

Found About Women Folks

A Man and His Mother.
 THE death of a Kansas City man the other day revealed a most remarkable incident in the life of a man not because of the extent of the estate bequeathed, nor because of unusual circumstances of the mere bequests, but rather because it contained this amazing paragraph: "To my son I leave nothing, as I am under no obligations to him; to my dear old mother I leave nothing, as I am under no obligations to her."

"In these simple words," comments the Kansas City Journal, "is revealed an abysmal tragedy of the human soul. What manner of being was he who now lies under the sod and who left so awful a heritage of inheritance to the sorrowful mother who survives him? To my dear old mother I leave nothing, as I am under no obligations to her." In all the diaphanous of dying maledictions since man was born of woman no more appalling impression was ever given to the world. One might with great stretch of the imagination conceive of circumstances where a man on the brink of the grave could in the distorted delirium of a fleeting spirit forget his obligations to his mother, and sometimes men in the heat of sudden passion have said and done things reflecting ingratitude for the parent who bore them. But here we have to deal with one who, in the cool deliberation of executing a legal document makes a public record of the shame.

"What a wretched heart it was that did not echo God's immortal anthem which rings still when all else is gone! What a debasement of manhood, that did not reflect the sublime glory of a mother's smiles, a mother's tears, a mother's prayers and a mother's love! How debased the nature that did not hold one single chord attuned to the memory of a childhood guarded and protected by the unselfish ministrations of a mother whose tired hands, tired feet, tired eyes and aching heart were the price of his own being!"

"He has gone out of the world and to his dear ears the thunderous activities of its progress are stilled. But one survives him in whose bosom gnaws the awful serpent's tooth of thanklessness. Soon her tired hands will be folded forever, her tired eyes will close in sleep and her tired feet will be at rest. And her last days, of which he should have been the stay and comfort, will be embittered with his brutal words of ingratitude and his heartless act of abandonment."

Day of College Women.
 College women are having their day in the work of the world, whether college pass that only the college-bred woman can manage, or in the coming to the aid of hope to attain to more than mediocrity in the important affairs of life, whether it is only the scientific training of a baby or the administering of public affairs. Miss Kate Holliday Claghorn, a graduate of Bryn Mawr college, with the degree of doctor of philosophy conferred by Yale, has been appointed registrar of the New York tenement house department by Commissioner Butler.

She has gained quite a reputation as a statistician, her services having been much sought after for many years in New York, she having held the office of assistant registrar since the opening of the department. She prepared valuable data for the report of the industrial commission of 1901 on immigration and education for the federal census and for the tenement house problems. The appointment is the occasion of much congratulation on the part of the women interested in the tenement house questions of New York and was under civil service regulations, Miss Claghorn being the first on the eligible list. She will have entire charge of the work of the department's bureau of records.

Two other women who are doing important work are Miss Frances A. Kellor, reappointed director of the international committee of research, and Mrs. Charles A. Beard of Columbia university, who is assisting Miss Kellor in the work of getting a manual for the study of social problems ready for the press. It is designed for the use of colleges, libraries and organizations and covers some 400 subjects.

Miss Susan M. Kingsbury, Ph. D., former instructor at Vassar, is now engaged in investigations for the commission on industrial and technical education. For these lines of work women seem to be particularly fitted and a college course is the best preliminary training.

Women as Builders.
 The number of women who practice the profession of architecture is very much greater than the number of women architects, anomalous as this may seem.

Most of the women who make a business of building houses have men in their offices to do the architectural part of the work for them, reports the New York Sun. Usually they begin as decorators, and if they prosper they soon find that orders to build houses also come to them.

Usually they have previously added an architect to their office staff, or simple efforts at decoration frequently demand the skill of a trained architect. After a while the architect builds the houses when the orders begin to come in.

There are many women decorators now prosperous enough to have architects in their employ. One of these now occupies a four-story building in a side street off Fifth avenue merely for her own business. She began in one room downtown only a few years ago.

