FIGHTING IN STREETS OF MOSCOW

League of Leagues Issues an Appeal to the Public Asking for Support of the Proletariat.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 21.—

Since noon today the streets have been filled with troops, especially those in the industrial sections. The railroad stations are in possession of the military. Wholesale arrests of the leaders of the workmen were made last night. It is reported that the police include in their captures the members of the second workmen's council, who were placed in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul, with the members of the first council, who were arrested Saturday night. A third council, however, promptly took the place of the second.

The League of Leagues has issued an appeal to the public, asking for liberal support of the proletariat, "which is bearing the brunt of the struggle for the emancipation of the nation." The appeal says there is bound to be much privation, starvation and even death from cold and not only asks for material aid, but proposes the inauguration of free dining rooms for workmen in all parts of the city.

Moscow is already cut off from St. Petersburg and with the provinces generally, and communication can be maintained only through the Lithuanian insurrection has extended into the province of Vitbeak, across the borders of Latvia. At Kokunhusen, the chief of police and his assistants were tried by a revolutionary tribunal and executed.

It turns out that Tukum, in Courland, only surrendered after a severe fight, which lasted for twelve hours. The insurrectionists had fortified the town by throwing up entrenchments before which they dug pits. They also had in position the machine guns, recently captured by them. The trenches were taken by storm, both sides losing heavily.

The latest information from Kharkoff says that 10,000 revolutionaries are under arms and that troops are being collected for the purpose of recapturing the city.

The revolutionaries are very vainly. In the center of the city the shops were not closed, the proprietors having received guarantees that if they remained open they would be given ample protection and that any denunciation of strikers seeking by threat of force to compel an official of the shops would be instantly arrested. There was, however, an impressive demonstration in the industrial sections.

The main interest in the strike of the railroad men centered in the Warsaw station, where the trains were stopped and a test of its ability to move a train for Berlin. The depot was packed with troops. Promptly at noon there was a wild hurrah, accompanied by the roar of escaping steam, and a few minutes later the railroad men walked out of the yards in a body. The authorities, however, were not taken by surprise and a delay of ten minutes a locomotive manned by soldiers of a railroad battalion backed into the station and was coupled to the waiting train, which was crowded with people seeking to depart from the unhappy country. Lines of soldiers with fixed bayonets flanked the train and an official with four soldiers entered the carriages and thoroughly searched them in order to ascertain if suspicious persons were on board.

As the official and his escort left the train a signal was given and twenty soldiers entered the baggage car, while an other detachment was scattered through the carriages. The train then pulled out. An extra car loaded with wrecking apparatus was attached to the train to be used in case of accidents between stations. The usual mail car was missing. At other stations similar precautions will be taken. In the manufacturing districts beyond the Warsaw and Narva gates, in the Rehuselburg district, and in the sections on both sides of the Neva, the workmen generally obeyed the summons to strike and promptly at noon thousands of them emerged to the streets.

Police Cossacks, soldiers of the guard regiments and other patrols were everywhere, but so far as reported no collisions marked the inauguration of the strike. The workmen seemed very quiet but determined. The men of each factory selected in advance a certain number of agitators for the purpose of preventing any attempt to introduce strike-breakers into the factories.

Fighting in Moscow Streets. 4:30 p. m.—The single telephone wire working to Moscow this afternoon brought grave reports of serious disorders and collisions between the troops and the populace.

The Narshansky, formerly the Syn Otschestva, and other secretly published papers, which are being distributed by thousands to the workmen, are filled with the most inflammatory appeals, inciting the people to an armed rebellion. Many of the articles are especially directed to the army, which is implored not to shed the blood of the nation. One writer, addressing the soldiers, said:

"Join us, rise with us. No power can stand against a people and army united." The strike call, in addition to making the regular demands for constituent assembly, universal suffrage, the abolition of martial law, immunity of the person and the other features of the proletarian program, insists on the release of the imprisoned members of the workmen's council, the discontinuance of all political suits, acquiescence in the petitions of the army and navy and of the railroad and postal telegraph employes for an increase of pay, the transfer of the land to the people, an eight-hour day and the abolition of all restrictions regarding nationalities and religion.

