

SOCIETY IN THE HOLIDAYS

Omaha People Lay Out a Lot of Things for Coming Week.

LITTLE SOMETHING DOING ALL THE TIME

Calendar Full of Announcements and Many Private Affairs Are Certain to Occupy the Family Reunions.

Gifts of the Heart.

"Twas the week before Christmas, financially hard, Not a soul said a word but what someone was cured, On occasion a voice made a sad sort of stir, Exclaiming, 'Why should we give presents to her?' And another whose knowledge of grammar was slim, Cried, 'I'm sure that we never get nothing from him.' 'Tis a tedious affair that we cannot well stem— You see that we might receive presents from them."

The Social Calendar.

MONDAY—Hanscom Park dancing club (at home) at 8 o'clock.

TUESDAY—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haller's dancing party for their daughter, Miss Curtis and Miss Carita Curtis, a luncheon; Mrs. Will Ogden's box party for Mrs. Dunmore.

SATURDAY—Mr. Edwin Crichton, a dancing party at Chambers; Mr. Earl Campbell, a card party.

Such a round as society is to have this week. For every day and nearly every hour of the day from Monday morning until Saturday night there will be something going on. Not for years has there been such a general reunion of Omaha families. Not only the college folks, but scores of those who have long since finished school, have come home to spend Christmas, many of them for the first time in years and many of them, too, are bringing sons and daughters of their own. Christmas day will be given over chiefly to family dinner parties, with the matinee at theaters, and at least one large dancing party in the evening. And after that there will be one continuous, gay whirl until New Year day is over.

The reception to old settlers and their families to be given at the Omaha club New Year day is one of the most anticipated functions planned for the holidays. While there have been such gatherings in the past, they have been given in private homes and by close invitation, but this year the invitation is extended to all residents of Omaha previous to 1871 and their descendants over 18 years of age, and the gathering promises to be a notable one.

Just now when every mail brings an invitation a great deal is being said about acceptances—a great deal on both sides of the question. On the part of the invited ones it is, for the most part, the inquiry, "Is it proper or necessary to send acceptance or regrets to such large affairs as receptions, teas, dances and card parties?" and on the other hand the hostesses are fuming at the absolute carelessness with which other people regard their social obligations. Is it necessary to respond to an invitation? It is at least the courteous thing to do, and the courteous thing can never be very much out of place. Since the days when everybody's library included an "Etiquette Book" the rule has prevailed that an engraved invitation warrants a formal reply, but nowadays cards are received and entered on one's engagement book and if, at the last moment, nothing else comes up that is more promising the invited one presents himself or herself and partakes of the hospitality of the host or hostess with a clear conscience, and if because the half-distracted hostess has had no possible means of knowing for how many guests to provide, some of the little details of the refreshments, for instance, are not quite perfect, these same selfish ones are the first to sniff at it.

For a long time the well bred put up with this sort of thing without complaint, and then those four letters, "R. S. V. P." began to appear on invitations. For a time this hint was taken, but after a while this, too, failed to bring a reply and then the hint became a little more pointed and an additional inscription was attached to the card, "Response Will Be Appreciated." Before long the word "Early" was added to this and next this little word took the form of a request, until nowadays one finds such inscriptions as this at the foot of formal and, in fact, all sorts of invitations: "An early reply is requested." "An early reply will be appreciated." "A reply is requested at your earliest convenience." What would our guests have done after thought of this—hostess begging an acknowledgment to such a courtesy, or, rather, the necessity of it?

Within the month, out of nearly 500 invitations that were issued for one of the smartest functions, less than 200 replies were received, notwithstanding the fact that a reply had been requested. Late last season the host of one of the most formal functions of the year attached to his invitations, "An early answer is requested," and notwithstanding this less than one-third of the guests who presented themselves that evening had made any reply to his invitation. It would almost seem that regardless of one's personal opinion of the importance of his acknowledgment, such a request with an invitation would insure a reply, but evidently everyone does not see the matter in this light, and at this rate it will not be long before a hostess' only choice will be some such inscription as this, "Failure to reply will be accepted as declination."

After a short visit with the parents of the groom at Beatrice Mr. and Mrs. Calland will leave for Ogden, Utah, where they will reside.