Elsie de Wolfe has met with great success since she went in for house decoration and the social life of the city. Her wealthy friends and many clients among her social circle have made her a social success. Mrs. Jones Water, who has brought suit against Mrs. Walker in an effort to break the will of William Weightman, by which Mrs. Walker received the entire fortune, remains the social leader, while Mrs. Walker keeps the millions.

Woman Controls a Bank.
 York Harbor, Me., is the summer residence of many notable persons, including William Dean Howells, James K. Hackett, Thomas Nelson Page, Mark Twain, John Fox, ex-governor Frank W. Rollins, Dr. W. T. Councilman, President Tucker of Dartmouth college and Francis Lynde Stetson, but the parent village, York, is the proud claimant of the only woman bank president in New England, Mrs. Elizabeth Burleigh Davidson. She is the head of the York County National bank. It is a flourishing institution and in summer many deposits are made by famous visitors to the harbor.

The bank was organized in February, 1903, with James T. Davidson, president, and W. M. Walker, vice president. Mrs. Davidson is the general manager. Her duties were as arduous as the duties of the head of the bank, for in the Davidson family there were six lively children. In 1901 Mrs. Davidson died. Vice President Walker was elected as his successor and Mrs. Davidson, in the general meeting of the bank, was made vice president of the institution.

profession of architecture is very much greater than the number of women architects, anomalous as this may seem. Most of the women who make a business of building houses have men in their offices to do the architectural part of the work for them, reports the New York Sun. Usually they begin as decorators, and if they prosper they soon find that orders to build houses also come to them.

Usually they have previously added an architect to their office staff, or simple efforts at decoration frequently demand the skill of a trained architect. After a while the architect builds the houses when the orders begin to come in.

There are many women decorators now prosperous enough to have architects in their employ. One of these now occupies a four-story building in a side street off Fifth avenue merely for her own business. She began in one room downtown only a few years ago.

Elsie de Wolfe has met with great success since she went in for house decoration and the social life of the city. Her wealthy friends and many clients among her social circle have made her a social success. Mrs. Jones Water, who has brought suit against Mrs. Walker in an effort to break the will of William Weightman, by which Mrs. Walker received the entire fortune, remains the social leader, while Mrs. Walker keeps the millions.

For the Children's Room.
 There come frizzes of wall paper for the nursery that tell long stories in clear black outline, filled in with gay flat colors which are thrown into high relief by a one-toned background.

It is always a winsome tale told in these pictorial frizzes. The Pierrot frize is one of the most popular. The background is in pale gray, against which Pierrot's white costume makes a clear, dainty contrast. The series of long, oblong pictures, running lengthwise under the ceiling, depict various trials and happenings in Pierrot's existence. Color is introduced in vivid little flashes—in a rosette on white slippers, in a ribbon or mandolin, in a Columbine costume, in the feathers of a bird. There are some dozen or more pictures in the series.

Mother Goose tales have furnished the frize artist with rich suggestions for decoration and color, but there is simplicity of treatment always, no matter how intricate the scene is.

Noah's ark toys offered material for frize decoration that is very taking. The stiff wooden effect gives an Egyptian character to the pictures.

Little Dutch children cut up all sorts of tricks against clear pale blue or dark blue backgrounds that set their white caps and yellow sabots gleaming. In one picture a little group of the small people stand awed before a snow man, in another the group is being chased by a rooster almost as big as they are, in another the mischievous little company marching to bed, each with candle in hand, and in another a row of little maidens, reaching the length of the picture, stand swinging hands.

It is easy to imagine the joy that these frize stories give to children from the frizzes that they give grown up children who step in for further inspection of them.

Economy in Little Things.
 Do not throw away your lemon peel. Fill a bottle with rectified spirit, and when using lemons, cut off the yellow part of the rind and place in the spirit. You will find this quite as good as the essence of lemon which is sold in the shops. Essence of orange can be made in the same way.

Housekeepers frequently find a difficulty in using coal dust so as to avoid waste. An excellent way is to place a piece of paper about ten inches long and about six inches wide, pile coal dust on it, lift carefully, and place gently on the fire. The corner of the paper will, of course, catch light, but the part under the coal dust will remain. If left undisturbed this will gradually burn through and improve the fire instead of causing the usual deadness which results from burning coal dust.

