer, they say you were drunk and then made your bed in one of the public parks. What do you say to that?" questioned the police magistrate.

"Well, yer honor, I did take a few drinks and went off watch. I am out in Jefferson square in the cool air, thinking I would sober up in a few hours, but before I knew it I fell asleep. My intentions were honorable, judge, if my vigilance was poor," remarked Myer.

The judge discharged Myer and advised him to get in out of the cool air next time.

Evidently Charles Manning's appearance in police court Monday morning on the charge of drifting long and late at the shrine of Bacchus, was the first time the man had been brought before the people's bar. When the name of Charles Manning was called by the court sergeant the prisoner tripped out from the detention room like a schoolboy going to spend a day at a county fair. And when Manning was brought face to face with the police magistrate the prisoner took as much interest in the proceedings as a boy would in the first punch and Judy show he ever saw.

"What have you got to say for yourself?" queried the judge.

"It was this way: I live some miles out in the country and was suffering Sunday morning with a bad cold. My wife suggested I go to town and get a few hot drops for that cold. Guess I took an overdose of the hot drops," explained Manning.

"Go home, my friend, and sin no more," said Judge Berka, as he marked "discharged" on Manning's complaint.

"You are a just judge," rejoined Manning.

"Just to see the wheels go round" was the explanation offered Monday morning in police court in the testimony against Sherman Richardson, charged with creating a boisterous residence in the saloon of Frank Rasmussen, 2301 Cuming street. The arresting officers, Patrolmen Dwyer and Shephard, reported Richardson "raised a rough house," which term, reduced to the fractional terms of police parlance, means Richardson moved the furniture of the saloon around with more violence than is usual in police society.

Ten dollars and fifty cents more for the school fund, and more prize juice left.

Because they could not agree on the subject of why solid objects will fall to earth by the force of gravitation, Levi Keys and Harry Thomas, both colored, took the distance by the horse and fought it out. Keys received an object lesson of the force of gravitation by falling to the ground with a closed eye, when Thomas landed his right fist on the right optic of his adversary. The fight occurred at Eleventh street and Central avenue. The men were charged

APPEAL TO PUBLIC CHARITY

Manager of Immanuel Hospital Calls for Contributions to Help Along Its Good Work.

OMAHA, Nov. 25.—To the Editor of The Bee: Thanking this year no doubt finds America a great deal more really prosperous than ever before and the people of Omaha will probably be glad to hear that the Immanuel Deaconess institute has also to some extent been permitted to share in this great prosperity of our beloved country. This is true, particularly in reference to our building operations.

Our institution has in the last few years spent about $40,000 in new buildings, and that has been done very quietly, without making much noise of it, either. About four years ago we built an orphan's home with a cost of about $10,000. The following year we built a boiler house and laid in a great heating system, good for the whole institution and for all the future, at a cost of about the same amount. Then last year we had to build an addition to the main building, at a cost of $10,000, and now this year we have been compelled to build a steam laundry and an addition to our Sisters' home at a cost of $10,000.

All these additions and improvements to our institution have been done the last four years and at a total cost of about $40,000, and yet most of the Omaha people have not been asked to give a cent to it. But now we are compelled to ask your assistance, as at the present time we are in great need of at least $10,000. Of course, we need and could make the very best use of a great deal more, but $10,000 at least we must have now at this Thanksgiving or the coming Christmas.

But who will give it to us? Will not the good people of Omaha help us to get it? There are probably several Omaha men or women who out of their bounty could give us this $10,000 without hurt to themselves, and if we do get that sum from one individual benefactor, we will thank God for it. But if we get the same amount in smaller donations from a great number of people, we will be still more thankful—only we get all we need, or at least $10,000.

In spite of our debts, building operations, no endowments and our great poverty—in spite of everything—our institution has the last few years been compelled to do about one-fourth of its work without cost to the inmates or patients—as free and genuine charity. As I know how the business men are overrun by beggars, solicitors and all kinds of "pet schemes," and as I also well know that genuine charity like the Immanuel Deaconess institute and a hospital like the Immanuel, conducted on the very best principles and properly managed, deserve the aid of the benevolent public more than anything else, I cannot after this last few years' experience, better solicit this public appeal must suffice—and it may also very likely be my last one—but I hope it will not be in vain.

Anyone desirous of knowing more fully about this institution, its real character, its needs, its financial condition, etc., can easily inform himself all he or she wants to. If I can be of some assistance in such a case I would be glad to do so. But may it never be true, as one of our Omaha dailies lately said editorially, "Business men are too busy to be interested in fraternal sympathy with other people's struggles?"

