BLAMES OFFICERS FOR HAZING

Resolution Introduced in House for Investigation of Naval Academy.

COMMITTEE ASKED TO REPORT BILL

Changes Asked in Management that Will Make Officials Attend to Their Duties.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Officers of the naval academy are harshly criticised for winking at hazing in a resolution introduced today by Representative Pearre of Maryland. Charges are made against the authorities at the academy as follows:

It appeared to be fairly well ascertained from the testimony given before the court-martial (the Meriwether court-martial) that the practice of fagging, hazing and fighting is common at said institution and that the same was winked at and connived at by the officers of the said institution, whose duty it is to maintain discipline among the midshipmen and to train and perfect them for service as officers of the navy and to protect such midshipmen in their health and life, and that the failure to maintain discipline lay more at the door of said institution than upon the midshipmen attending there.

After reviewing the Branch-Meriwether case and the recent hazing of Midshipman Jerdone Pettus Kimbrough, the resolution provides for a complete investigation by the committee of the house on naval affairs and recommendations by that committee as to how the institution may be so reconstructed and changed as to prevent "disastreous and disgraceful occurrences."

In conclusion the resolution urges emphatically that the responsibility for recent events at Annapolis be fixed definitely and that the committee make recommendations which may lay the blame where it belongs, "so that hereafter the result may not end at the mere dismissing of promising young men from the institution, but bring to book and visit proper penalties upon the trained officers in charge of such institution for the conduct of which they must be held responsible."

Moody's Opinion Not Ready.

Contrary to the expectation of Secretary Bonaparte the opinion of the attorney general as to the jurisdiction of the power of the secretary of the navy to dismiss summarily without court martial a midshipman from the naval academy did not reach the navy department today and the secretary has been obliged to defer until next week his action on the recommendation of Rear Admiral Sands, of the academy at Annapolis, that Midshipman Coffin, jr., be dismissed summarily for hazing, and Midshipman Vandeveer for countenancing the practice.

Lemly's Case Under Advisement.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 16.—It is stated unofficially that Midshipman Rowan P. Lemly, of the third class, is under restrictions owing to the suspected participation in the hazing of Midshipman Jerdone P. Kimbrough. He is a son of Captain Lemly of the judge advocate's department of the navy, and was appointed at large. The statement is made that Lemly was one of the midshipmen found at work on Kimbrough when the latter was in an unconscious condition, but it is not regarded by the authorities as certain whether he took part in the hazing or was merely acting from motives of humanity.

SYSTEM IS SQUEEZING LAWSON

Copper Plunger's Bear Pool Now $3,000,000 Short and More Danger is in Sight.

Thomas W. Lawson announced in Boston Thursday night that his $10,000,000 bear pool in Amalgamated Copper had been hard hit because of the stock's rise above par. He admits it is a personal loss of $3,000,000, and says his entire personal fortune is now involved in the operation.

Mr. Lawson lays the blame for the slump of his pool upon the "system," but announces his intention to fight it to a finish.

Stories that Lawson was in dire financial straits and on the edge of bankruptcy were current, but the best informed financiers place no credence in them.

A statement that two mortgages, totaling $265,000 had been placed on Lawson's palatial residence on Beacon street gave color to the stories of his financial distress.

As a matter of fact, the residence has been in Mrs. Lawson's name for some time and the mortgages, for a much smaller sum, were put on it more than a year ago. Lawson's magnificent country estate at Dreamwold is not encumbered as yet.

Lawson in October advised the public in full-page advertisements to sell copper short and several weeks ago Mr. Lawson announced the formation of a $10,000,000 bear pool to speculate in copper stocks.

He has sent out notices to his pool subscribers showing a loss of 36 per cent—$1,200,000 in the metal and $2,400,000 in stocks—since the last accounting. He advises his followers that they may withdraw the balance of their subscriptions.

They are also allowed to share in a new $5,000,000 subscription to carry the pool on.

Mr. Lawson announces at the same time that his "only outstanding unfulfilled direct prediction is on Trinity. I advise all to hold on to Trinity." In a statement Mr. Lawson says:

"My portion of the $6,600,000 remaining of my first pool of $10,000,000, and of the $5,000,000 addition, $11,000,000 in all, embraces every dollar of my fortune.

"If my operation is unsuccessful I shall lose all of it, which will mean I will have lost $15,000,000 belonging to myself and those who had faith enough in me to join me. It will mean that I will have sacrificed every dollar and everything of worth belonging to me upon which I could raise a dollar.

"Therefore, this is the opportunity for Wall street and the 'system' once and for all to do me up and get me off their trail. The system, in the face of my exposure of its frauds, has used its countless millions to put up the price of stocks, so that at any cost I may be discredited.

"If my operations are successful I expect to secure profits of 100 to 200 per cent. My profits I will devote to the further exposure of the 'system.'