The terrific onslaught to which very muddy boots are subjected with the "hard brush" often injures the leather, and always raises a deal of dust, besides making the brusher tired. A very good, inexpensive mud brush may be made by gluing a strip of Brussels carpet to a convenient sized piece of wood. This will quickly remove mud from boots without any injury to leather and with less dust and labor than a brush.

As a cleansing agent the virtues of paraffin are fairly well known; but few people know that it is the best thing with which to clean velvet. The method of using is to stretch the velvet on a table, dampen a small piece of flannel with paraffin, and rub the pile of the velvet gently and briskly. As soon as the flannel gets dirty take another piece. The velvet will look like new; the most delicate colors being restored by this process. The objectionable smell soon wears off.

The average housewife looks askance at washing soda. It ruins both colors and hands; yet it is useful. Very dirty or soiled linen may be cleaned by boiling in fairly strong soda water. A little soda dissolved and added to the bluing water prevents streaking. A good bleacher is made by boiling one pound of soda in a quart of water. Add a packet of chloride of lime; strain and bottle, and discolored doorknobs and tables that are a bad color may be cleaned with the fluid. Well brush over and leave for the night, then wash well off in the morning.

In making batter for paper hanging add a small lump of soda after it is made. This adds greatly to its adhesive qualities. Burnt saucers are as easily cleaned by filling with cold water, adding a lump of soda, and bringing to the boil. The test is better if the kettle gets an occasional soda water bath.

Leaves from Fashion's Notebook.
 Cotton favors and dinner cards are now colonial in design.

Plaid ribbon and shaded silks are popular as hat trimmings.

In America, will live over a store. She intends to convert the old Weightman mansion at 1526-28 Walnut street into a paying proposition, and from rentals to add to the $50,000,000 left her by her father, the chemist.

The old homestead stands in one of the most desirable locations in the city. The fact that it yielded no returns and that the taxation upon it is very heavy has not been pleasing to Mrs. Walker, and she has decided to have the basement and first floor converted into stores. She will occupy the upper floors.

In strict economy of this kind Mrs. Walker is very much like that other rich woman, Mrs. Hetty Green, who frequently finds it advantageous in a financial way to live over stores she owns or in small apartments. Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Green have something else in common—each has an income of about $2,000,000 a year.

The fact that Mrs. Walker will make use of the homestead property has disposed of the story that she wishes to become a social leader in the city. The old Weightman mansion as the scene of social functions, Mrs. Jones Water, who has brought suit against Mrs. Walker in an effort to break the will of William Weightman, by which Mrs. Walker received the entire fortune, remains the social leader, while Mrs. Walker keeps the millions.

Woman Controls a Bank.
 York Harbor, Me., is the summer residence of many notable persons, including William Dean Howells, James K. Hackett, Thomas Nelson Page, Mark Twain, John Fox, ex-governor Frank W. Rollins, Dr. W. T. Councilman, President Tucker of Dartmouth college and Francis Lynde Stetson, but the parent village, York, is the proud claimant of the only woman bank president in New England, Mrs. Elizabeth Burleigh Davidson. She is the head of the York County National bank. It is a flourishing institution and in summer many deposits are made by famous visitors to the harbor.

The bank was organized in February, 1903, with James T. Davidson, president, and W. M. Walker, vice president. Mrs. Davidson is the general manager. Her duties were as arduous as the duties of the head of the bank, for in the Davidson family there were six lively children. In 1901 Mrs. Davidson died. Vice President Walker was elected as his successor and Mrs. Davidson, in the general meeting of the bank, was made vice president of the institution.

Mother Goose tales have furnished the frize artist with rich suggestions for decoration and color, but there is simplicity of treatment always, no matter how intricate the scene is.

Noah's ark toys offered material for frize decoration that is very taking. The stiff wooden effect gives an Egyptian character to the pictures.

Little Dutch children cut up all sorts of tricks against clear pale blue or dark blue backgrounds that set their white caps and yellow sabots gleaming. In one picture a little group of the small people stand awed before a snow man, in another the group is being chased by a rooster almost as big as they are, in another the mischievous little company marching to bed, each with candle in hand, and in another a row of little maidens, reaching the length of the picture, stand swinging hands.

