LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 28.-(Special Telegram.)-Today Van B. Lady, general agent for the Mutual Reserve Life of New York, brought suit for $5,000 damages against State Auditor Searle because of the action of the auditor in revoking his license, alleging that his business has been injured thereby.

Searle revoked the license on the grounds that the insurance man had circulated a false statement concerning his methods of doing business. Lady secured an injunction, which is now pending in the federal court

Lists Must Be Sworn To.

State Superintendent McBrien is preparing a circular letter addressed to county superintendents demanding to know whether the enumeration lists of the various districts have been properly sworn to, preliminary to the appointment of the temporary school fund. He will refuse to consider the returns which have not been properly certified, thus depriving those districts of any share in the appropriation, hut sworn statements will be accepted without question. He will give further time for the filing of the Dougias county state- years on the old California and Oregon ment, because of the change in the superintendent's office, but will demand that the enumeration in each district be on oath. State Treasurer Mortensen, who is enouraging Mr. McBrien in his stand, said today that 15,000 children are illegally found dead Saturday evening at his home enumerated in the larger cities and towns of the state. Our Thanksgiving Suit and Overcoat Sale

In November folks are supposed to be prepared for the long cold winter, and give thanks for the bounties of the year. But Are You Really Ready? Every man must have a warm winter overcoat and suit to be truly thankful, and to insure comfort outside and in. It is our purpose in the sale of these suits and overcoats to make it possible for every man (of moderate, small or large income) to have such garments, at a price which will give him added cause for thanks next Thursday-such garments as will increase his enjoyment, not only of Thanksgiving, but of every day he wears them. These are selected fabrics and styles-as carefully picked out as is the plump turkey for your feast. Every garment is a beauty, richly lined, handsomely made, warm, generous and stylish cut, trimmed and finished by two of the finest garment makers in America.