A wedding which was solemnized in Ashland last Tuesday evening of interest to many Omaha and South Omaha people was that of Mr. James Honour Brady, superintendent of the Union Stock Yards Railroad company of Omaha, and Miss Lucy Lucile Penny, who has been a very popular teacher in South Omaha for several years. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. E. Russell of Ord, Neb., at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Martha Elizabeth Penny, in Ashland, in the presence of about seventy-five relatives and friends. Preceding the entrance of the bride party Miss Blanche Sorenson of Omaha sang in an effective manner "The Song of a Heart." She also sang during the reception. At the appointed hour, as Miss Edith Shedd played the Lohengrin wedding march, the bride party entered, led by the Misses Elsie Montgomery and Edith Carpenter of South Omaha, Miss Mattie Penny and Miss Carrie Brush, who attached the ribbons. Then came the groom and his best man, Mr. Gail Hamill of South Omaha, followed by little Miss Rees, carrying the ring in an American Beauty rose. Following was the maid of honor, Miss Julia Parkhurst, preceding the bride who was charming in a gown of white embroidered tulle, with yoke and beehive of pearls. The bride had bouquet of American Beauty roses. The house was most attractively decorated with festoons of Christmas greens, holly, cut flowers and red Christmas bells. Mr. and Mrs. Brady left for a wedding trip of several weeks in California, and will be at home in South Omaha after February 1. Among the out-of-town guests were Miss Elsie Montgomery, Miss Edith Carpenter, Mr. Gail Hamill, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Shingley and Mr. L. B. Smith, all of South Omaha; Miss Blanche Sorenson of Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Penny of Butte, Mont., Mr. E. Porter of Pittsburgh, Pa., Mrs. Alvin Todd, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Todd, Miss Todd and Mr. Caldwell of Lincoln and Rev. A. E. Russell of Ord, Neb.

ELABORATE EATING ON DINERS

Union Pacific Will Serve a Fruit Lunch Free and Provide Many Delicacies.

Overland punch, with the compliments of the Union Pacific road, will be served to all patrons of the diners on the Union Pacific on Christmas day. For this punch the commissary department of the Union Pacific has taken great pains, going so far as to send exact instructions to all conductors as to the making of the punch so that all will be made alike. In order to have fresh fish the company has at great expense provided sea bass direct from San Francisco, which is about the only fish that can be secured fresh at this time. The menu for the Christmas dinner is one of the most elaborate and beautiful creations ever put out by any road. The cover contains a reproduction of a beautiful water color in colors on sheepskin, and is pretty enough to frame.

The Northwestern Union Pacific combination inaugurated a new idea for tourists in this country, which was to put in an exclusively first-class, personally conducted tour to California. The success of this was so marked last season that it will be duplicated this year when, on February 7, V. J. Baird, excursion agent of the Union Pacific, will leave Chicago with a select party and spend the disagreeable portions of February and March in the land of perpetual summer. The cost for forty days from Omaha, with everything paid and first-class, will be $230. All arrangements have been made for every travel comfort. The cars will be standard sleepers and diners. The schedules are so arranged that the most interesting portion of the trip will be made by daylight runs with stops at the more important points of interest. All meals will be served on the diners or at first-class hotels.

SICK FOLKS TO BE CHEERED

Music and Flowers to Be Added in Generous Measure to Brighten Hospital Life.

The hospitals of the city will be flooded with Christmas cheer on Monday. Those who are on beds of sickness or who may be convalescing will be made to feel of the joy that comes with the Yuletide season. In some of the hospitals services will be held, while in nearly all music, flowers and words of cheer will be offered in every room and ward.

Midnight mass will be celebrated in the chapel at St. Joseph's hospital by Rt. Rev. John Jettette, chaplain of the hospital. Following this service, at 5 and 6 o'clock Christmas morning services will be held, while vesper will be given at 2 in the afternoon. About 8 o'clock in the evening, in the hospital, the patients will be treated to a Christmas tree and entertainment. Santa Claus has promised to visit the hospital during the evening and distribute presents.

Dean Beecher of Trinity cathedral will have charge of the Christmas service at Clarkson hospital at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. On Christmas a tree will be displayed for the children at that institution.

In Immanuel hospital the tree will be in view Sunday evening, while the religious service will be in order Monday afternoon. A general good time is the program at Immanuel. Santa Claus and music will be the attractions for those who are confined at the Methodist Episcopal hospital. Such good things as patients may eat will be served at the Wise Memorial hospital Monday. The Central will have a Christmas tree and exercises, but will endeavor to make the patients feel it is Christmas day in fact as well as fancy.

STOPPED BY ZIP OF BULLET

Detective Maloney Fires High at Fleeing Prisoner and Makes Him Come In.

The probabilities are L. G. McKay was more scared yesterday afternoon when Detective Maloney fired a shot over his head at Sixteenth and California streets than when Santa Claus Friday evening when his whiskers caught fire. McKay threw up both hands and grew weak in the knees when the missile whistled by his ear. The man was arrested with W. M. Wooster and J. J. Plalle in a room over North Sixteenth street by Detectives Maloney and Drummy. While the officers turned their attention to the other two men McKay tried to get away, but the report of the pistol brought him back to the fold like a lamb.

The men, who are booked at the city jail as being suspected persons, said they came here from Chicago. They are suspected of stealing a lot of tools recovered from a pawnshop by Detective Savage.

SANTA AT THE CITY MISSION

Good Old Saint Will Work Extra on Tuesday to Gladden Hearts of Little Ones.

Tuesday will be a red-letter day at the City mission, on Tenth street. In the morning at 9 o'clock the boys of the mission will be treated by Santa Claus and the good women of the mission, while the girls, who are said to have more patience than boys, will have their annual Christmas treat at 2 o'clock. Miss Magee expects to make about 300 poor boys and girls feel better for having come in contact with the City mission. There will be a large tree at the mission and lots of good things to eat and wear will be given.
