

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE

ROSEWATER, EDITOR. PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING. TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION. Daily Bee (without Sunday), one year, $4.00...

STATEMENT OF CIRCULATION. State of Nebraska, Douglas County, ss.: C. C. Rosewater, secretary of the Bee Publishing Company, being duly sworn, says that the actual number of full and complete copies of the Daily Morning, Evening and Sunday Bee printed during the month of January, 1906, was as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Circulation category and number. Total, 1,003,400. Daily average, 32,012.

WHEN OUT OF TOWN. Subscribers leaving the city temporarily should have The Bee mailed to them. Address will be changed as often as requested.

Omaha has a new telephone exchange. It is not an independent telephone, but it is welcome just the same.

Perhaps Count Boni de Castellane may be persuaded not to fight divorce proceedings if the alimony phase is satisfactorily adjusted.

Kansas might celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of its admission into the union by taking steps to have two senators at the national capital.

The crown prince of Austria will probably give long and earnest study to the history of northern Europe before attempting to establish "absolutism" in Hungary.

Now that delegates to Algeciras have seen a bull-fight they should be more anxious to prevent additional bloodshed and therefore produce an agreement satisfactory to all parties.

"The Dutch have taken Holland" and Mr. Harriman will probably continue to be the controlling factor in the Illinois Central and the Union Pacific as he has been for some time past.

One of the state papers has come out for John L. Webster for the republican nomination for governor. This is casting Mr. Webster in a new role in which he has not yet figured.

The man behind the British gun has improved 20 per cent in his marksmanship since last year. But Britannia isn't in the running with Columbia when it comes to training the heavy guns.

That announced lynching in Missouri failed to materialize according to schedule, which shows that when lynchings lose their spontaneity, they lose their main attractiveness at the same time.

In their endeavor to be "fair" to both sides in the railroad rate controversy members of congress are subject to misconception as what one side is inclined to call "fair" the other declares "biased."

It will devolve upon each congressman seeking re-election to show just how his speech in the house rallied that body to the support of the president's railroad rate program and saved the day.

A practical joke is all right in its way, but the practical joker who starts out rumors of the president's assassination has been making himself altogether too numerous round about Omaha of late and should be called down good and hard.

The most amusing stunt of the season is the appeal of the Omaha senior yellow to the Omaha junior yellow to "deliver us from gush." Now, if the Omaha junior yellow will only appeal to the Omaha senior yellow to "deliver us from twaddle," the score will be even.

The decrease in beer tax collections in Missouri for the year 1905 as against the year 1904, when the World's fair was held at St. Louis, was only $22,220.25. If that represents the beer drinking due to the exposition, the big show will have to be written a failure forever more.

Senator Patterson of Colorado has introduced a new declaration of independence in the senate, notwithstanding the fact that the dignified senators, until comparatively recently, would not permit an intimation that they were dependent in their official actions on anything save their own sweet wills.

MUST BE NO COMPROMISE.

The bill for railway rate regulation under consideration in the house of representatives is said to have the approval of the administration. It was unanimously approved by the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce. It has received the endorsement of all the newspapers of the country not unfriendly to the regulation of railway rates as provided for in that measure. The bill has met with little opposition in the house and its passage there by an overwhelming majority is assured.

There is still talk of a possible compromise. The railroad senators, it appears, have not given up hope of being able to secure a modification of the policy for which the administration stands and which is embodied in the Hepburn bill. They want a restriction upon the authority of the interstate commission to correct a rate found to be unreasonable by putting a judicial check upon the action of the commission. That is, they desire that the railroads shall have the right to appeal to the courts on the reasonableness of the commission's orders, before such orders can take effect.

Such an arrangement would not be satisfactory to the public. It would be a concession to the railroads that would give them all the advantage and practically control of the situation. The pending bill does not deprive the railroads of recourse to the courts. It provides that after an order has been made by the commission that order shall go into effect within thirty days from the time the same has been served upon the affected carrier. If at any time during the thirty days the carrier is dissatisfied with the order, he can institute proceedings in the district court of the United States wherein the complaint was made, and thereupon it becomes the duty of the attorney general to serve notice on that court that the case is of great public importance, entitling it to consideration by the expedition court. The time thus given the railroads in which to go to the courts, if dissatisfied with a rate order of the commission, is ample, and it would be against the public interest to change it as the railroad advocates desire.

The policy of rate regulation embodied in the bill before the house of representatives is the policy to which the administration is committed and which the great majority of the shippers of the country want. There is the best possible assurance that so far as the president is concerned there will be no compromise. Those who support his position in congress may be depended upon to firmly maintain their attitude. The senate committee on interstate commerce is yet to decide which of the several bills before it shall be reported to the senate. The indications are that the advocates of the president's policy will control and that the senate measure will resemble the house bill in all essential features.

HOSTILITY TO AMERICANS.

