"I wanted two trustees independent of Mr. Ryan. I think that any trustees named as Mr. Ryan named them must be to a certain extent under his control, espe cially as he had named a man out of his own organization as president. I did not demand a right to name two trustees, but merely that they should be independent of Ryan. I offered to turn my stock over to the society if all did. Is within the provisions of the Interstate Commerce or the jurisdiction of the Interstate rates. It would seem that if the governrates. It would seem that if the government desires to have the contention of the railroads that they are not required to file or publish these tariffs passed upon by the courts, and I understand the railroad companies have frequently urged that course upon the Interstate Commerce commission. It could better be accomplished by some other proceeding or method than by the indictment of shippers, I understand that the foreign shipments of cotton are and always have been required to be made in the same way as the shipments which are made the basis of those indictments against the packers. This is no new thing. It has been openly going on for years without complaint and with the knowledge of the interstate Commerce commission, not only interstate Commerce commission, not only with the Burlington road, but other roads, which have maintained the same position upon this question as the Burlington and with all foreign shippers without discrimination.

OMAHA HIGH WINS DEBATE

Turns the Tables on the Representatives of West Des Moines.

VERDICT OF THE JUDGES IS UNANIMOUS

Program Preceded and Followed by Musical Selections by Omaha High School Hand, Orchestra and Vocalists.

Before an enthusiastic audience, which filled the First Methodist Episcopal church last evening, the West Des Moines High school went down to defeat at the hands of the Omaha orators. The question, "Resolved. That American municipalities should wn and operate their street railways, was timely and interesting and was handled in a thorough and scholarly manner.

The lowa debaters, supporting the affirmy Herbert Potter, Glenn Wallerstedt and dred larcenies. (Laughter.) John Latenser. Principal Waterhouse was master of ceremonies. A stirring number program. After these preliminaries were palization and the system there was asupon the "hub of the universe."

Evils Are Admitted.

Mr. Potter, who followed for Omaha, admitted the evils of the present condition. but stoutly maintained that state control was the better remedy. American experiments in municipalization of transportation systems have all been failures. Massachusetts, assertions to the contrary notwithstanding, is a forcible example of the feasibility of state control. Stock watering has been prevented, the facilities have been improved and a large part of the profits have been turned into the coffers of the people. Mr. John Grebell then took the floor and explained that the few failures which have resulted from public ownership were the work of grasping corporations who would Grebell demonstrated that in "Bonny said, "and I have not had time to attend Glesga" municipal ownership has been an He raised the question as to whether Presiunqualified success, the street rallways were purchased. Mr. Potter and Mr. Sanborn were then given seven minutes each for rebuttal. As the smoke of battle lifted the judges, Messrs. Will Owen Jones, editor of the Nebraska State Journal, Principal Thomas of the Council Bluffs High school, and Prof. E. C. Persinger, retired to consider. In the interval a thoroughly enjoyed vocal solo by Walter Hoffman and a selection by the orchestra were given. It was then announced amid enthusiastic applause that Omaha had won a unanimous decision. The contest held between classes to determine which could sell the most tickets was won by the seniors by a margin of one. The juniors came second, the freshmen third In the most kindly manner possible last year's defeat in Des Moines has been retrieved and the outlook is favorable for another meeting next year.
