CITES NEED OF GOOD INSURANCE IN OMAHA Takes issue with Judge Letton, Who Holds Insurance is Not Commerce, Quoting Federal Court Decision as Support.

Postmaster H. E. Palmer of the insurance Friday morning as to his views relative to ance, the constitutionality of which has just been affirmed by the Nebraska su-"I note Judge Letton says the business of companies. insurance is not commerce. He inherits that idea from an old decision of the supreme court, Paul against Virginia, made a tion, and lately-within the last twelve months-decided a case to the effect that insurance is commerce, and it certainly is interstate commerce and has been for years. Companies organized in New York are doing business in every state in the union. Our business people and our farmers, everybody is compelled to buy insurance, and largely from foreign corporations, for the reason that our capitalists have other channels for investment, and, considering the experience of the last thirty or forty years, are not inclined to invest in insurance stock. It is too hazardous an investment for a profitable return.

The main proposition with us all and with everybody who buys are insurance is to get as good quality of insurance as possible at the lowest price possible. It stands to reason then that the companies should not be burdened with unjust taxation. The cost of doing business is charged up against the premium rescipts of each and every state. If it is found the premiums are too little to meet the expense, rates are increased and the burden falls upon the buyer of course "This reciprocal tax business is not well ideratood. For instance Massachusetts has a law calling for 1 or 2 per cent straight tax upon foreign companies doing business in that state. This reciprocal tax, as it is called, is for the license fee and practically for the largest share of the burden of taxation for any company from a sister state that seeks to do business in Massachusetts. Now, we have no companies organied in Nebraska that are asking to do siness in Massachusetts or that care to enter the state; but Massachusetts has companies here, and we are glad to have them because we need them.

Original Law of 1873. the New York and Wisconsin law, there is ture. a reciprocal tax clause that was construed possible. A protest filed by A. Gsantner as agent Mrs. Augusta Stabrey against taxes for a brick sidewalk on lower Cass street was overruled on a report from the engineering department asserting the statements about defects in the walk were not correct. One objection was because the bricks were alleged to be only 214 inches in thickness instead of 24. It was found the specifications called for only two inches. To offset the charge that only two inches of sand had been used investigations showed a thickness of nearly four inches after several months of traffic.
