ENERGY AND GUM WASTED

What it Means to Keep Up the Action of Jaws Addicted to the Gum Habit.

The chewing of gum in the United States consumes more energy than one sees going to waste over Niagara falls.

In the United States alone 30,000,000 individuals work their jaws on chicle. These chicle eaters do not know that it is chicle they are at work upon.

Chicle is a vegetable product. It comes from the zapota tree that looks like an india rubber tree. The chicle tree is thirty to forty feet in height and has a trunk a foot to a foot and a half in diameter.

mosquitoes and chicle. Even mules do not thrive there. Most of the chicle territory, as has been said, is in Mexico, where the trees own 2,000,000 acres.

The life, then, of the matinee girl, as we at present understand it, is too short for the chicle she is now considering.

As he worked at her ball of gum, rolling it from side to side a mile or two across her tongue, she would develop horse power extraordinarily much faster than does an ocean liner.

It is up in a dictionary, is just enough energy to lift 30,000 pounds one foot. Our gum girl uses up 50 horse power with each chew.

CHILDREN BORN TO TOIL. In America Alone One Million Work in Mines, Factories and Stores.

In America today there are probably 1,000,000 children working in the mines, factories and stores.

It would be absurd to imagine that we understand the full meaning of child slavery. We may know isolated cases of tragedy; we may know some of its evils; but we can have no notion of what it may mean to the world that 1,000,000 children are at the very time of adolescence taken from learning and play to be impressed in factories, mines and stores.
