POULTRY SHOW ENDS WITH NIGHT SESSION

Stock Yards Company Pays $33,064.49 in Taxes, Which Is Largest Single Amount Ever Paid in City of South Omaba.

It has become known at the Exchange that Thomas B. McPherson, late cashler of the Union Stock Yards' National bank. will be at the head of a new and powerful cattle company which is to open offices in the Exchange building within the next few days. Several men of prominence have joined in the undertaking. Mr. McPherson will be at the head of the concern. The name of the company has not yet been decided, and for that reason it is as yet not announced what branch of the cattle industry they will take up. Presumably it will be in the nature of cattle loans.

Miss Ella Reynolds, who is one of the pioneer office women of the Exchange, and who has been for several years connected with the Union Stock Yards' National bank as private secretary, announced her resignation yesterday. She has long almost filled the place of an assistant cashier and has been depended on by every one in the institution. She was the first woman to hold a business position in the yards. Hereafter she will be identified with the new company of which Mr. McPherson will be

Close of Poultry Show.

Everything went smoothly at the poultry show yesterday afternoon and evening. There was a fair crowd in the building all the time. The crowds did not stay long at any time, but passed in and out regularly. The prizes were all determined late in the evening and the ribbons were all distributed. Every local fancier had a prize of some sort, and indeed the Nebraska fowls proved to be as good as those from New York. Some of the prize winners sold as high as $10. John Burth of Maynard sold five of his birds at good figures. John Postal card notices were sent out over the Postal card notices were sent sold five of his birds at good figures. John Fritz Roberts was offered $10 for his first prize pulled in the Buff Wyandotte class. He entered only two birds in the competition. F. A. Agnew's fowls won him a good number of prizes, as did those of H. B. Fleherty. A full list of the prize winners will be available today, and it is expected that the exhibit will break up this evening. Fnancially the venture has proved a great success, considering that this is the first exhibition in South Omaha-The management has enough on hand to pay all expenses and leave a small margin in the treasury. Biggest Tax Payment.

The largest check for taxes which has ever been received in South Omaha was turned into the treasury yesterday, when the Union Stock Yards company sent in Its remittance for $33,061.49. Their check was made out for $33,074.49, but the city returned $10 which was overpaid. With this check all the large amounts have been paid up, and the city has its finances all to the good. Of course, there will be a number of delinquents, and some of them will be in places which would surprise the public if they knew. mally arraigned before Police Judge Patrick King. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder in the first degree. After the arraignment he was remanded to jail and will be given his preliminary trial Saturday morning at 9 a. m. There will be a large number of witnesses in the case. Small Fire Causes Excitement.

There was considerable excitement for a ininute yesterday afternoon caused by the breaking out of a fire in the rooms of Arthur Webster, between Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh on M street. The fire was caused by a defective gasoline stove, it is said. This started the blaze, which communicated to several lace curtains, which were consumed and the paint and paper of the room. The fire was soon under control. The damage was not great.

Haverly's Office.

CLERK IS STORMED BY PENSIONERS

With Aid of Experienced Assistants and His Own Experience He Withstands the On-Slaught.

The office of County Clerk Haverly was the scene of about the only busile caused Thursday morning. Mr. Haverly's force was up against the pension certificate business strong. There are about 200 pensionalways is to the fore about the first of the month. Mr. Haverly's new clerks had the advantage of the assistance of Deputy Frank Dowey who knows all about the workings of the office, so everything went along about as usual. Mr. Haverly himself also has had a lot of experience, having held the office before. Former Clerk Drexel was on hand to Miss Eva Mahoney, record clerk, also was present, to make her successor, Miss Berger, acquainted with the routine of her duties.

County Engineer Edquist and his sucnoon, so Mr. Beal settled in his chair as naturally as if he had been there for change at all, because good draughtsmen publishers are Dodd. Mead & Co are not a plentiful commodity just now. Later on he will have the appointment of two inspectors.

In the Sheriff's Office.

Sheriff McDonald's chief deputy, Asel Steere, jr., took hold of the office promptly at the appointed hour. Being an attorney, he is already well posted on the legal end detail is to be mastered. Deputies Harte sheriff, John Power, gave to his successor, John W. McDonald, a welcome in Gaelic not speak the old tongue with fluency, but & Co. are the publishers, he managed to let Power know that everything was all right, so far as he was concerned. Power's deputies, headed "Billy" Cunningham, the chief, acted like a lot of boys let out of school. Captain Henry Haze, just resigned from the police department, was present to extend congratulations to the new sheriff.

Sheriff Power will rest for a brief spell before taking up the active management of various business enterprises in which he is interested.

Holes in a Skimmer.

Harry Deuel told his successor, Frank Bandle, a revised version of the old yarn about the holes in a skimmer. Mr. Bandle replied that he knows not only there are ioles in a skimmer, but also in a solid base ball diamond, at times.

"Me a catcher," said Mr. Bandle, "and I should be able to catch on here without much trouble. Of course, Harry, if they shoot 'em in too swift I may call on you for relief, but with Pat Tobin as backstop for me we will worry along all right." Then Mr. Deuel gathered up all his money and his bank book and smilingly went away to ponder on the changes of life and the possibility of the supreme court taking cognizance later of the fact that he is still on earth and as optimistic as he ever was. Emmet G. Solomon's chair as deputy county auditor was vacant and will remain meh before February 1. Over at the county jail "Jim" Roach turned over to the new tailer. George B. Stryker, his keys, likewise the requisite number of prisoners to enable Mr. Stryker ner. #### CURRENT LITERATURE.

This year the west has furnished scenes and material for a number of season's bocks. "Heart's Desire," by Emerson Hough is a story of western life in the early days, whose scenes are laid in a little mining town of that name. Mr. Hough has hunted and traveled all over the west from the Mississippi to the Rockies and his descriptions are of places such as he has seen and lived in. The inhabitants of Heart's Desire are men-generous, open-hearted miners and cowboys different classes of society-such as have been found in mining camps before. The advent of women into this man's town even though they are members of a "stranded" family, causes quite a commotion. How certain other things-including love, the law and eventually the railroads, & Company are the publishers. came to Heart's Desire is told with naturalness and breath of open-air that adds much to the romance and interest of the story. Those who have read Mr. Hough's "The Mississippi Bubble," or "The Law of the Land," will be much more interested in this latest story. F. B. Masters has furnished illustrations, and the Macmillan company are the publishers.

"Ole Ann and Other Stories," Jeanette Grace Watson, is a small collection of little stories of negro life in the south. The book is bound in a dainty white cover and contains many full page iliustrations by Bertha Rockwell. The bandling of the subjects and pictures show knowledge of the subject. The Saaifield company are the publishers.

"David Ransom's Watch," by Mrs. G. R. Alden (Pansy) is a story of love and purity, where the better affections are set toward the richer things of life. David's deserved reward, and it is good to read of him. Nor will it be found lacking in entertainment, but on the contrary the reader will find his better nature stirred, a keen heartfelt interest in this story of a thoroughly good man.

Pansy's earlier writings, numbering more Her recent writings, however, have been for youth and adults and have shown a steady growth in strength and general interest. The illustrations are by Ernest Fosberry. Lothrop, Lee & Shepard company are the publishers.

'The Fort in the Wilderness; or, The Soldier Boys of the Indian Trails," by Edward Stratemeyer is the fifth volume of his "Colonial Series," and is a continuation of the previous one of the series which was entitled "On the Trail of Pontiac." Young David Morris and his cousin, Henry, continue to be the central figures, together with the favorite characters, Sam Barringford, the quaint old frontiersman, and White Buffalo, the friendly Indian chief. The scenes of the story take place at the

the boys like to learn the stirring portions of their country's history through the pages of Mr. Stratemeyer, who can be commended as giving no wrong impresstons, while telling stories of keenest interest. The illustrations are by A. B. Shute and Lothrop. Lee & Shepard company are the publishers.

"The Mother," by Norman Duncan, is a short novel that shows what a master can do at depicting a single human emotion-It is the story of a self-supporting young widow, naturally rather vulgar, who is beautified with the possession of a love by the transfer of the county offices made for her little boy, a love so large that no one could have greater, for she is willing to give her life for him. Although the theme of the story is simplicity itself, ers who get their certificates made out in there is variety in every line of the telling, Omaha, and a large proportion of these and one is held under the peculiar spell of a man who knows how to depict the honest truth of the human heart, the tears next the smiles, purity and cunning close to gether, animal and angel united as they are. To some it will be a good story and to some a masterpiece. It is fair to presume that Mr. Duncan is picturing some of the life that came under his observation in the early days when he was a New York render any assistance in his power, and newspaper man. Fleming H. Revell company are the publishers.

Miss Carolyn Wells has added another volume to her Patty books, calling the new one "Patty in the City." This volume is cessor, Herman Beal, of South Omaha, dedicated to Dorothy Esterbrook. This had settled their transfer Wednesday after- clever author is very popular with the young folks, as has been demonstrated by the previous volumes, "Patty Fairfield" months. He will retain the present force and "Patty at Home," which have been to start with and may not make any great favorites with the boys and girls. The

"A Knot of Blue." by William B. A. Wil son, is a story of a man's fickleness and woman's steadfast, conquering love. The knot of blue was the bow the fair Almee de Marsay gave to Raoul de Chatignac, the fickle lover, to wear in war, whither he went to regain his self-respect after having of his duties, but an immense amount of been duped by an intriguing woman and a cunning villain. Although not an historica and Rutler were also on hand and settled romance in any sense, the scene is laid in down to await for what might turn up that quaint spot where the old world and like old experienced hands. "A Prince of Lovers," by Sir William Magnay, Bart., has its scene of action laid in Waldavia and Beroldstein-names which hide the identity of two of the many independent German states which existed for the greater part of two centuries after the close of the thirty years' war. The once secret chronicles of such kingdoms and principalities contain extraordinary material for romance, and from some of these the author has derived incidents which furnish a most surprising plot, vivid scenes of adventure and conflict, a charming love story, and some very interesting and attractive charcatres-among them an ambitious, astute, unscrupulous minister who overmasters the weak sovereign who reigns over Waldavia; a brave, chivalrous hero; an unprincipled man of the world; and a heroine for whom pride, love and policy are so until after the new Board of County desperately fighting. "A Prince of Lovers" Commissioners organizes January 9. An is a romance of adventure, filled with enter appointment to the vacancy is not expected tainment of the very first order. The illustrations are by Cyrus Cuneo. Little, Brown & Co. are the publishers.

"Lynette and the Congressman," by Mary Farley Sanborn, is an engaging love story to begin housekeeping in a dignified man- with a southern flavor and a touch of political life. The scene is laid in Washingwere hardly necessary, as Stryker has been ton, the hero is a western congressman and the heroine a girl of Virginia, whose southern accent and temperament give the story a genuine charm. Lynette and Cartwright are strong, sympathetic characters whom every reader will like, and the life of Washington and the scents and sounds of a spring and winter there are delightfully described. Little, Brown & Company are the publishers.

"The Ward of the Sewing Circle," by Edna Edwards Wylie, is a simple, natural story of a little orphan adopted by a sewing circle, the members of which take care of him in turn, for periods of two months. The story exhibits much tenderness and pathos, and at the same time has a great deal of humor and strong character drawing. Johnny, the Smithville orphan, is a real boy to the end, with the genuine child break in his successive misfortunes. The story is admirably told, the characters are story is admirably told, the characters are ful second, Preservator finished third, but disqualified.

At the close of the game the score stood 43 to 26 in favor of Table Rock.

Big Killing of Cottontails. TABLE ROCK, Neb., Jan. 4.—(Special.)—Dr. C. C. Covert, Fred Colwell and four others made a hunting party that went out yesterday and brought with them an even hundred cottontail rabbits. About four inches of snow has fallen. Today the weather is fine and pleasant and it is thawing considerable.

In the Cotton States' league a salary limit of $1.100 per month has been fixed, to be divided among twelve men on each team. There will be rather thin picking for the small fry of each club, if the new rule is strictly adhered to.

Willis jumped from the Boston Nationals to the Tri-State league, and, finding rough sledding there, hopped back to Beantown. Now that Boston has traded him to Pittsburg, the outlaws want to get out an inburg, the outlaws want to get out an in-junction restraining him from playing in Pittsburg.

BAD BLOOD WEAKENS THE SYSTEM AND INVITES DISEASE

Every part of the body is dependent on the blood for nourishment and strength, and when from any cause this vital stream of life becomes impoverished or run-down, it invites disease to enter. No one can be well when the blood is impure; they lack the energy that is natural with health, the complexion becomes pale and sallow, the vital energies are at a low ebb, and they suffer from a general broken-down condition of health. The system is weakened and unable to resist the diseases and disorders that are constantly assailing it. The Liver and Kidneys, failing to receive the proper stimulation and nourishment from the blood, grow inactive and dull, and the waste matters and bodily impurities that should pass off through these channels of nature are left in the system to produce Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases or some other blood disorder. When the blood is in this weakened and diseased condition it should be treated with a remedy that is not only thorough, but gentle in its action. S. S. S., a purely vegetable remedy, made of roots, herbs and barks, is just what is needed. It not only cleaness the blood of all impurities and poisons, and enriches and strengthens it, but gently builds up the entire system by its fine tonic effect. S. S. S. reinvigorates every member of the body, gives tone and vigor to the blood, and as it goes to the different parts, carries ro-PURELY VEGETABLE. promptly and gives better results than any other medicine. It cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases and all other blood disorders, and cures them permanently. Our Medical Department will be glad to give advice without
