SHAW REPLIES TO BANKERS

Secretary Reviews the Resolutions of the New York Chamber of Commerce. GENERAL ACCORD ON RESULT SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Secretary Shaw has received through Jacob H. Schiff of New York a copy of the resolutions recently adopted by the Chamber of Commerce of New York City, in which exception is taken of the currency bill.

Some Illustrations in Point. The secretary points out that the committee recommended the repeal of the law referred to and says: "The fact that the banks at New York City alone returned $120,000,000 in notes for redemption during the single month of December, 1905, is a significant illustration of the fact that the circulation of national bank notes is not excessive."

Deposit of Government Funds. In your letter you urge that the chamber's recommendation that the secretary of the treasury be authorized to deposit public funds, except the gold reserve and a reasonable working fund, in national banks at a reasonable rate of interest.

AFTER HARD COAL COMBINE

Resolution in Pennsylvania Legislature Says Railroads Are Violating Law. Ruled Out After Stormy Debate.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 7.—In the house today Mr. Creacy of Columbia county offered the following concurrent resolution: Whereas, article xvii, section 5, of the constitution of Pennsylvania provides as follows:

No incorporated company doing the business of a common carrier shall directly or indirectly prosecute or engage in mining or manufacturing activities in transportation over its works, nor shall such company, directly or indirectly, engage in any other business, the operation of which requires the use of its tracks or right-of-way.

The resolution was ruled out on a point of order that resolutions were in order only on Mondays and Fridays. Mr. Garner of Schuylkill moved that the rules be suspended for the purpose of the introduction of the resolution.

Various motions followed, including one to adjourn. The adjournment motion was rejected and finally after a protracted wrangle Mr. McClain of Lancaster raised the point of order that motions to suspend the rules lie on the table one day and was sustained by the speaker, after which the house adjourned.

much crowd in submitting to party dictation as any man living. "Did you like it?" asked Mr. Spooner, and Mr. Tillman replied, "No, but I took it."

The discussion caused a general laugh, which continued as Mr. Patterson remarked that he, too, had eaten some crow less than that taken by Mr. Tillman.

Mr. Patterson said he had held some party nominations at home and expected to do so again.

Discussing the democratic caucus binding resolution, he asked: "Is it persuasive or coercive?" and answering his own inquiry he declared it to be cruel.

He declared that such a caucus brought the senate down to the level of an ordinary political meeting. He had always believed that in public affairs men were more important than platforms.

He declared that the caucus rule did not provide for the conscience of the senator, and said a senator should be true to his own convictions, constituting himself a monitor of which he should stand in awe.

He said that the caucus was equivalent to declaring that senators were dishonest and that senators who could not be secured through reason should be reached through fear.

He said that a number of hymns of the church breathed hostility and these were favorites in the church.

Obligation of Vengeance. Mr. Worthington asked concerning the oath in the temple and the witness said he believed that in the "obligation of vengeance" the seal of treason is planted.

An effort was made by Mr. Worthington to procure an unqualified answer as to whether there was anything in the endowment house ceremony which would interfere with anyone taking it in serving in the United States senate and whether such person's duties to the church and country would conflict. The witness declared that every Mormon's first duty is to the church of Latter Day Saints.

Replying to questions by Chairman Burrows the witness gave a description of the interior of the temple. He said that in the sacred annex or chapel there were paintings in oil of the president and all of the apostles. Senator Spooner's picture was there, he said, and Senator Knox asked if there were any halos over them. The wit-
