three years after action by the commission. He believed that this plan would result in such delay as would make the proposed law ineffective. He contended that the ordinary courts were so burdened with miscellaneous questions as to be incapable of properly taking on the new business that Mr. Foraker's system would entail. He thought the railroad business should be in the hands of a body of men who represent the business community rather than the legal profession.

As to Constitutionalism.
Commenting upon Mr. Foraker's criticism that the Doolittle-Hepburn bill was unconstitutional, Mr. Doolittle entered upon a line of argument to show that Mr. Foraker had been mistaken. He contended that if states have power to fix rates, as decided by the supreme court, the United States had the power.

Mr. Doolittle referred to the fact that he had been charged with a tendency towards socialism, only to contradict it, saying that he did not desire to have the government take charge of the business interests of the country. He believed fully in the right of property to be protected. Yet, he asserted that, "there is a storm brewing and the time is approaching when the citizens of the United States are going to make an inquiry into the right by which some men in a few years have hoarded in millions of dollars, rendering them capable of even overshadowing the national government," and he predicted that if congress did not agree upon a bill for the regulation of the railroads the country would be called upon to solve the problem of government ownership.

Mr. Doolittle replied to the criticism that he was manifesting a disposition towards democracy by denying it and closed with another tribute to President Roosevelt, expressing the conviction that "the people would ever treasure in grateful hearts his blunt platform of a square deal for every man."

Mr. Doolittle spoke for two hours and ten minutes and when he ceased speaking was applauded from the galleries.

Indian Bill Discussed.
The house amendment to the joint resolution extending the present tribal government in Indian Territory until March, 1907, were non-concurred in by the senate, and Messrs. Clapp, McCumber and Dubois were appointed to confer with the house for the adjustment of the differences.

Consideration of the Indian settlement bill was then resumed. Mr. LaFollette formally offered his amendment prohibiting railroad companies from acquiring any of the territorial coal lands.

Speaking in support of the amendment, he said that these lands were worth in the aggregate $15,000,000. He said that if the 112 leases now in existence, covering 104,000 acres of the coal lands, the railroad companies control fifty-two, covering 6,000 acres, and that he had been informed that these combinations would have the effect of keeping out private operators because of the difficulty in securing transportation when they came into competition with railroad owners. He added that it was impossible to conceive of free competition with carriers owning any commodity and had a letter read from W. D. Johnson of Ardmore, I. T., declaring that the railroads now have practical monopoly of the coal business in that territory.

The further consideration of the bill was then postponed, and Mr. Clark (Wyo.) moved the appointment of a select committee of five senators to investigate affairs in Indian Territory. Action on the motion also went over.

HOUSE PASSES THE ARMY BILL

Measure Carries Little Over Sixty-Nine Million Dollars.
WASHINGTON, March 1.—The house today passed the army appropriation bill, also the Foraker bill providing for the marking of the graves of Confederate dead buried in the north. The discussion developed unanimous sentiment in favor of marking Confederate graves, and as the bill had during the morning session of the military committee received a favorable action it was brought up by Mr. Price and passed unanimously with applause on both sides of the house. Points of order made to the provisions for a cable ship for the Atlantic coast and to a ship for mine planting on the Pacific coast eliminated those provisions from the appropriation bill. The alleged powder trunk came in for a scolding in debate and democratic en-

MORGAN STUDIES THE RECORD

Senator from Alabama Prepares to Cross-Examine Crowell in Canal Hearing.
WASHINGTON, March 1.—William N. Crowell was again on the stand today at the investigation of Panama canal affairs before the senate committee on interstate oceanic canals. He read a detailed statement of the operation of the monetary agreement between the Isthmian Canal commission and certain bankers on the isthmus. In the meantime Senator Morgan was reading the record in preparation for the cross-examination of the witness.

These routes aggregate 12,722 miles in length, 5,000,000 miles in annual travel and the total annual compensation will be $465,28.

Leather Trade Growing.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Exports of leather and leather manufactures from the United States during the calendar year 1905 were the largest on record, says a bulletin issued by the bureau of statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor. They were valued at $38,946,622, against $35,244,092 in 1904, $27,180,611 in 1903 and $22,775,079 in 1902.

OTHER IMPORTANT BILLS TO BE KILLED

Philippine Tariff and Statehood Measures and Santo Domingo Treaty to Be Amended to Death or Dropped.

