Tersely Told Tales

Good Dog.
A YEAR or two ago a well known New York financier, who was visiting China, was the recipient of many courtesies. When the financier's mission had been accomplished he conceived the idea that it would be the proper thing to tender to the viceroys some token of recognition of the courtesies mentioned. So he went to the official in question an uncommonly fine bull pup that he had brought with him. In a few days came the viceroys' acknowledgment of the gift. "I myself am not in the habit of eating that species of dog, but I may say that my suite had it served for breakfast and accord it unqualified praise."

Not a Common Criminal.
One time Colonel Bill Hackney of Winfield was indicted by the grand jury for betting on election along with several other men. Hackney stood in with the judge. The defendants all pleaded guilty. Before passing sentence on the bunch the judge took Hackney into a side room and asked: "How much shall I fine you, Bill?" "What are you going to soak the rest of the bunch for?" asked Hackney. "Oh, I think I will give them $1 and costs," said the judge.

"Well, I don't want to be treated as a common criminal," said Hackney. "Just fine me $50 and costs."

And the judge took his seat on the bench and did so—Kansas City Journal.

A Reversal.
"I once attended some legal proceedings in Nevada," says a Philadelphia lawyer, "which were unconventional, to say the least. The judge presiding made up what he lacked in legal lore by a certain entertaining joviality. The case before him was windy and long drawn out, and it was plainly to be seen that he was tired and uninterested. To one of his decisions exception by the defendant promptly took and settled down in his ample chair. For a moment or two he quietly dropped off to sleep, his chair tilted back against the wall. Suddenly he fell over backward, and, scrambling to his dignity and his seat, he sought to cloak his mishap by exclaiming abruptly and irrelevantly, 'No, counselor, I must adhere to my decision of a moment ago.'"

"Counsel for the defense arose, and with

Labor and Industry
There were 1,329,477 concerns doing business in the United States in 1905. A report from the St. Louis labor commissioner shows that child labor is on the increase in that state.

The Amalgamated Society of Engineers and Machinists has 6,677 members in 64 branches, distributed in sixteen countries. It is said that the number of child laborers in the southern textile mills has increased within a few years from 2,000 to about 9,000.

It is claimed that at the present time in this country there are more than 3,000 women employed in 40 different "wage-earning occupations." The Pennsylvania railroad is already considering plans for tunneling the Alleghenies, and thus getting rid of the famous upward climb around the Horseshoe curve and beyond. Two tunnel routes have been surveyed. It is said, one nine miles long and the other eleven, and the shorter one is likely to be adopted—so says a Pittsburgh dispatch to the New York Times. It would be the second longest tunnel in the world.

Steven Bland of Clifton, N. J., after working ceaselessly for forty years, declares he has discovered a new kind of welding copper, something metallurgists say has never been done before.

Chicago is constantly growing in importance as a manufacturing city. It is estimated that its output of manufactured articles last year aggregated a value of $1,420,000,000, an increase of 11 per cent over the product of the preceding year.

Oklahoma's irrigation fund derived from the sale of government lands has passed $3,000,000 and is accumulating at the rate of $200,000 a year. New Mexico's total is $23,000,000 and that of Arizona is $25,000,000.

The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen has been in existence 23 years. It has 728 lodges with 73,000 members. It is a national organization, having a membership of 100,000 in the United States and 100,000 in foreign countries. The Pennsylvania railroad is already considering plans for tunneling the Alleghenies, and thus getting rid of the famous
