weather was extremely cold and blizzardy. the temperature frequently reaching as low as 60 or 50 degrees below zero. They were beset by nerce storms and the party on its expeditions frequently narrowly escaped annihilation. Early in their experience their only boat was blown away and crushed beyond any possibility of repair. The doctor's story of the gigantic ice walls was thrilling and was given realistic import by the stereopticon views. Their neighbors, the penguins, were very friendly and he described them as being somewhat of the character of monkeys in their inquisitive and mischievous tendencies.

The expected relief of the ensuing summer did not materialize, and the little party was confronted with the necessity of spending another winter in their South Polar trips, on October 10, 1903, he was astounded to meet three of his comrades from the Antarctic, the party that had first left the hip before it became beset in the ice. This mrty was searching for the doctor and his party and was a sorry loooking trio. In the interim nothing had been heard from the other party nor had any word een communicated to the outside world of the fate of the expedition. The Argengovernment, fearful of the fate of the Nordenskjold expedition, sent out a relief ship in November and this relief party succeeded in finding the Nordenskield party at Snow Hill island a few weeks The meeting of the rescued and rescuers can better be imagined than told.

The party was all in the winter house, when the dogs were heard growling outside and Dr. Nordenskjold went outside to learn the cause and was nearly overcome with astonishment at findloss of the ship and the whereabouts of the rest of the crew.

tour. The reunited party was royally received and entertained by the Argentine government at Buenos Ayres and upon reurn to Stockholm, Sweden, was greeted with royal honors, and the Swedish Antarctic expedition disbanded after over two years of remarkable adventures. The results of the expedition from a scientific point of view were satisfactory.

Welcomed to Omaha.

Dr. and Mrs. Nordenskjold reached Omaha about 6 o'clock Tuesday evening and were met at the depot by a reception committee of Swedish citizens consisting of Rev. C. M. Lindberg, Swedish Consul E. M. Stenberg, N. P. Swanson, P. E. Flodman, E. A. Leonard Oberg, and were escorted to their hotel, where an informal reception was held. During the reception Mrs. Norden- service, among which are: skjold was presented with a handsome set of silver souvenir teaspoons, symbolical of Omaha, with which she was greatly pleased. SENATE PASSES CONSULAR BILL

Measure for Improvement of Service

Adopted Without Discussion. WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 .- The senate today passed about forty bills, many of them of considerable importance. The list included a number of measures for lighthouses, fog signals, revenue cutter vessels and public buildings and also the bill pro-Furen. G. L. Linquest, Rev. P. Munson and viding for the reorganization of the con ular service, which passed practically without discussion. It makes many changes in the

It was amended so as to relieve it from constitutional objections, and Mr. Lodge delivered a speech in support of the bill, in which he gave the details of a combination of the owners of foreign sailing vessels for the purpose of controlling the freight rate on grain shipments from the United States. There was also a discussion of the bills making common carriers liable for injuries to employes, which arose over the question of their reference to the committees. Some of the senators intimated that the committees were anxious to evade the responsibility of passing upon these

SEARS ALLOWS FREE SPEECH

Judge Who Granted Injunction Against Printers Permits Them to Appear Before Conneil.

Attorney W. J. Connell, representing the Omaha Typographical union, had a conference with Judge Sears of the district court Tuesday morning as to modifying some portions of the restraining order. As he said to The Bee. Monday, Judge Sears might affect appearance of members of th union as citizens before the council to discuss the pending printing contracts or as to firms whose members belong to the union doing the same thing. After the conference Mr. Connell said: "Judge Sears has assured me that what some of our members contemplate in the way of protesting or arguing before the council or its committees will not be repugnant to the letter or the spirit of his order. We did not contemplate anything of the kind, but considered it best to have a definite understanding with his honor so that members of the union or firms who hold union cards would not feel they were taking any risks in exercising the rights of citizenship." Argument on the merits of the application for an injunction will be heard by Judge Sears on Wednesday, February 7.