We are getting used to reports of hostility to Americans in China, but the latest are of a rather more serious nature than any which preceded them, since they show that the feeling of antagonism has reached official circles. The dismissal of Prof. Tenner, foreign director of education, by the viceroy of Chili province, for the reason that he is an American, and the pressure for the removal of the commissioner of customs at Canton for the same reason, are manifestations of unfriendliness toward citizens of this country in China which are well calculated to cause some apprehension. It appears that Prof. Tenner has performed very valuable educational service, but this did not avail against the opposition, on the ground of his nationality, to his being retained in the position.

The dispatch from Tekin which conveys this information also states that the boycott agitation against American goods is being revived, indicating that the efforts of the imperial government to suppress the agitation have been futile. The fact appears to be, as stated in a late report, that all China is at a white heat of political discussion and no one can foretell what the outcome will be. That there is possible serious trouble ahead seems clear. There may soon arise urgent necessity for some action by our government looking to the protection of American citizens and interests in the Chinese empire.

AN EMERGENCY CURRENCY.

At a recent meeting of the New York Chamber of Commerce its committee on finance and currency submitted a report adverse to the plan of Secretary Shaw for the issue of so-called emergency currency by the national banks. The report urged that such a currency requires for its effective operation that it shall be secured in the same manner and assume exactly the same form as the bank currency already in circulation, otherwise another form of currency is injected into the system which cannot be promptly retired as it should be when the necessity for which it has been called into being has ceased to exist. The suggestion of the secretary of the treasury that an emergency currency shall be guaranteed by the government and that the words "secured by United States bonds deposited with the treasurer of the United States" be eliminated from the bank notes so issued, the report declares to be objectionable because this constitutes another form of currency. The report says: "We have now eight classes of issues in our currency system—gold coin, standard silver dollars, subsidiary silver, gold certificates, silver certificates, treasury notes, United States legal tender notes and national bank notes; and it is now proposed to add one more issue in the shape of emergency circulation. We do not deem such a course prudent."

cial and commercial interests of the country, at least those of a conservative character, will with practical unanimity concur in this view. Indeed there has been very scant approval of Secretary Shaw and little of this from a source entitled to serious consideration. An "emergency currency" such as proposed by the secretary of the treasury would not certainly accomplish the object he had in mind and it would most likely prove, as said by the report referred to, a most hazardous experiment. It is perhaps the most objectionable proposition growing out of the demand for a more elastic currency and is therefore not likely ever to receive serious consideration in congress.

CART BEFORE THE HORSE.

Self-styled statesmen at the state capitol are already busying themselves with a debate on street corners and in public prints as to the size of the salaries which should be paid to members of the State Board of Railway Commissioners to be elected this fall, contingent upon the adoption of the pending constitutional amendment providing for a state railway commission. The amendment as formulated leaves it to the legislature to fix the compensation of the commissioners. It is being argued on one side that the service required will entitle members of the board to liberal, if not lavish, salaries ranging from $6,000 to $10,000 a year, and on the other side that the legislature could not in justice give the new officers more money than the constitution awards to other executive and judicial state officers, none of whom can get more than $2,500 a year out of the public treasury.

The discussion of salary for the state railway commissioners at this time savors decidedly of putting the cart before the horse. It all depends upon the commissioners. If men should be selected for these positions of capacity, ability and integrity, who will devote themselves earnestly and exclusively to the interests of the shippers and the public generally, they could make themselves worth good, generous salaries. If, on the other hand, we are to have a new set of railway commissioners on the same order as the secretaries of the old state board of transportation, who looked to the railroads rather than to the people as their employers and considered it their function to act only as a buffer for the railroads against the complaints and demands of the public for redress and relief, they will not be entitled to much of any reward out of the taxpayers' money.

If the game is only to give the railroads some additional employes at public expense it will be up to the legislature to keep the bill down to the lowest limit. If, on the other hand, the commission is to be something and to do something, the taxpayers of Nebraska will not begrudge the cost, because they will get it back many times over.

When we know who is to constitute the membership of the new commission it will be time enough to figure out what compensation they should have.

The declaration of the World-Herald in favor of the absolute rule of King Caucus belies all the protestations of reform under which it has been periodically masquerading. "Obedience to caucus decree," it now asserts, "should be enforced under penalty of exclusion from any future caucus." The World-Herald is, of course, talking about the democratic caucus in Washington, but the principle of caucus rule is no different in congress than it is in the legislature, the city council or the school board. It is needless to say that nothing would suit the railroads, the trusts, the privileged corporations and the lobbyists generally better than an entrenchment of King Caucus in complete control of all our legislative bodies. It is a good deal easier to do business behind the closed doors of a caucus than it is out in the open, and obedience to the caucus decree has always been the eagerly grasped excuse of the thimble-rigger, the corporation capper and the boodler, when betrayal of his constituents could be explained in no other way.

It is worthy of note that the overcrowded street car is not an affliction peculiar to Omaha. Here is an outbreak from an indignant citizen poured into a Lincoln newspaper: Just another word on the street car problem. It is not so much a question that the cars are old, but that they are few. The Lincoln people want to sit down when they ride. They have been swinging to the straps year after year, waiting for a seat and have been hauled by the conductors and ordered to "crowd up there in front" until it is not a question of new cars, or modern cars, but of any kind of cars, so they can sit down. What is needed is more cars and more lines to accommodate the growing demands of the public. It is a shame that we have tolerated the conditions that exist for so long a time and that the authorities of the city seem to take so little interest in so important a matter.