SENATE WILL PASS RATE BILL

Hepburn Measure Will Become a Law as It Came from the House.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—That the railroad rate bill will be passed by the senate practically as it came from the house is an admission that the opponents of the measure are almost ready to make. It was admitted today that they cannot hope for any assistance from the president in getting an amendment for judicial review of orders in the Interstate Commerce commission. The president made this clear to Senators Crane and Spooner today. The only hope left to the opponents of the measure is in the democrats. They have not definitely determined what the party position will be toward such an amendment, but it is admitted that more than half of the minority favor passing the bill exactly as it came from the house. The railroad rate bill for several days had been regarded as the one measure standing in the way of an early adjournment of congress.

WILL KILL OTHER BILLS.

One of the leading republican senators, a member of the steering committee, declared today that "the Philippine tariff bill, the statehood bill and the Santo Domingo treaty are all dead."

He qualified his statement concerning the statehood bill by saying that he meant that the friends of the bill could not pass it without the Foraker amendment providing for the submission to the voters of the people of New Mexico and Arizona separately the question whether they would have joint statehood. A poll of the senate today showed that if voted upon now the Foraker amendment would win, 48 to 40, providing the entire vote of the senate was cast.

A vote on the Philippine tariff bill in committee is scheduled for tomorrow. A hasty poll of the senate taken today indicates that if brought to a vote the Philippine tariff bill will be defeated by a much larger vote than was found for the Foraker amendment to the statehood bill yesterday. The bill is defeated in the committee, the opponents have expressed the intention of making a motion in the senate to have the committee discharged from further consideration of the measure and thus finally dispose of it by a test vote to such a motion.

Santo Domingo Treaty Dead.

Practically all of the senate leaders concede that the Santo Domingo treaty will be defeated in the senate. The plan generally favored is to defeat the treaty as early as possible and thus avoid continued discussion of it.

Under this general program outlined by senate republican leaders a great amount of expected oratory will be eliminated. The leaders say freely that congress will adjourn early and May 1 has been named as the latest probable date.

FOOT BALL AS A PRACTICE

Experiences of Doane College Cited to Prove a Point.

DOANE COLLEGE, CRETE, Neb., Feb. 27.—To the Editor of The Bee: A boy killed! What shall be done with foot ball? This was the startling situation that faced Doane college in 1906. After a successful career of six years, during which a college with about seventy boys had on two occasions beaten the mighty University of Nebraska, and during one year was the unquestioned champion of Nebraska and Iowa, and during which period but a very few accidents had occurred, although the college had no coach, no athletic trainer, no board of control and no regulations about foot ball except those devised by the boys themselves, a catastrophe occurred. The boy was killed in a contest between Doane and a large western university. He had been hurt before, was advised by a doctor not to play and unsuccessfully urged by the captain of the team not to play. But he was a boy of great spirit, one who in a war would have placed his country's flag upon the top of the enemy's ramparts, even if he sacrificed his own life.

It was hard not to prohibit foot ball under these dreadful circumstances, but no direct faculty action was taken, as it was remembered that a Doane boy had lost his life in the Blue River while out skating and as it was known that serious and even fatal accidents had occurred in other sports. Those who were with the poor boy when he died had no further desire to play and they were advised by a medical examiner and calling for the securing of a trainer.

Foot ball was then played again and Doane commenced the second part of its career by being beaten by a high school. The trainer secured was a coach selected by the boys and hired by the college, the coach differing from year to year. Some coaches were good, some were bad, as has been the experience elsewhere. Then Doane, with its old-time spunk, lined up against a big university. Recent revelations tell the story of what kind of a team the boys had to meet. Doane was beaten and the players and spectators who were slugged and unmercifully and that was true. Doane then was advised to let the universities alone and to form an inter-collegiate foot ball league among the colleges of Nebraska, and this was done with results that have been published in the papers. In brief, Doane is the champion of the league and has been for two years.

Two years ago two more important steps were taken, as it was found that some persons, often objectionable in character, came to Doane solely to play foot ball. The faculty passed the regulation that all students who expected to play foot ball in inter-collegiate contests must take ten hours per week of work in regular accredited studies. This, but out of the "professionals" successfully. As the hired coach was an uncertain quantity, an athletic instructor was secured, who had a regular position on the faculty and is known as "physical director" for next two years.

No situation at Doane to abolish foot ball, no further faculty action is ever thought of to modify the game.

Doane is awaiting the action of the foot ball committee, which meets next Saturday, March 3, in New York. It hopes that the new rules will be accepted and that the game will be adopted then. If foot ball is rough, life is rougher. Look at the daily papers. If some accident occur to youth, hundreds of serious accidents (falls, deaths from runways, deaths from assault, etc.) are avoided by the players after they become adults. Athletes, when adults, seldom die when running for trains, they know how to run. Foot ball tactics have been used successfully in staying mobs, in catching thieves, in defending human life.