E. A. FOGELSTROM, Rector Immanuel Deaconess Institute and Manager Immanuel Hospital.

HECKER AFRAID OF HIMSELF

Treasurer at Boyd Has a Double and Show Girls Take Him for Manager.

Conrad Hecker, treasurer at the Boyd theater, had a little experience Sunday evening he is still thinking about.

He was standing in the lobby of the theater an hour or two before the show last evening when a blonde actress came in and approached him, eyes sparkling and lips running over with vocabulary.

"I've a big kick to put in," she began. "I'm no knocker, but some of the girls in this company are about the smallest, meanest, shrimpiest things that ever traveled with a show. They steal your ribbons, monkey with your makeup things and one actually had the audacity to borrow a new Paris corset I just bought and never asking my leave. I want to tell you, if this thing keeps up I shall be forced to leave you. It has been getting worse and worse ever since we left New York. Now, you just—"

Mr. Hecker seized a portable display sign and placed it between himself and the chorus woman. Then he reinforced himself with a bronchial treble.

"Who do you think you are talking to?" he demanded. "I have had nothing to do with any of your girls, so far as I know."

"Well, what do you look after as manager?" asked the girl in turn. "Mr. Comstock," it seems to me that a person in charge of a production like "The School Girl" would pay more attention to what is going on in it."

"Merciful heavens!" ejaculated Hecker. "I am not Comstock. I am the treasurer of this house. Won't you please go away and tell your troubles to some one else?"

The girl looked at him closely. Hecker showed her a mole under his right ear to prove his identity, also a bunch of letters, his card case and a few other trifles. Finally she admitted she was wrong, but she insisted that Hecker is the double of the manager of the company.

Later in the evening others of the company made the same mistake. Hecker is almost afraid to go near the theater while the company is here. He doesn't know what minute somebody will hand him a bunch of money.

Chief of Police Donahue would warn citizens against a well-dressed colored man who is reported as going around certain resident portions of the city and gaining entrance to homes on the pretext of using telephones. The man's modus operandi is reported to be that of making a bluff at speaking to someone over the telephone, but in reality watching an opportunity to steal. The chief has received a number of reports about the man from citizens living on South Twenty-sixth and Twenty-eighth streets.

Lid Lifted at St. Joseph.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 27.—The "lid" was lifted here tonight by the city council passing ordinances providing that saloons may remain open Sundays, except between the hours of 2 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. The mayor had vetoed the ordinance because they are in defiance of the state laws, but they were passed over his veto. It is believed the governor will endeavor to keep the saloons closed Sundays.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Mud Creek Sewer Construction Becomes a Live Issue.

GUY C. BARTON SERVES NOTICE ON CITY

Mayor Authorized to Call Mass Meeting to Decide What Will Be Done to Avoid Complications Over Injunction.

The construction of a sewer for the abatement of the mud creek nuisance again occupied considerable of the time of the city council at the meeting last night. A communication was read from Attorney F. A. Brogan, who represented Guy C. Barton and others in the suits now pending in the courts. Mr. Brogan wrote:

By the terms of the decree it was provided that the injunction should take effect April 1, 1906. Seven months of the stipulated period have passed and the city of South Omaha has taken no steps except to refuse to construct a sewer and the Union Brick Yards company has taken no action except to request the city to build an injunction to postpone the time when the injunction shall take effect beyond April 1, unless at the time the application is made work has actually commenced on the construction of a sewer or other suitable steps have been commenced to abate the nuisance.

The communication was ordered placed on file without any discussion whatever.

Then came the lengthy opinion of City Attorney Lambert on the sewer question. When this had been read by the clerk, Councilman Adkins suggested that a mass meeting of citizens be called for the purpose of discussing the question, as it was a serious one. It was agreed that the mayor call a mass meeting at such time and place as he may determine on later.

The Nebraska Telephone company was given the contract for putting in first class condition the city fire alarm system. Not long ago the Fire and Police Commissioners called the attention of the council to the condition of the present system, which is worthless. In a proposition submitted the Nebraska Telephone company agrees to overhaul and put in first class condition the present system and maintain it for $50 a month for fifteen alarm boxes, the contract to run for five years. All new material needed to repair the present system is to be paid for by the city. Immediate repairs are to be made to these lines or boxes when out of order and there is to be a daily inspection of the system. Mayor Kautsky and Clerk Gillin were directed to enter into this contract at once.

Councilman Klotz asserted that the Q. street viaduct was getting a little shaky and he suggested that the city engineer make a thorough inspection of the bridge and report its condition.

Registrars and ex-officio judges, who served at the primaries on September 15, were allowed $4 for the day's work. The clerk was instructed to draw a warrant for $25 to pay these election officials.

