HARRIMAN'S SCHEME IN WEST

Pacific Railroad Magnate Plans Gigantic Campaign of New Construction.

SEVERAL YEARS AND MANY MILLIONS TO IT

Union Pacific Ready with Hundred Millions of Preferred—H. G. Burt May Lead This Warfare Against J. J. Hill.

The Union Pacific Railroad company has made a cleaning up of its finances and has $100,000,000 unissued preferred stock to be used in building new lines. This statement comes from reliable sources and along with it comes the advice that Mr. Harriman's other large railroad, the Southern Pacific, has a mortgage for $163,000,000, of which $75,000,000 has been sold and more can be disposed of in a favorable bond market to be used for construction. The Southern Pacific also has issued $60,000,000 preferred which would go readily at par to the stockholders.

This is a part of the financial side of the Harriman scheme of construction fairly launched and which it is believed, before completed, will be the biggest railroad building undertaking ever known in this country.

The work of reconstruction which has been going on on all the Harriman roads since that great man acquired control of these lines is about done. The transportation facilities have undergone a continuous process of improvement for five years, which has brought them up to a maximum of excellence, and this work is about done, that is for some time to come. So Mr. Harriman is now ready to proceed with his scheme of building new lines.

Mileage Under Way.

At present 450 miles of new railway are projected. Not an important line is included, nor does this include the line across central Oregon. These are all small cuts. Yet $35,000,000 have been set aside for their construction and $5,000,000 more will be set aside for the central Oregon line. All these lines, most of which are under survey or construction, are to be completed by January 1, 1907. But beyond this time limit this great campaign of railroad building is to go on. At least three years of continuous construction, it is said, will be consumed before the plans now laid out by Mr. Harriman are consummated. Then, railroad men of authority say, this wizard of the west from the east will, with his Union Pacific as the basis, have acquired domination of the railroad situation and have the end of the string wrapped around his whip hand.

Branch lines is what Harriman is going to build. For every one branch of the Union Pacific now there will be two and almost the same policy, it is understood, will obtain with reference to the Southern Pacific, Oregon Short Line and Oregon Railway and Navigation company. Readers of The Bee already know of some of the projected lines in Nebraska, but Mr. Harriman is looking further than the boundaries of Nebraska or any other one state of this west. He looks out upon the vast plains and hills of Oregon, Utah, Nevada and Wyoming, and in the opening of new territory in these states he sees untold possibilities for the railroad and he is going to be the first, if possible, to seize these opportunities.

Who Will Be the Star Actor?

Having come as near as possible to perfecting the system of his transportation department and brought his main lines up to a high standard of service, Harriman now turns his attention to the work of reconstruction, hence the man in the center of the stage in the theater of this system's wonderful activities is the superintendent of construction. Railroad men are asking the question: "Who is this man to be?" Not with emphatic coherence, but in a subdued tone the answer, from some sources, comes, Horace G. Burt. Since his retirement from the presidency of the Union Pacific Mr. Burt has done nothing but skirt the globe. His future, since returning to Omaha, has been a matter of great interest to railroad men. An intimate friend of Mr. Burt's recently said Mr. Burt himself did not know what he was going to do. The masterly work of rebuilding the Union Pacific is credited up to Horace G. Burt. As an engineer and construction man he is regarded as peerless. It is believed Harriman wants him and will get him if possible.

Intensifies Old Rivalry.

The determination of Harriman to enter new territory in the northwest can only mean, in the judgment of railroad men, accentuation of the Harriman-Hill rivalry, for Harriman must inevitably get into Hill's province. The task is viewed as one of tremendous import, requiring great nerve, as it must involve the most bitter warfare between these two great railroad kings. Railroad authorities assume that Harriman will not simply tap the Hill fields, but once over the threshold, will penetrate far into the interior. Hill, it is observed, recognizes this fact with clearer perception than any one else and therefore is preparing to marshal his forces in more formidable array than has yet been necessary, in order to combat the encroachments of his aggressive adversary.

One of the highest executive officers of that system said a few days ago in Omaha: "I do not believe Mr. Burt could be induced to accept any offer Mr. Harriman could make."

A Certain Cure for Croup—Used for Ten Years Without a Failure.

Mr. W. C. Bott, a Star City, Ind., hardware merchant, is enthusiastic in his praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. His children have all been subject to croup and he has used this remedy for the past ten years, and though they much feared the croup, his wife and he always felt safe upon retiring when a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was in the house. His oldest child was subject to severe attacks of croup, but this remedy never failed to effect a speedy cure. He has recommended it to friends and neighbors and all who have used it say that it is unequaled for croup and whooping cough.