It is easy to imagine the joy that these frize stories give to children from the frizzes that they give grown up children who step in for further inspection of them.

Economy in Little Things.
 Do not throw away your lemon peel. Fill a bottle with rectified spirit, and when using lemons, cut off the yellow part of the rind and place in the spirit. You will find this quite as good as the essence of lemon which is sold in the shops. Essence of orange can be made in the same way.

Housekeepers frequently find a difficulty in using coal dust so as to avoid waste. An excellent way is to place a piece of paper about ten inches long and about six inches wide, pile coal dust on it, lift carefully, and place gently on the fire. The corner of the paper will, of course, catch light, but the part under the coal dust will remain. If left undisturbed this will gradually burn through and improve the fire instead of causing the usual deadness which results from burning coal dust.

The terrific onslaught to which very muddy boots are subjected with the "hard brush" often injures the leather, and always raises a deal of dust, besides making the brusher tired. A very good, inexpensive mud brush may be made by gluing a strip of Brussels carpet to a convenient sized piece of wood. This will quickly remove mud from boots without any injury to leather and with less dust and labor than a brush.

As a cleansing agent the virtues of paraffin are fairly well known; but few people know that it is the best thing with which to clean velvet. The method of using is to stretch the velvet on a table, dampen a small piece of flannel with paraffin, and rub the pile of the velvet gently and briskly. As soon as the flannel gets dirty take another piece. The velvet will look like new; the most delicate colors being restored by this process. The objectionable smell soon wears off.

The average housewife looks askance at washing soda. It ruins both colors and hands; yet it is useful. Very dirty or soiled linen may be cleaned by boiling in fairly strong soda water. A little soda dissolved and added to the bluing water prevents streaking. A good bleacher is made by boiling one pound of soda in a quart of water. Add a packet of chloride of lime; strain and bottle, and discolored doorknobs and tables that are a bad color may be cleaned with the fluid. Well brush over and leave for the night, then wash well off in the morning.

In making batter for paper hanging add a small lump of soda after it is made. This adds greatly to its adhesive qualities. Burnt saucers are as easily cleaned by filling with cold water, adding a lump of soda, and bringing to the boil. The test is better if the kettle gets an occasional soda water bath.

Leaves from Fashion's Notebook.
 Cotton favors and dinner cards are now colonial in design.

Plaid ribbon and shaded silks are popular as hat trimmings.

New Spring Offerings in House Furnishings

DINING ROOM FURNITURE

A large shipment of dining room furniture has just arrived. This stock was selected from the cream of the leading manufacturers of the FURNITURE WORLD—consisting of all the popular finishes such as Golden Oak, Weathered Oak, Early English, Mahogany—all at popular medium prices.

- Something new in China Cabinets, full bent glass, with beautiful columns at corner to protect glass, made of solid quartered oak, French legs, claw feet, one mirror in back; price..... 26.00
- Beautiful design, pedestal center extension table, 48-inch top, 8 feet long, highly polished, has lock to keep pedestal together, made of finished quality quartered oak and claw feet; price..... 32.00
- Sideboard, made of select quarter-sawn oak, hand rubbed and polished, beautiful design, plaster front, claw feet, two small drawers, two cupboard doors with round cross bands, quarter-sawn drawers, one large linen drawer and ONE SECRET DRAWER FOR VALUABLES, large plate mirror; price..... 36.50
- Others in quarter-sawn oak and polished, from $15.00 up.
- Quarter-sawn and polished oak Buffet, two small drawers, one lined for silver, one large linen drawer, two cupboard doors with Opalite price..... 30.00
- Dining room Chairs, box seat, quarter-sawn and polished oak, genuine leather seat, for $2.00; other grades in prices up to... 5.00

CLEARANCE SALE OF LINOLEUMS AND OIL CLOTHS

We have a large assortment of dropped patterns and cut rolls of LINOLEUM AND OIL CLOTH which must be closed out to make room for our SPRING STOCK. They are just as good patterns as some of the new ones, but they cannot be duplicated and we are going to make a great sacrifice price in order to close out the lot.