Property owners presented a petition asserting that they had no objection to the construction of a galvanised iron building for the rear of 412 North Twenty-fourth street for the use of the local Young Men's Christian association. The petition was referred to the city engineer to check up the names.

Complaint was made about the stock yards dumping manure at Thirty-fifth and L streets and the council will investigate.

Miss Susie Cassidy has returned home after a visit with friends at Gretna.

Police Judge P. J. King is back on the bench again after a two weeks' vacation.

There will be no market at the stock yards on Thursday, but all live stock will be cared for.

On Friday evening the Rebelek degree staff will give a music hall at Odd Fellows' hall, Twenty-fourth and M streets.

St. Martin's auxiliary will meet at the home of Mrs. T. E. Everett, 600 North Twenty-first street, on Wednesday afternoon.

A complaint has been filed yet against Enright and Berry, the men suspected of holding up a saloon and drug store on Q street last Friday night.

No arrangements have been made for the funeral of Mrs. Grace Bradley, who died Sunday evening at her home, Twenty-sixth and Washington streets.

This evening Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Stambaugh will celebrate their silver wedding

Three bids for the plumbing of the new fire engine house were submitted and referred to the committee on public buildings. The finance committee was instructed to take up the matter of connecting the new brick pavement on Twenty-fourth street with the stone pavement laid by the street car company. As this work is now being done the connection is fairly good, but cannot be made right unless the brick pavement is laid flush with the street car tracks.

Adjourned for one week.

Many Pledges Secured.

Up to last night $90 had been pledged toward the $2,500 that is to be raised by popular subscription for the local Young Men's Christian association. The association commenced only last Friday and the amount pledged up to date is considered satisfactory. Three days yet remain for the securing of the amount needed. Seven committees are at work soliciting subscriptions and young men all over the city are being appealed to for pledges. Those making pledges are not required to pay the entire amount at once. What is wanted is to secure enough money in sight to go ahead and let the contracts for the gymnasium building and to pay the cost of removal from the present quarters to the new location at 413 North Twenty-fourth street.

Rain Stops Paving.

On account of the rain work on the Twenty-fourth street pavement stopped at noon Monday. Large quantities of material are on the ground and the change in the weather at this time comes as a bit of hard luck on the contractors. Unless

Death of Mrs. Anna Beck.

Mrs. Anna M. Beck, wife of August Beck, died on Sunday night at the South Omaha hospital, where she had been taken for the purpose of having an operation performed. Pierce of Chicago is expected to arrive in a day or two and assume the duties of a general manager while Mr. Howe recuperates.

Holiday Season On.

Within three days four holidays have been reported to the police. Two occurred on Friday evening and the others on Sunday evening. The police are satisfied that in every way and in every form, both former convicts, they have the men who hold up a saloon-keeper and a drug clerk on Q street Friday night. Two colored men are being hunted now for the holidays on Sunday night. Chief Briggs has only half a dozen men on beats at night and the territory off the main thoroughfares is left unguarded to a great extent. More patrols are needed for night duty, but the appropriation for police purposes will not warrant the employment of additional men at this time.

HIGH PRICE PAID FOR RUM

Home Wrecked, Business and Reputation Gone and Victim Landed in Prison.

Wreck of a home, a heretofore good character and present opportunity, was represented in the person of Fletcher Doty when he faced Judge Day in the criminal branch of the district court Monday morning.

The charge was forgery, with three counts, committed while under the influence of liquor. Attorney Van Dusen, for defendant, and County Attorney Siasburgh both testified that until his present trouble Doty had been a good citizen, had held responsible positions and managed a business of his own. They explained he had wife and child and was well connected all around; that they could not account for his fall except on the ground of intoxication. Doty himself said to the court he had been sick all summer, had become discouraged and despondent, wanted to get out of town to rehabilitate himself, but that he had succumbed to drink, and after that could not say what he had done. On the advice of his attorney he threw himself on the mercy of the court.

Judge Day gave Doty the minimum on the charge of having forged the name of James L. Boyle to a check for $11.50. He will serve one year in the penitentiary. The other charges against Doty were nolle by the county attorney.

H. L. McIntosh, a South Omaha negro, pleaded guilty to assault and battery and was given ninety days. He shot and wounded one B. C. Morgan during an argument, but as Morgan was alleged to have been attacking and to have bitten McIntosh's thumb, the court was lenient.

Enuf Synak pleaded guilty to stealing $50 worth of copper wire from the electric light company. Judge Day reserved sentence to make an investigation, as Synak is but a youngster.
