Wedding Gifts to Miss Alice Based on Mistaken Idea.

Gold and Cut Glass Worth Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars.

Presents Poor in as for Royal Wedding that Will Have No Place in Home of Poor Congressman and American Heir.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(Special.)—Presents to the bride-elect of Congressman Nicholas Longworth continue to be received at the White House, and the storage capacity of the historic building is taxed to its utmost to accommodate the gifts which the friends of Miss Alice Roosevelt are showering upon her. These presents are for a princess in the midst of a magnificent wedding. But much cannot be said for them when it is remembered that neither the bride nor the groom is wealthy. There is an erroneous impression throughout the country that the bridegroom-to-be is a millionaire. The fact is, Mr. Longworth has literally nothing to show for his salary as a member of the house of representatives. His mother has a moderate fortune, but nothing compared with that with which she is credited. As for Miss Roosevelt herself, she has neither money nor expectations according to the declarations of those who are posted intimately on the affairs of the president's family.

If the bridegroom-elect had been as wealthy as he is credited with being it is natural to infer that he would install his bride in a house commensurate with appointments with his income. Yet the house which has been leased is no better than those occupied by scores of Mr. Longworth's colleagues who depend entirely upon their salaries as members for support. Reports of the character of the presents which have already been received, or are on their way indicate that the givers have gone upon the assumption that the young people are able to live in an atmosphere of regal magnificence.

Difficult to Select Present.

It cannot give them anything in silver without duplicating some other gift," said a member of the New York delegation when the question of a present was being discussed. "I have learned that the best silver and goldsmiths of the country have exhausted their ingenuity in designing beautiful gifts. Already the White House is filled with enough silverware to stock the vaults of a score of dukes and not even the London Guilds, those repositories of silver plate, can approach the magnificence of the display that has been sent to the president's daughter. And then the delicate decision of the bridegroom-elect to give glass. But glass is not needed, either, according to reports, for it is said that enough specimens of high art in cut crystal have been received to stock a dozen houses as large as that selected by the congressman for his bride.

In fact, it appears that hundreds of thousands of dollars have been generously expended by the legion of friends of the bride and groom, who have vied with each other in selecting something magnificent. The useful has been almost entirely ignored. The days when a chest of linen was considered one of the essential presents to a bride have passed away. No one thought of purchasing a house and furniture because every one believed such a present would be the most useful and practical. Carpeting Hotel Into Clubhouse.

Carpeting plasterers and painters are transforming the historic Chamberlain hotel, that for years has stood at the corner of Fifteenth and I streets, into a club house, family hotel or residence. Here in the olden days, when John Chamberlain was alive and a noted member of his generation, senators, representatives, governors, financiers, the captains of industry, mine owners, army and navy officers and the bon vivants of a decade ago, clinked glasses and made merry. Here the details of legislation were worked out. Here men were promoted or demoted, and within the historic place now being remodeled the world's best stories have been told. John F. Chamberlain died in 1887 and when he died the hotel which bore his name began to show signs of decay and although efforts were made to keep the building running and retain the atmosphere that prevailed in Chamberlain's time, was unsuccessful and for the last four years the rats and mice have held unlimited sway.

James G. Blaine Lived in the Second House.

James G. Blaine lived in the second house, now occupied by the Chamberlain hotel, and ex-Governor Swan of Maryland lived in the house adjoining and which was included in the Chamberlain hotel during the flourishing days of his regime.

Some of the most fastidious parties and feasts have spilled the history of this old place and some of the most noted sporting events have been pulled off here. Not that there have been prize fights within its walls, but the sporting events to which reference is made include the tremendous boxing match between the late John Chamberlain and the late John Chamberlain. An anecdote connected with the hotel's history is that of John Chamberlain's pal band. The story as it has drifted down from the misty past concerns Chamberlain and a former Kentucky senator. One night when the wind was blowing a gale and snow was piling to drifts on Washington streets, a coterie of congenial spirits were in Chamberlain's back room, among them being Roscoe Conkling and a member of President Hayes' cabinet. The Kentucky senator, who for identification shall be called "Phil," sauntered in and seated himself in front of John Chamberlain. There was a pack of cards on the table at which

LOOK FOR PRIVATEER'S BODY

Descendants of Fighter of San Mateo Wish to Recover His Remains.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—

(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—The disinterment of the remains of Paul Jones from the old Protestant cemetery near Montmartre and the search for his body is being made for the body of Duke Trouin, the privateer of the French navy, who died in the year 1783. His remains were buried in the old church of St. Etienne de la Chapelle. The searchers are made at the request of Captain de C. a retired officer of the French navy, who is a descendant of the privateer. He is a relative of M. Robert Sureau, deputy of St. Malo, who directly descends from another. The searchers have found under the vault with a vast hoard of bones, of which had been sent to the sea. No traces of Duke Trouin's coffin have as yet been discovered, although it is possible that some of the bones may have belonged to the celebrated Frenchman. The cure of St. Roch is of the opinion, however, that the remains were swept away by the Terrorists, who plundered the church during the great revolution. There is no doubt but that the corsair was buried under St. Roches after his death at the age of 62. Notice of the burial appears in the parish register, the deceased being described as Messire Rene Trouin, Knight and Lord du Guay, lieutenant general of the royal forces of the king and commander of the Royal Military Order of St. Louis. The exact spot of the interment is not known. Captain Count de Carford, at whose request the search is being made, is anxious to have the body of his relative placed in the family vault.