- Lot 1 consists of about 20 pieces of the best grade of Linoleum, our regular $5c quality, all go... 49c
- Lot 2 is the regular 75c quality, and many choice designs to close out at, per square yard..... 45c

Miller, Stewart & Beaton

1315-17-19 Farnam Street

Naturally, hand work commands a high price, but these parasols range in price from $5 to $75.

The milliners tell us that extreme effects in hats have gone out of fashion, but a wavy roll of the hair, the elaborate curls, shop windows and in the shops is rather discouraging. The first tailored hats are being worn, and they are for the most part startling creations. The very small hat is in the ascendency.

Brown, tulle or mairnes appears on a great many bandeaux, probably because of the prevalence of brown hair, which the bandeaux are supposed to match. Many of the hats are elaborate creations for their best effect, and the brown bandeaux are being worn, and they are for the most part startling creations. The very small hat is in the ascendency.

The all white gown is to be very much the thing. Never have so many lovely white muslins and linens been shown as at the present. Sheer, plain white, without dots or figures, is the preferred material, and elaborate collars for their best effect, and the brown bandeaux are being worn, and they are for the most part startling creations. The very small hat is in the ascendency.

Our recent purchases of HOUSE FURNISHINGS for the SPRING TRADE have been arriving daily. We have put more energy and more study in the selection of each article than ever before and the result has splendidly justified the effort. We are now ready for you with the newest, choicest and best collection of house furnishings in the CITY, and all of the good kind. It costs no more to buy now and it is a satisfaction to know you are getting first and best choice of the new things, none but dependable UP-TO-DATE goods no matter how low the price. The many special offerings of this week are worthy of your attention.

Advance Showing of Lace Curtains FOR THE SPRING SEASON

Having made early contracts with manufacturers and having placed our import orders early, we are enabled, in the face of an advancing market, to offer curtains and curtain materials at last season's prices, and in some cases even less. See display in our window.

- Cluny Curtains, white and ecru, excellent quality of net, well made, 2.50 per pair
- Cluny Curtains, ecru only, double net, heavy insertion and edging, 9.50 per pair
- Hand-made Arabian Curtains, wide wide insertion and lace, per 6.00 yard, 50 inches wide, 15.00 yards long, per pair
- Cluny Curtains, hand-mounted, 84-inch insertion, 8-inch lace edging, best quality of French net, per pair..... 15.00

COLORS MADRAS CURTAINS

Our selection of Madras Curtains, in all colorings, is particularly attractive—colors specially adapted to harmonize with any interior decoration and suitable for parlor over-drapes, hall, library, drawing room or bedroom curtains; we are showing an extensive assortment in all colors; at, per pair..... 5.50

- Lot 3—Short lengths of all grades—enough for kitchen or small room—to close, at, per square yard..... 35c
- Lot 4—Remnants of Linoleum and Inlaid Linoleum, to close at, per square yard..... 25c
- Lot 5—This lot contains many imported Inlaid Linoleums, the kind the color goes through to the back and does not wear off—one or two rolls of a kind—regular $1.65 quality—sale price..... 1.20
- Lot 6—Best grade of Domestic Inlaid Linoleum, $1.35 quality—sale price..... 82c
- Lot 7—Best grade of Inlaid Linoleum, some slightly damaged—sale price..... 75c
- Oilcloths in all widths—25c, 22 1/2c, 20c and..... 18c

When it comes to choosing colors for her gowns no one can accuse Mrs. Roosevelt of being conventional. At the in-waist line she usually chooses a blue and all her friends throw up their hands. "Why, it is never worn at night," they protest. "It is suitable only for a morning gown or a second-best walking skirt." But she said she would give it a trial. The dress parade took place in the White House when her daughter became a bride. Mrs. Roosevelt wore a rather dark shade of blue, and she was the only one in the crowd who was not complimented on her color in the procession. There were champagne cloths and pale chocolates and tans and fawn colors, pink and blue and green, but the substantial brown, dear to our grandmothers, was seen only in the one instance. Mrs. Roosevelt's gown was lined with creamy lace, illuminated with streaks of gold, and made further gay by the big bouquets of dry paper clouds at her corsage.

