ENGEL RAISES PRIZE CORN

D. O. Stalk of Hall County Carries Off Second and Talmage Miller Third.

LIFE-TERM CONVICT ASKS A PAROLE

Implement Men Holding Convention and Discuss Trade Matters Behind Closed Doors—Suicide Compact a Failure.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Dec. 19.—(Special.)—The official announcement of the result in the state corn growing contest for boys indicates that Robert Engel of Saunders county is the winner. Engel received a score of 100. The winner of the second prize is D. O. Stalk, a high school boy, of Hall county, and the fourth to Winifred Bixby of Lancaster county. State Superintendent McFettrick announced that the prizes will be distributed as soon as the necessary affidavits of parents and guardians have been received, certifying to the production of the seed from the seed furnished by the state department.

The corn was judged with reference to uniformity of exhibit, shape of ears, color of cob, color of kernels, market condition, tips of ears, butts of ears, uniformity of kernels, shape of kernels, space between kernels, proportion of corn on ear and weight of grain.

Engel, the prize winner, in a letter to Mr. Bishop describes in detail the method employed by him in producing the corn. He writes:

"Mr. E. C. Bishop, Lincoln: I planted my seed corn in black loam in the garden that had been planned to garden truck the year before. The ground was disced two times then listed and the corn drilled in. The date of the planting was May 25. It was set in drills sixteen to eighteen inches apart. The rows were three feet four inches apart, 120 plants in six rows. The corn was cultivated with a disc cultivator June 10. The disc was set to throw the ground out and again with a shovel cultivator June 16 and 17, and was laid by with a disc cultivator set to throw the ground in July 10. The corn was gathered November 11 and yielded about 300 ears. They weighed 20 pounds I worked about three and a half hours with a team to prepare the ground, plant the corn, cultivate it and gather it. The market value of the crop is $1.20.

"Fremont, Neb., Route 4, Saunders County."

Must Show Popular Vote.

Attorney General Brown has written an opinion withholding his appeal from the purchase of the 500 of Idaho bonds recently contracted for by the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds. The attorney general states that his action is based on the omission of the history of the securities to show that the people of Idaho authorized the purchase of the bonds as required by the state constitution. He says that the presumption may be that the bonds were regularly issued, but he suggests that the popular vote on the bonds be duly authenticated by the proper state officials before the purchase is consummated.

Suing a State Bank Examiner

Depositors Would Recover from State Bank.

O'NEIL, Neb., Dec. 19.—(Special.)—The district court was occupied today in hearing arguments relative to the jurisdiction of the court over the cases in which the depositors in the failed Elkhorn Valley bank are trying to collect their losses from State Bank Examiner Fred White. Attorney Doyle, for the examiner, contends that the court in this district would have no jurisdiction over the cases for the reason that the reports of all state bank examiners are filed in Lincoln in Lancaster county, Nebraska, and that if any action would be at any place the action would have to be commenced in the county in which the reports of the bank examiners are filed and become a part of the permanent records. Attorney Harrington for the depositors argued that Holt county was the place where the work of examining was done and was the proper place to bring the suit. The depositors allege that, because of the bank passing the examination of the state bank examiner, was the reason they had confidence in the bank and placed or left their money therein. The case is attracting considerable interest as a large number of the depositors are watching the proceedings now in court. The court overruled the objection to jurisdiction; a jury was chosen and the case proceeded to trial on its merits. The bank charter, some of the bank records and a copy of the official book of the bank examiner were introduced in evidence. A hard-fought trial is expected.

Nebraska Emigrant Returns.

YORK, Neb., Dec. 19.—(Special.)—Andy Shansky, a prosperous York county farmer who in a few years accumulated a competence farming York county land, although well pleased both financially and socially with the surroundings and acquaintances here, was homesick for his old Ohio home, and had said many times: "When I make enough money out of the farm I am going back to old Ohio and the scenes of my boyhood to live and die." About one month ago the family loaded a car with their household goods and other personal property, bidding their many friends an affectionate goodbye, and left for Ohio.

This week they returned, bringing with them all of the goods they shipped. For some reason Mr. Shansky and family could not or did not care to adjust themselves to the old fashioned ways, and finding so many had moved away they did not unload the car, but decided that Nebraska was good enough for them and that there was no other place quite as good as York and York county, and are mighty glad to get back.

Board Meets at Kearney.

Tomorrow the State Board of Education will meet at Kearney, the purpose of the session in that city is to enable the members to inspect the new western normal building, which is said to be ready for acceptance. The board adjourned last time to meet at Kearney, with the understanding that the contractor would have the work completed.

The South Platte Implement Dealers' association began work this afternoon. By tomorrow fully 300 dealers are expected. The first meeting of the session was opened with a speech of welcome by Judge W. H. England. President Jerome Shamp of Lincoln delivered the address. He declared that the uniformity of prices among the dealers means fair treatment for all of their patrons and defended the secret sessions on the ground that every business interest in the country has a right to discuss trade matters without the intervention of the public. The dealer who is in the city doing the work, which has been going the rounds, to the effect that they are in a trust to hold up prices.

President Shamp in an interview stated that the dealers and the International Harvester company are now on the best of terms, although at one time they were about to clash.

One of the topics which will be taken up during the sessions of the association will be the activity of the Chicago catalogue houses. The dealers say that they have out deeply into their business by selling inferior wares at low prices.

The South Platte Implement dealers tonight elected the following officers: President, Jerome Shamp, Lincoln; first vice president, G. W. Maurer, Beatrice; second vice president, W. T. Crawford, McCook; members of the executive committee, A. E. Perkins, Lincoln; J. C. Gendler, Sutton; H. E. Rising, City; N. B. Nelson, Jansen; H. P. Waite, McCook. The secretary will be named by the executive committee.

Attempt to Assault Young Girl

Cries Bring Father to Assistance and Assault Escapes.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Dec. 19.—(Special.)—Miss Ethel Wallace, a girl of 16 years, who resides with her parents in the town district, gave an outcry Sunday night, about 10 o'clock, from her room, to which she had retired about an hour before, when her father arrived the window opening to the alley was open. The screen had been torn off. The girl related that she had felt someone pulling at her limb, had awakened, had first thought it was her mother and had asked mamma not to tease her, she was tired, but when the treatment became more rough immediately she turned on the light and saw the man, and she looked up she saw the face of a big, rough looking man in the window; a man who was trying to pull her through the window and out into the alley. The girl's story is corroborated by a reputable young man who was passing near the place at the time and saw a big, husky looking fellow running up the alley as if for his life. He did not know until this morning of the outcry of the girl or the attempt to take her through the window. After the screen had been torn away the window had been raised part of the bed clothing was out of the window.
