But for the timely appearance in police court Monday morning of C. W. Zinn and his trick dog hardly enough would have happened to disturb the ticking of Judge King's official clock Colonel Zinn was hauled up late Sunday night on the charge of vagrancy and his hearing was set for Monday morning. He appeared in court with a small value and suggested to the court that the valise was a live one and that he would like to show its peculiarities to the court. He was somewhat of a ventriloquist and made some remark to the grip, when it began to tremble violently and me strange sounds came from its interior. Colonel Zinn then observed to the court that as, an evidence of his innocence of vagrancy he would place his hat on the value and if it fell off that was the sign of his innocence. The hat flew off the value blently and so Colonel Zinn won out and his innocence was established, much to the antonishment of the court and spectators He then opened the grip and took there-From a ginall mongrel dog and had the canine perform a few more tricks, after which Zinn and the dog were let go.

Zinn is an itinerant ventriloquist and his log is a remarkably intelligent animal. It is Zinn's practice to take the grip and dog into a saloon or other resort and the two will give an exhibition on compussion from the proceeds of sales to spectators attracted by the show. Zinn stated that the dog is is vears old.

UNIVERSITY AFFAIRS IN A TANGLE

Some Doubt Whether Akeley Will Accept Presidency. VERMILION, S. D., Dec. 11 -(Special.) Just what the next step of the Board of Regents will be in regard to the presidency of the state university is an open question

Their last official act in appointing Prof. L. E. Akeley as president to succeed James Chalmers is one that causes considerable surprise in this city and will no doubt be discussed throughout the state. Not that Prof. Akeley is not big enough to handle the office, as there is no doubt of his qualifications, but it is generally understood that he did not aspire at any time to succeed President Droppers and it is the general belief that he will por consider the appointnent. When seen at his home yesterday Prof. Akeley expressed an unwillingness to discuss the appointment. He has as yet received no official notification of his appointnent and did not care to say anything in advance.

The retusal of Hon. James Chalmers to accept the presidency of the state university oes not come as a surprise to anyone. Several prominent men of this city and a number outside have all along contended that Mr. Chalmers would not come to Vermillion. It has been hinted that the regents never intended that he should. This is only gossip, however, and there is no substantial proof at hand to show that the board did not act in good faith. Mr. Chalmers early In the summer rented a tine home here and has been paying rent on it. He expected to come here about December 1 and had been given a lease on the residence for two years. The supposition is that the president of the State Agricultural college had all along figured on coming to this city. Should Prof. Akeley refuse to serve as emporary president the regents will have o move again. The common understanding has been that President Dropper's time would expire January 1. Whether he steps down and out at that time remains to be seen. A logical conclusion would be that the regents, in case Prof. Akeley turned them down, would decide to retain the present incumbent to the close of the school vear.