"If I fail the world will know it by my public bankruptcy. If so, I will continue the fight with my pen. If I go under no one need have any sympathy for me. I don't expect or deserve any.

"On the other hand, I warn the 'street' that if I get them going they need expect no mercy. I have disposed of or arranged my other properties of a stock nature so that they will not be involved.

"I promise either to vindicate my past advices or to give the 'system' such a quick and merry battle that they and all the world will know they've been in a fight."—St. Louis Republic.

Their Good Names Cleared.

Settlement of three district court suits against a large department store during the past week has served to clear the names of two Omaha women and a child from the odium cast upon them some months ago by publications in the newspapers. The plaintiffs in the suits were Mrs. Celestia Harris, Mrs. Jessie Walkup and the granddaughter of Mrs. Harris. They had been accused of teaching an 8-yearold child the art of shoplifting and brought suit for $25,000 each. In each case substantial damages were paid, also the costs of suit and all charges were withdrawn. Friends of the women involved feel highly gratified with the result.

WOMAN IN CLUB AND CHARITY

The inquiry of a club woman at one of the leading dry goods stores of the city a few weeks ago, for goods bearing the white label of the Consumers' league brought the astonishing information from one of the proprietors that he had never heard of the league and knew nothing of its goods. While it is difficult to conceive how any large purchaser of dry goods and women's wear could be ignorant of the work of the league, this little incident must prove to the club women of the city that they have work to do right here in Omaha in the crusade that the clubs have undertaken against child labor and the sweat shops, if they fulfill their pledge to the state federation made at Lincoln last October to cooperate with the Consumers' league by creating a demand for goods bearing its "white" label. If the club women do their part the merchants will have at least to offer some better excuse than ignorance for not carrying the white label goods. Some time in January the social science department of the Woman's club will devote one of its meetings to the work of the Consumers' league and also to the various labels of the trades unions, which guarantee the same wholesome conditions in manufacture that the white label of the league stands for. The following article from the Federation Bulletin may be considered with profit by local club women:

Women should know that they have no guarantee that garments purchased in the best shops are not made wholly or in part in tenement and sweat shops. This is not altogether the fault of merchants, the best of whom are anxious to have their wares made under good conditions. It is the fault of the system. A merchant turns over his coats, suits, etc., to contractors, who are interested in getting them made as cheaply as possible. Garments are sometimes made under fairly good conditions, but are sent to tenements to be finished, for the buttonholes, etc. Buttonhole workers are a much oppressed set of women as a rule. They are not organized to any great extent, although the Women's Trade Union league has been endeavoring to form unions among them this year. Italian and other foreign women form the majority of the buttonhole makers. They are so ignorant to demand good wages or fair conditions and are content to work from dawn until bedtime in filthy tenements. One shudders to think of the garments handled by them. Yet these very garments are worn by uptown people, who would turn away in horror from the doors of the places where their coats were partly made. The extent of the contractor system may be learned by inquiry. A woman who desired (for literary purposes) to visit a hat and cap factory went to four large wholesale hat establishments on Broadway before she found a merchant who could direct her to a factory. "We have not the least idea where our hats and caps are made," was the response of the men. The one man who could give the desired information was a clerk who had a sister working in a cap factory.

Here is a list of "Dont's" for club women which the Federation Bulletin thinks appropriate for this season of the year:

Don't shop after 5 o'clock.
Don't shop on Saturday afternoons.
Don't leave your Christmas shopping until the week before Christmas.
Don't give your address carelessly to salespeople.
Don't neglect to ask for underwear bearing the Consumer's League label.

A Brooklyn paper recently published the following interview with a prominent New York club woman on the reasons that so many individual city clubs do not affiliate with the state federation:

Well, she said, some of the clubs are young, and they really haven't made up their minds what they want to do or what they want to know. Their dues are very small and their membership is likewise small, and the conventions of the federation are expensive and the members don't feel that they can afford it. Women's clubs pass through just the same stages that the college boy does. At the end of the freshman year of experience in club life they feel as if they knew a great deal, and at the termination of their sophomore, or second year, they know a very great deal more. When the junior year has passed over their heads, they are ready to teach other clubs what to do, and at the end of the senior year they feel that the world has need of their vast knowledge. But after the clubs have graduated into the larger life and have come in contact with other clubs, they begin to feel how little they know and how much there is to know. So when the clubs are passing through these stages of their growth they really don't know of what immense value the federation is to them; but after they have attained growth and want to learn, instead of teaching, then they realize what the meeting with other clubs means, and what a broadening influence an exchange of ideas is.

The literature department of the Woman's club will hold its meeting December 22, at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Paul Harm will conduct the lesson on Oliver Wendell Holmes.

The art department has postponed its meeting until January 4, when the works of Donatelo and Della Robbia will be shown with the stereopticon. Mrs. A. W. Bowman will preside.

The current topics department will meet Tuesday afternoon, December 19. Mrs. Arthur Brandeis will speak of her personal impressions abroad, and there will be the usual discussion of current events.