It is significant that the workmen in the mills and factories have for more than a week been presenting demands that the priests discontinue the usual prayers for

LONG TALKS ON RATE LAW

Kansas Senator Addresses Knife and Fork Club on Proposed Legislation.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 21.—President Steart of the Board of Police Commissioners today received a letter from Governor Folk instructing that the police raid so-called "clubs" organized for the evasion of the Sunday liquor law and the avoidance of dramshop license payment. Governor Folk instructs that the clubs be raided not only on Sunday, but on week days, in every case where it is apparent that the liquor is being sold to the general public in violation of the charter issued to these organizations as social clubs. In his letter Governor Folk states:

A club has no more right to sell liquor without the liquor license than any other place, sold to the public, it is utterly immaterial whether there is a club charter. In accordance with the instructions Chief of Police Kieley announced this afternoon that the so-called clubs would be raided next Sunday, and these raids will continue until the establishment of the liquor law. It is stated that the violations of the dramshop law cease. There are 147 so-called "club clubs" in St. Louis. Chief Kieley stated that legitimate clubs will not be disturbed, but that arrests will be made wherever it is found that liquor is being sold to the general public in violation of the law. It is stated that many of the so-called clubs do not limit the sale of liquor to bona fide members.

The proposed campaign against organizations known as "clubs" was begun early tonight, when, acting under orders from Chief of Police Kieley, the police raided five of the establishments, among them the proprietor of one, the bartender of another and the secretary at the two others, besides fifteen persons found in the various places. The places raided were the Occidental, West St. Louis Business Men's Mutual Benevolent association, the Pickwick club, the Modern business club and the Association club. The principals of the clubs were held on charges of selling liquor without licenses and the persons found in the places were held as witnesses.

Late tonight two more squads of policemen were ordered out to make further raids.

NEW PHASE OF LAND FRAUD

Oregon Lumber Company Asks Return of Money Paid in Good Faith to Protect Bogus Titles.

SALEM, Ore., Dec. 21.—A new phase in the school land scandal presented itself today in the application for return of partial payments on counterfeit certificates, made in good faith to the State School Land board by the Fenwood Lumber company of Wausau, Wis., which holds fifteen bogus certificates for an aggregate of 4,239 acres. The Fenwood company, which is the owner of the certificates to one "D. R. Murphy," which is believed to be an alias of one of the persons convicted several months ago in the federal courts of defrauding the government of public land and who is now a fugitive from justice.

Payments were made in Murphy's name on these certificates as fast as they became due by the Fenwood company, and they now ask that these payments be refunded. The land board has deferred action in the matter until it is determined whether they have the authority to refund payments.

CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY

Man Whose Supposed Body Was Found in Pickling Vat is Alive in Los Angeles.

SELIN'S GROVE, Pa., Dec. 21.—The body of H. E. McCarthy of this place was found in a pickling vat in one of the medical colleges in St. Louis has brought to light a case of mistaken identity and clears up to a certain extent the mystery surrounding the disappearance of a bank book belonging to the man named. According to the St. Louis story, the dead man was on his person a bank book which showed a deposit of $11,000 in his credit in the First National bank of Selin's Grove, Pa. C. B. North, cashier of the bank, said today that McCarthy some months ago, while traveling in the western states, was robbed of the entire sum containing his personal effects along with his bank book. He notified the bank and a duplicate book was sent. Nothing was heard of the thief, who he named the "brother of secretives" and the affair was forgotten.

The finding of the body in the medical college, in which the book indicated that the late possessor of the book came to an unfortunate end, and that McCarthy, the rightful owner of the deposit, is alive.

The real McCarthy's parents are prominent residents of this place, and their fears were allayed when they learned that he had just received a letter from their son in Los Angeles, Cal. McCarthy and his wife are traveling on the western coast.

CRISIS IN THE GLASS TRADE

President of Blowers' Union Says Wages Must Be Reduced to Meet Machine Competition.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 21.—President A. L. Faulkner of the Amalgamated Window Glass Workers of America issued a special letter here today to the members of the organization advocating that a reduction in wages be accepted in order to prevent disaster to all who are not interested in machine-made product. One paragraph of the letter says:

After January 23 there is no power on earth that we can use to keep all the members employed unless we meet the situation by a reduction in wages for a time at least.

The letters were sent to the members of the organization in anticipation of the meeting of the Independent Window Glass Workers, to be held in January, at which time it is believed the independents will be in a position to line up solidly against the American Window Glass company. The company made a big cut in the price of window glass recently.