In the name of her father and mother Helen Gould, with the assistance of Elizabeth Altman, actually distributes $200,000 in charity. Probably Miss Gould supports directly and indirectly more charities than any person living. Her donations annually reach 500 or more beneficiaries. Her total disbursements during the last eight years—she is not yet 40—amount to $1,000,000.

A somewhat sensational book on woman, Dr. Emil Reich, the famous Hungarian professor, acknowledges that English women have beauty and dignity, but declares the fact that they are becoming Americanized. He gives the palm to the brilliant Parisienne because of her grace, charm and tact, awarding second place to the Irish girl, "the Lorelei of the British Isles, possessing the grace of a demimonde and the virtue of a nun." Dr. Reich has small praise for the American woman, and the German hausfrau has lowest place in his estimation.

Mrs. Roosevelt has one well-developed hobby, and that is the collection of old china. Under her supervision one of the most valuable collections in this country has been placed on exhibition in the basement of the White House, and it is a proud day when she can add something of historic worth to the treasures. The milliners made up entirely of remnants of the dinner sets which formerly served the presidential families. It begins with an old gold-mined pattern and cups and saucers which were the pride of Martha Washington's heart, and continues down to the era of Mrs. McKinley.

Waukegan, Ind., has a successful young farmer in the person of Lona Dore, a 14-year-old girl, who could support herself out of her produce if it were not that she has a father and a home. Two years ago she cultivated seven acres. Last year she planted two acres of cucumbers (making her own contract with a pickle manufacturer), five acres of corn, and half an acre of potatoes. She is said to net $200 an acre by her industry. Her father encourages her in her inclination for farm work by letting her have all the land she wants.

Dr. Mary Walker, celebrated as a wearer of men's clothing, is sick in a Washington hospital. She appeared at the door of the institution a few evenings ago and was supposed to be a man, but she explained: "My name is Dr. Mary Walker, and I am a woman, although I dress in men's clothing. Every one who knows me knows that I find it more convenient. I have bronchitis. I am my own physician. All I want is a room here in the hospital until I get well. I will not tell my age on the ground that I am a public man and don't want to be bothered. So just give me a room." Dr. Walker, it is reported, is doing well at the hospital and will probably be out in a few days.

800 Silk Remnants

These Silks are from the Richest Product of Domestic and Foreign Looms In All the Shades.

Heat—electric light—janitor service—all night and Sunday elevator service—a fire proof building—all cost the tenant of The Bee Building nothing extra.

The "Kantstooop"
 Shoulder Brace and Suspender

Strong Effective Simple

The Only Brace that Braces. Produces that military effect so much desired. Positively cures the habit of stooping.

Womankind (Ladies) $1.00 and Boys', all sizes, $1.25

FOR SALE BY THE BELL DRUG CO., 15th and Douglas Sts., Omaha.

SCHAEFER'S DRUG STORES, Cur. 15th and Chicago Sts., Omaha.

MYERS-DELLON DRUG CO., 15th and Farnam Sts., Omaha.

BOSTON STORE DRUG DEPT., 15th and Douglas Sts., Omaha.

H. J. PENFOLD & CO., 16th Farnam St., Omaha.

J. H. MERCHANT, 15th and Douglas Sts., Omaha.

KANTSTOOOP BRACE CO., Patentes and Mfgs., Oakland, Cal.

DERMA VIVA
 whitens the skin at once

of your money back. Is used in place of powder. Has same effect as face cream. Shows eruptions, freckles or liver spots cleared in 10 days. Derma Viva does not peel the skin. Red, Brown or Dark face, neck or hands made whiter at once. Sent prepaid for 50c.

DERMA VIVA CO., Chicago, Ill.

Boston Store, Drug Dept., Omaha.

Hints on Latest Fashions

For the accommodation of readers of The Bee the patterns, which usually retail at from 25 to 50 cents each, will be furnished at the nominal price of 10 cents. A supply is now kept at our office, so those who wish any pattern may get it either by calling or enclosing 10 cents, addressed "Pattern Department, Bee, Omaha."