It may not relieve the strain on the straps to know that "there are others," but the knowledge may tend to soothe some ruffled tempers.

THE BEE ENDORSES WHAT REV. SAVIDGE SAYS ABOUT THE EVILS OF SLOT MACHINE GAMBLING.

The Bee endorses what Rev. Savidge says about the evils of slot machine gambling. He has only expressed in new words what The Bee has said time and again about this vicious and lawless practice. But why should the attorney for the Civic Federation congratulate Mr. Savidge on the stand he has taken? When the Civic Federation attorney was assistant county prosecutor, with full power to stamp out the slot machines, the evidence against them was pigeonholed under pressure of influence of various kinds and nothing was done to enforce the law.

Attorney General Moody is present at the "Beef trust" hearing in Chicago. He probably wants to see how men could get the idea that the government, as a corrector of wrongs, is supposed to be ignorant of what the government, as a collector of facts, is supposed to know.

Senator Millard declares that only within the last week or ten days President Roosevelt told him he considered him one of his staunchest friends in the senate. President Roosevelt is certainly a wonderful politician.

Iowa solons are grappling with the direct primary and anti-pass problems. It is to be hoped they will make some headway that will be of service to Nebraska's law-makers when they meet next year.

Why This Fretful Thunder.

Most of the opponents of the Hepburn railroad rate bill seem to be opposing it on the ground that it is unconstitutional, void, harmless, impracticable, unenforceable and altogether nugatory. But if this is the case why so much rhetorical thunder against a bogaboo of straw and sawdust?

Behind the Times.

The Berlin Street Railway company, which has a monopoly of the traction lines in the German capital, is capitalized at $25,000,000. This is enough to make the average American tremble and imagine weep for the ignorance of his German colleagues. They do not seem to have grasped the first idea of street railway management over there.

Annoying Red Tape.

Republicans may not be ungrateful, but that is not the opinion of an Englishman who has served three enlistments under the United States flag and is now to be delirious from landing in this country after a visit home, his exclusion being based on a wound received in the Philippines while fighting for the American flag. It seems in a case like this official red tape might well be cut with one thrust of common sense.

Looking for Motives.

Wall Street Journal. It would be interesting to know what, if any, connection there is between the recollection of inquiry into the Pennsylvania railroad's ownership of Baltimore & Ohio and other railroad stocks and bear manipulation in the Wall street stock market. It would also be of interest to know how much of the vote for the resolution of inquiry represented the Pennsylvania railroad's ownership of Baltimore & Ohio and other railroad stocks and bear manipulation in the Wall street stock market.

Westerners as Systematic Boosters.

Hamilton Wright, in Review of Reviews. A chamber of commerce in a western city is doing its utmost to secure public progress in that community. While different from the staid commercial bodies of the east, it embraces a most varied and vigorous activity and may only incidentally devote its energies to the fostering of commerce or the tabulation of commercial statistics. Its members are composed of the importers, the commission merchants, local bankers, manufacturers, ministers, editors, doctors, lawyers, judges and others. It advertises, entertains conventions and distinguished visitors, urges local improvements and takes up public questions of a nonpolitical character. Often a chamber of commerce maintains a large headquarters in some central part of the community, where products are displayed and "literature" is distributed. One hundred and fifty-two commercial bodies in California expend in their regular routine work all the way from $1,000 to $30,000 a year each.

STATE PRESS COMMENT.

Hebron Register (dem.): It looks now as though the republicans of Nebraska would be forced to adopt a platform similar to that adopted by the populists a few years ago. They are sincere in their fight against the railroads. Norfolk Press: The man with a railroad string to him may as well keep out of politics this year. If he gets through the convention all right and gets a nomination, the chances are ten to one that the voters will land on his neck on election day.

Central City Record: The Omaha Bee thinks the agitation for 3-cent railroad fare a little previous until it is known whether the pass will still be abolished. Perhaps, but the cutting down the fare one-third might force the railroads to seek to recoup themselves by seeking to increase their passenger revenue. Where else could they do it more easily than by making a lot of old letters pay their fare that now ride free?

Tekamah Journal: One of Nebraska's leading daily papers, in fact the one that claims to be a leader in so-called reform politics, is advocating the use of proxies in the republican state convention. The editor is all right if the users are honest and the one who issues the proxy is likewise honest. The usual method, however, is for one person to get on a delegation when he knows full well he will not be able to attend a convention, then turn his proxy over to some one whom the candidate has selected. These as proxies never have named. Such tricks have been performed in Burlington and in every other county in Nebraska and the wish of the real voters destroyed.

Silver Creek Sand: The Omaha World-Herald complains of President Roosevelt for giving publicity to the charges of attempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the court—not in the newspapers." Great life insurance companies and little policyholders! Has the World-Herald tempted bribery in a Chicago newspaper reporter and accuses the president of attempting to influence the jury, winding up with the assertion that "The case should be tried in the