In his letter President Faulkner said the condition of the window glass business is bad and that the prospect for the future is worse. He said that the American Window Glass company had entered upon an active campaign against the hand-blown product, which is checked by speed and decisive united action on the part of the manufacturers and workers will end disastrously to all who are not interested in machine-made product.

WINDSTORM IN PENNSYLVANIA

Tornado Sweeps Wyoming Valley and Does Great Damage to Wires and Buildings.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Dec. 21.—A heavy rain and windstorm, which practically reached the dimensions of a hurricane, swept the Wyoming valley today. One man was killed and property worth thousands of dollars was destroyed in this city and surrounding towns.

Telegraph and telephone wires were broken down in all directions and for several hours communication was cut off. The Traction company's wires also suffered and the system was seriously crippled.

At Latrobe, north of this city, a large building leading to the Delaware & Hudson Lumber company, was overturned by the wind and a Hungarian laborer was crushed to death by the falling timbers. The building was 60 feet long and 25 feet high. At Pymouth, Pittston, Nantico and other towns in the valley the storm also wrought considerable damage.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 21.—The worst wind and rainstorm in its history swept the Ohio region last night and this morning, causing thousands of dollars damage. Telephone and electric wires are down; trees are uprooted, fences and small buildings are demolished; houses are unroofed and many windows are broken. Traffic on the trolley lines were tied up, and on the Western Pennsylvania railway cars filled with passengers had to stop at lonely places until the storm abated.

HENDRICKS IS UNDER FIRE

New York Insurance Superintendent Questioned by Attorney Hughes.

ALL EXAMINATIONS ARE PERFUNCTORY Reports Required Taken at Face and Are Much Less Complete Than Those Furnished to Foreign Governments.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Francis Hendricks, superintendent of insurance of New York, was the chief witness before the legislative committee of insurance investigation today and testified that the examinations of insurance companies by his department are made only to ascertain the solvency of the companies and that no inspection is made into the extravagance of the management of a company or into the salaries paid to officers so long as the company is able to pay its obligations. No investigation is made into the commissions paid to agents, the system of loaning on the premiums, the advance on loans to agents or loans to directors. The employment of kinship of officers in high positions is not inquired into. This has long been the custom of the department, Mr. Hendricks said, and he declared further that he personally knew little or nothing about the various examinations made, as they were entrusted to Isaac Vanderpool, the chief examiner of the department.

While Mr. Hendricks' memory failed him as to any legislation which he had suggested as a remedy to any defects in the laws governing insurance companies he presented had ever been opposed in either house of the legislature. Neither had any bills been passed against his recommendation.

Mr. Hendricks said that his department spent last year about $127,000 and received fees and payments $287,726, which was paid into the state treasury. To make examinations that would bring out such information as has been gathered by the legislative committee, the witness said, would require ten more examiners and an additional appropriation of from $100,000 to $200,000. He thought, however, he could get the appropriation if he asked for it.

LEGAL EXPENSE ACCOUNTS

Mr. Hendricks knew nothing of the large legal expenses of the New York Life insurance company, the Equitable and the Mutual Life, as he had never been called to his attention. He had never heard of the wash sales of securities, nor the year-end loans of the Equitable to clerks of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., nor had these ever been brought to his attention.

Mr. Hughes asked: "Do you require the companies to present a detailed statement of their legal disbursements showing the names of lawyers who had money and what they had it for?" "No, I don't think so."

"Now, we find information of that sort being furnished to Prussia and not to the New York state department. Here, for example, I have the statement of the legal expenses of the New York Life for 1888, amounting to $107,000, and the statement of legal expenses as furnished to the Prussian government. Now, did the New York state department ever have a statement like that?"

"No."

"From the New York Life or any other company?"

"I think not."

"Well, you have got a total in the case of the New York Life, and the point is that if it had not been the tradition of the department, or the ordinary practice, to know anything of the legal expenses, or legal expenses, and as long as they had enough left to meet their liabilities with such a margin, that in the ordinary expectations of life would not be exceeded, why would you not take up the question of the details of their disbursements?"

"I don't think so."

"Then they were referred to the statistician in the first instance?"

"Yes."

"What were his duties with reference to the report?"

"He examined all the reports."

"Did you look through the collateral loans?"

"I don't think so."