NEBRASKA UNIVERSITY HAS AN EXHIBIT

Students of Agricultural Colleges of the West Will Judge Merits of Animals Now on Display.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—The annual exhibition of the International Live Stock show opened today in the new building erected for the purpose at the stock yards. Breeders from all parts of the country and many from Canada are represented, and the affair promises to be the largest of its kind ever held in the west. Animals numbering 2,500 are entered.

The judging of the merits of live stock by the students of the various agricultural colleges in the west has become a great feature of the show and rivalry between the different institutions is keen. The morning and a part of the afternoon were taken up by these contests, which will continue as long as the exhibition, which is scheduled to continue throughout the week.

Among the agricultural colleges represented are those of the states of Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Nebraska. All of these institutions also have exhibits of their own.

The feature of tonight will be the judging of different styles of horses, all of them to be owned or driven by men connected with the stock yards.

REPORT FROM THE PANTHER

German Commander Says Sailors Did Not Seize Brazilian Subject for Desertion.

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—The report of Count Saurma von Jeltsch, commander of the German cruiser Panther, on the Itajahy incident, was received at the Navy department today. It is textually as follows:

Seaman Hassmann had stayed ashore beyond the length of his leave, and as he had been seen in civilian clothing, he was under suspicion of desertion. The German consulate and the Brazilian authorities were requested to assist in obtaining the return of Hassmann and this afternoon promised their support. The German legation at Petropolis was also informed of the affair. Officers in civilian dress and twelve noncommissioned officers went ashore November 26, on leave to inquire about the deserter. They were not ashore in a military capacity and were mostly separated from one another. They asked to be admitted to two places, on a hotel and the other a private house. The manner in which the admissions were obtained were so far as can be ascertained, in the usual form and in both places individual residents. Steinhoff and the son of one of the proprietors, voluntarily assisted the searchers. Those on leave did not go ashore at 2 a. m., but returned to the ship at that hour. Hassmann himself, without co-operation of the men from the Panther, returned to the ship afterward.

It is not true that a military command was sent ashore. Steinhoff was neither arrested or badly treated and he was not taken on board the Panther. He voluntarily supported the efforts to find the deserter.

Steinhoff, as it appears from another report, probably sailed away from Itajahy on a coasting vessel. The report of the commander of the Panther is regarded at the Foreign office as adequately answering the Brazilian minister's complaint that Brazil's national rights had been infringed upon, and that a Brazilian resident had been misused.

ROUVIER ON MOROCCAN MATTER

French Premier Lays Down Attitude of France on Subject.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—The Chamber of Deputies was crowded today in expectation of a notable debate on the government's policy. Intense interest was manifested in the formal declaration from Premier Rouvier concerning Morocco. This, following Chancellor von Buelow's statement in the German Reichstag, is in the nature of an answer and an announcement of the government's position. M. Rouvier's statement will come at the close of the day's session. M. Rouvier's declaration proved very moderate. He concisely explained the desires of France in Morocco, saying:

The propositions of our minister to Morocco never tended toward the establishment of a situation similar to that existing in the United States. He revoked the mandate of the powers and we never dreamed of attacking the sultan's sovereignty. It is our special position which he maintained and which will now be presented at the conference. It is based upon the geographical contiguity of Algeria and France. We desire a liberal regime in Morocco, assuring equal commercial treatment for all the powers. France merely wishes to conscientiously safeguard its rights and retain the full exercise of its liberty.

The premier's declaration was enthusiastically received.

Former Premier Ribot, leader of the opposition, demanded that all parties should unite in sustaining the government, and thereupon further discussion was postponed by a decisive vote of 500 to 50, which was interpreted as being parliamentary approval of M. Rouvier's statement.

REFRESHMENTS FOR PRISONERS

German Emperor Gives Cigarettes and Chocolate to Japanese.

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—Emperor William's adjutant, Lieutenant General von Plessen, met the Japanese prisoners of war who are passing through Germany from Russia at 6 o'clock this morning with large supplies of chocolate and cigarettes and for the officers bouquets of chrysanthemums. There were 1,738 men and fifty-eight officers, and they were much touched by the emperor's thoughtfulness in giving them the first opportunity of seeing the flower of their native land. Besides von Plessen, Baron von Dem Knesebeck, master of ceremonies of the empress and representative of the German Red Cross, and the Japanese mininster and his staff were at the station and shook hands with the officers, while grooms of the emperor distributed the presents. The first train brought sixty-eight dangerously wounded and sick men, five of whom died on the way here. The prisoners universally condemned the treatment they had been subjected to in Russia. They were interned in a country village without newspapers or cigarettes. The crippled Japanese were confined in a very small building and had to crawl around unassisted.

After breakfast the trains with the prisoners proceeded to Hamburg, where the Japanese will embark on the steamers Cambronman and Vancouver.
