The Price Current today says: "Indicated cold weather is regarded as favorable for making corn merchantable where it has been delayed by molsture. Farmers are disposed to offer less freely at the reduced prices. The growing winter wheat crop is in eminently satisfactory condition.

The cold wave has been severe enough to cause apprehension of damage, and should it continue two days more without any snow covering there is a possibility of severe damage being done. clined to be builts. Influenced by floerar shipments from Argentina, opening quotations were a trifle lower, the May option being down a shade at $8149884c to $840. Offerings, however, were light, the small movement in the northwest having a tendency to restrict selling. Strength developed in the market on moderate buying by some of the larger professionals, the demand the strength of the larger professionals. on the market on moderate buying by some of the larger professionals, 'he demand being stimulated to a large extent by a starp advance in the price of wheat a! Berlin. On this upturn the price of the May delivery advanced to 88%. Some reaction occurred late in the session as a result of selling induced by a revised estimate of the Russian crop, which placed the total yield of that country at 643,000,000 bushels, against 664,000,000 bushels last year, the revised figures showing a considerable increase over previous estimates. Strength of cash wheat at all grain centers in the United States helped to Sustain the price of options. The market closed firm, with May at $3,498%. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 3,500 bushels. Exports for the week, as shown by Bradstreets, were equal to 3,700,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 1,028,000 bushels, compared with 28,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 770 cars, against 98 cars last week and 735 a year ago.

770 cars, against 948 cars last week and 755 a year ago.

A firm tone prevailed in the corn market throughout the entire session. The May option was in fairly active demand by a leading bull and the December delivery was eagerly taken by shorts. The almost total absence of contract grade corn in daily receipts accounted for the demand of the December option. Decreased shipments from Argentina helped to stimulate bullish sentiment. Shipments of corn for the week from that country were 1,439,000 bushels, compared with 2,520,000 for the corresponding week of last year. The market closed strong, with prices at almost the highest point of the day. May opened unchanged to be higher at 445,63445c, sold between 445,63445c and closed at 455c. Local receipts were 251 cars, with other Local receipts were 251 cars, with 2 cars of contract grade.

Oats were firm in sympathy with other grains. The market was also affected by the absence of any deliveries on December contracts. Cash houses and elevator interests were fairly active purchasers of the December option. The demand for the nearby option tended to support the more distant delivery. Export demand showed some improvement. May opened unchanged to a shade higher at 313-325 to 32c, sold up to 325c and closed at 355-325c. Local receipts were 25 cars.

Provisions were weak as a result of aggressive selling by a leading packer. Demand from odisiders was almost nothing. At the close May pork was off 325c at $12.525c, lard was down 10c at $7.325c, ribs were 125-2615c lower at $7.15.

Japanese war. The effect here in the way of selling securities for foreign account was not very important, but sinister reports were in circulation in the financial district as to commercial and financial conditions in Russia. Paris was reported to be selling Russian notes in London to secure gold and the sterling exchange rate at Paris fell sharply in a way to indicate renewed pressure from that quarter upon the London money market. Sterling exchange here also fell sharply under the offerings of finance bills prompted by hardness of the local money market. Discount and money rates, however, eased in London. The market must meet some unfilled requirements for the redemption on next Thursday of $70,000,000 of exchequer bills. While the completion of the operation will tend to ease money conditions in London the end of the year requirements will have to be prepared for at once. The same period offers special requirements to this market. New York exchange at Chicago fell to 10 cents discount today compared with par on Wednesday. Something was made in the speculative discussion of the approach of the assembling of congress and the threatened railroad rate legislation. Wool Market.

BOSTON, Dec. 1.—WOOL—The Commercial Bulletin will say temorrow of the wool market: The market is quiet but firm. Manufacturers have been "looking around" and some sales of moderate amounts have occurred. Buying is principally confined to the smaller mills, although representatives of two large New England mills have been operating to a small extent. Dealers look for a substantial revival of activity when the heavyweight demand comes in. Worsted wools are meeting with a steady call and good staple is held very firmly. Lines of territory wools are well broken up and small sales continue to be made at full prices. Californias have been taken by woolen nills and the Texas wools have been rather quiet. Fleeces have moved slowly. A few lots of A superfines and Bs have been sold, but these wools present but little activity. The shipments of wool from Besion to date from December 29, 1894, according to the same authority, are 222,455. Wool Market. little activity. CATTLE—There was a small run of cattle on the market today, forty-three loads, about 1.100 head, being received up to moon. The run for the week so far totals 12,855 head. This is the smallest run since the third week in August, but is accounted for to a certain extent by the fact that Thursday was a holiday and no cattle were received. As compared with the receipts for the corresponding week last year the receipts for the week are smaller by about 7,000 head.

There was hardly enough fat cattle on the market today to make a test of the trade. There was a good demand for beef steers on the part of the packers and they were willing to pay good strong prices for good choice stock. There were a couple of loads of corn-fed steers on the market, but they were not of very good quality; however, they found roady sale at prices that were fully steady with those of Wednesday. Generally speaking, however, the market on beef steers was a strong dime higher than Wednesday's close.

day. Generally speaking, however, the market on beef steers was a strong dime higher than Wednesday's close.

There was a small run of cows and heifers on the market, there being hardly more than a sprinkling of this kind of stuff in sight. At the same time there was a good demand for cow stock, with the result that good stock found ready sale at prices that were about a dime higher than the market on the same kind of stock Wednesday.

There were only a few scattering loads of stockers and feeders on the market this morning and there was not much of a market for these few, as speculators were evidently not caring for much stock and there were only a few country buyers in. As a result the trade was rather dull, with prices steady to a triffe easier. Representative sales:
