PRAISES TRAINOR'S WORK Ure Agreeably Surprised at Systematic

of Construction to Proceed.

CONTRACTORS ARE LOSING NO TIME

In Some Cases They Are Whree Week in Advance of Their Expectations as Result of Modernte Winter.

Contractors are thanking their lucky stars for the continued mild weather and are putting in their best licks to get as much outside work done as possible before real winter sots in, if it ever does. Those who are lucky enough to finish the walls of their buildings before the cold period can take the rest of the winter for inside work. Construction on all buildings recently begun is much further along than was expected it would be by this time.

Due to the warm weather the general contractors for the Young Men's Christian association building at Seventeenth and Harney streets, are three weeks ahead of their expectations. If there is no difficulty about setting material next spring they will have no trouble in completing the building by January 1 of 1907, the time agreed on in the contract.

The Hayden store, near Seventeenth on Douglas and the Mercer building at Eleventh and Howard streets are now under cover and the carpenters are working inaide.

Some Work Pushing Ahead.

The ground floor has been laid in the Webster & Sunderland retail store at Sixteenth and Howard streets and the steel supports of the second story are being crected. The foundation has been laid for the Wright & Wilhelmy warehouse at Tenth and Jackson streets and the work continues. Three stories of J. A. Creighton's warehouse for the John Deere Plow company at Tenth and Jones streets have been completed. One block south the excavation has been made and the piles driven for the Parlin-Orendorff-Martin warehouse. At Ninth and Howard work is progressing ORCHARD & WILHELM CARPET CO., favorably on the mammoth wholesale dry goods house of Byrne & Hammer. The walls of the Hillis building at Tenth and Douglas streets are now six feet above the ground floor. The excavation for the Conservative Savings and Loan association's structure at Seventeenth and Harney streets has been completed, but the foundation has not been begun.

The Brandels subway from the new building under Douglas street to the Patterson building has reached a depth of twelve feet. Workmen are clearing away the rubbish on the Pundt corner, where the old building has been torn down. M. E. Smith & Co, have spread manure over their site on Ninth street, between Farnam and Douglas streets. This will keep the frost out, so that work may be begun early in the spring.

New Creighton Dormitory.

The new dormitory being erected for Creighton college, just across the street from the main building, is now up to the entirely new motion pictures. second floor. The outside walls of brick and the inside wall of hollow blocks have been carried steadily along since they were started late in November, with intermissions of only a few days when it was ac tually storming. The masons work with light cloth gloves on their hands, sometimes without any covering at all. The mortan mixers find no trouble with their work; in, eleven comedians, surrounded by a verilfact, everything moves along just exactly able army of pretty girls. One of the as if it were mid-summer. Glanetta Roselle Framington Count Forell Douglas Allen Prince of Colonna John Anton Miesen Costello, niaster of justice Frank Hamilton Governor of prison Stanley Wood Guard Forrest Moore Cardinal Capha George A Dayton Inquisitor Raymond Granan Count d'Urbino Wallace Lord Cecco Alton Thomas "The Lily and the Prince" is a melodrama of uncertain quality; it is frankness itself as regards the wheels by which it moves yet at times it appears tohave in it some thing of the elements of a better order of drama than it appears. It is not well put together, its dialogue being for the greater part stilted and stiff, but despite these manifest defects, its story is one of such interest and such ingenuity is exended in the working out of its transparent plot that it holds attention to the end. Its story is: men on the committee. J. F. On the day of his daughter's betrothal. Florentine noble is arrested and taken to Rome on a charge of treason. He and his two sons are locked in the fortress of San Angelo. The daughter goes to Rome two years later, after the death of her mother, to seek out her father and finds her lover, who is serving in the Roman army. He has ome under the favor of Lucrezia Borgia, and has been made a captain in the Papal guards. He remains true to his plighted troth, and Borgia seeks to entrap the maiden with the prince of Colonna, hoping thus to win the lover, d'Orsini. The girl fathoms the plot, and is sent on a wild goose chase to San Angelo, to be assassin ated. Instead, she wins her way to the dungeon, where the secret council is in session, and there denounces the traitor, who is none other than the duke of Ferrara, husband of Borgia. The father's life and liberty is regained, and the girl and the lover are united. The second and third acts allow Miss Holland a fine chance of which she takes the best advantage. Her scenes with the duchess of Ferrars are convincing, and her scene in the trial chamber is made impressive by the genuine earnestness she puts into her appeal. This would, it seems, be more effective without the added effect of a thoroughly out-of-place "spot light." Miss Holland is too much of an artist to require the aid of such a paltry artifice. streets will be completed. Her lighter scenes are carried off with much grace.

Every Niece and Nephew of Uncle Sam > should be deeply interested in what he has said about soda crackers, because they are the one food with which all of them are familiar.

Uncle Sam has given out figures showing that soda crackers are richer in nutriment and body-building elements, properly proportioned, than any food made from flour.

This is saying much for common soda crackers, and much more for Uncecta Biscuit, because they are soda crackers of the best quality. They are baked bettermore scientifically. They are packed better-more cleanly. The damp, dust and odor proof package retains all the goodness and nutriment of the wheat, all the freshness of the best baking, all the purity of the cleanest bakeries.

Your Uncle Sam has shown what food he thinks best for his people. His people have shown that they think Unceda Biscuit the best of that food, nearly 400,000,000 packages having already been consumed.