ESPERANTO FOR BUSINESS ONLY

Champions of New Language Do Not Expect It to Be Literary Vehicle.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—Esperanto continues to make rapid progress in England and in fact throughout the continent. The new language is supposed to be used by two classes, the educated and the uneducated. It is difficult to persuade any ignorant person that he ought to communicate with anyone outside his own country unless he is in a "state of war," when his words will usually be deeds. The uneducated person naturally cares no more about Esperanto than for any other language. The educated person naturally falls back upon the Latin or the French of his youth in case of an emergency.

It is to the business world, the age of wireless telegraphs, of universal telephones, that the ardent Esperantists are turning. They do not quite approve of the lecture in which Mr. W. P. H. read his paper on Esperanto with a description of its features and its accurate prophecies about the downfall of nationalist members at the polls. Practical Esperantists frown down upon this sort of a thing just as they frown down upon the translation of a poem by Heine. They say that the language will come to the rescue of the "fittest basis," just as the socialists predict the triumph of their economic theories because the world is alleged to be moving in that direction, but that the attempt to translate Shakespeare or Dickens or Longfellow into Esperanto would only result in the production of a concentration of harsh dissonances, and that the progress of the new language would be retarded instead of advanced by an attempt to adapt it for literary purposes in a manner in which it would not be suited.

CHANGES IN VATICAN PLANNED

Famous Pictures to Be Placed Where They Will Be in Less Danger from Fire.

ROME, Feb. 11.—Pope Pius has decided upon artistic changes in the Vatican, chiefly in the removal of the famous pictures galleries from the present quarters, which were provisionally chosen at the instance of Pope Pius VIII by Antonio Canova, the sculptor, and Cardinal Consalvi. The present quarters are above the hall of the consistory and the pictures are considered to be in danger of being burned should a fire break out at any of the functions held there.

NORWAY TO FORTIFY BORDER

Line Between Sweden and New Kingdom to Be Marked by Forts.

CHRISTIANIA, Feb. 11.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—The Norwegian government is preparing to fortify the inner defense line of fortifications on the Swedish frontier. According to the agreement between Norway and Sweden, the old fortifications were to be razed to the ground. They never pleased the military experts and the army authorities are now endeavoring to figure out a fortification program which shall not be too expensive. It is expected here that Sweden will follow the example of Norway. At the time of the breaking away of the union objections were raised to the enormous expense which a double set of fortifications would entail upon the Scandinavian peninsula, but there appears to be no help for it.

RAISOULI BRIBES TRIBESMEN

Moroccan Bandit Extortions Himself from a Difficult Situation.

PARIS, Feb. 12.—A dispatch to the Echo de Paris from Tangier says: Raisouli, the bandit, has again succeeded in extricating himself from a difficult situation by buying a certain number of the Anjara tribesmen, who consequently refused to march against him. It is expected that the tribesmen will be busy fighting among themselves, leaving Raisouli free to occupy himself with promoting the plans of the president.

Demand for Mexican Tobacco.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 11.—Owing to the failure of the tobacco crop in the Yucatan and other districts of Cuba, heavy orders from Europe have been placed with Mexican tobacco growers in the states of Vera Cruz and Oaxaca. The price has risen, and planters are enjoying great prosperity.

DOLAN ANSWERS CRITICS

Tells Why He Voted as He Did in the Mine Workers' Convention.

HOPED TO AVOID DASTAROUS STRIKE

Attitude of Illinois Miners, He Says, Would Involve Six Hundred Thousand Men in a Needless and Expensive Struggle.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 11.—President Patrick Dolan of the local district United Mine Workers of America, whose resignation was demanded last week at the convention of delegates from the local union in the district because he voted with the operators at Indianapolis to maintain the present wage scale, tonight issued a statement in which he gives his reasons for so voting. In the statement President Dolan says:

In the joint session convened before the matter was submitted to the joint convention, Illinois miners and operators got into a deadlock over the operators' bid. The operators of Illinois stated positively that they would never sign any agreement which did not compel the miners to pay the wages of strikers. President Perry of the Illinois miners immediately replied that there would be no agreement unless it went into the scale. This one local issue in the state of Illinois, therefore, prevented further progress on the scale question. As soon as officials of the state of Illinois saw that they could not get a settlement unless they all agreed to a settlement which they all agreed to, I voted against it and tried to get against it. But it was hissed and booed down.

Situation is Peculiar.

This resolution puts the miners of this country in a peculiar position. One little district in Michigan, British Columbia or some other obscure place, can bring strike and wage and labor issues just because these little districts have some local differences. The miners of Illinois Mitchell is going down to New York to ask the anthracite operators for a contract, which he has already had. He is not, as the national convention has told him and told. With these facts in mind, I should not wonder if the miners of Illinois and the operators offered to reaffirm the present scale. I voted for it openly and honestly, and my conviction was of the justice of my opinion that I refused to vote for it.
