Sir Horace C. Plunkett of Dublin, fre- party. and, now on his annual visit to Omaha to ook over his extensive realty holdings tere, expresses himself as better pleased | with the material conditions and prospects

"One can see a general and striking improvement of conditions," said Sir Horace. It will be solved no one can tell." Of course it has been apparent for sev eral years, but now it appeals to one with special force. On every hand new buildings are noticed and it is easy to perceive the enthusiastic feeling in all husiness circles.

"I wish to speak a special word of praise the Jubilee edition of The Bee issued New Year's, I was pleased particularly with the art features of the issue. I was gladto see that its attitude was conservative and not inclined to padding or exaggeration. We do not want any more padded ensus reports. The injury done to Omaha by the inflated figures of 1890 cannot be estimated. It has been a source of regret to me and I have encountered the bad effects and had them called to my attention long distances from this city.
