WOMEN A FACTOR IN INDUSTRY

Miss Mary McDowell Delivers Address Before Ladies' Label League.

"Women are not getting out of industry. There is no use fighting them. There are only two things laboring men can do, either organize them and get their co-operation or marry them."

This was the central theme of the address delivered last night by Miss Mary McDowell of Chicago before a meeting of the Ladies' Label league of the city at Labor temple. Miss McDowell made a plea for more consideration for women in the labor movement and asserted that they were in industry to stay and should be treated as a permanent factor.

At the outset she apologized for not appearing with her labor badges on. She announced that she was entitled to wear an American Federation badge and a Butcher's union button.

"I firmly believe," she said, "that you have a tremendous struggle before you in the union and perhaps one of the weaknesses is that laboring men do not understand that it is an historic struggle for economic democracy and social democracy."

OUR LETTER BOX

WAKEFIELD, Neb., Feb. 13.—To the Editor of The Bee: Some of our people in this part of the state who still have the interests of Omaha at heart wonder if the business men of your city really understand the telephone situation as it is.

Do the business men of Omaha realize that the Independent Telephone company has come to stay? That northeast Nebraska is a territory worth fighting for? That Sioux City is now drawing trade from the territory that rightly belongs to Omaha?