NO. 6422—LADIES' APRON.
 What would woman look without the ever-useful apron to protect her gowns? In performing any task about the house dirt is sure to get on one and the wise woman knows that an apron at the right time is worth the cost of a dress. The sketch shows a new design for an apron which covers one completely. It is the only sensible kind for real service, as it insures the safe wearing of any gown into the kitchen, and is yet not unattractive. The fanciful yoke may be edged with plain white bands or be neatly stitched. The full blouse portion is not only pretty and becoming, but practical, as it allows plenty of room for the waist beneath. The square Dutch neck is very modish as a walking skirt or as part of a tailored gown. The pattern is not difficult to follow and the least experienced will find no barriers to its successful production. Broadcloth, serge, brilliantine, a novelty wool or silk may be used. For the medium size 4 1/2 yards of 44-inch material are needed. Size, 20 to 26 inches waist measure.

gingham or percale would prove most serviceable. In the medium size 4 1/2 yards of 36-inch material are necessary. Sizes, 22 to 42 inches, bust measure.

Chat About Women.
 Mrs. Simon Kruse of Chicago, who recently inherited $1,000,000, will build a home in Minneapolis. She is a dependent woman. That city was selected because it was in that city that Albert Johnson, the relative who left her his entire fortune, made his money.

In the name of her father and mother Helen Gould, with the assistance of Elizabeth Altman, actually distributes $200,000 in charity. Probably Miss Gould supports directly and indirectly more charities than any person living. Her donations annually reach 500 or more beneficiaries. Her total disbursements during the last eight years—she is not yet 40—amount to $1,000,000.

A somewhat sensational book on woman, Dr. Emil Reich, the famous Hungarian professor, acknowledges that English women have beauty and dignity, but declares the fact that they are becoming Americanized. He gives the palm to the brilliant Parisienne because of her grace, charm and tact, awarding second place to the Irish girl, "the Lorelei of the British Isles, possessing the grace of a demimonde and the virtue of a nun." Dr. Reich has small praise for the American woman, and the German hausfrau has lowest place in his estimation.

Mrs. Roosevelt has one well-developed hobby, and that is the collection of old china. Under her supervision one of the most valuable collections in this country has been placed on exhibition in the basement of the White House, and it is a proud day when she can add something of historic worth to the treasures. The milliners made up entirely of remnants of the dinner sets which formerly served the presidential families. It begins with an old gold-mined pattern and cups and saucers which were the pride of Martha Washington's heart, and continues down to the era of Mrs. McKinley.

Waukegan, Ind., has a successful young farmer in the person of Lona Dore, a 14-year-old girl, who could support herself out of her produce if it were not that she has a father and a home. Two years ago she cultivated seven acres. Last year she planted two acres of cucumbers (making her own contract with a pickle manufacturer), five acres of corn, and half an acre of potatoes. She is said to net $200 an acre by her industry. Her father encourages her in her inclination for farm work by letting her have all the land she wants.

Dr. Mary Walker, celebrated as a wearer of men's clothing, is sick in a Washington hospital. She appeared at the door of the institution a few evenings ago and was supposed to be a man, but she explained: "My name is Dr. Mary Walker, and I am a woman, although I dress in men's clothing. Every one who knows me knows that I find it more convenient. I have bronchitis. I am my own physician. All I want is a room here in the hospital until I get well. I will not tell my age on the ground that I am a public man and don't want to be bothered. So just give me a room." Dr. Walker, it is reported, is doing well at the hospital and will probably be out in a few days.

NO. 6429—LADIES' APRON.
 Every sort of fashionable skirt, according to the new regime, must be circular in cut. The most graceful effects are to be obtained by this mode, and here is sketched a walking skirt, with pleats in front and back to prevent sagging. The skirt fits smoothly over the hips and falls then in graceful ripples to the floor. A skirt of the kind may be made of any reasonable material, being very modish as a walking skirt or as part of a tailored gown. The pattern is not difficult to follow and the least experienced will find no barriers to its successful production. Broadcloth, serge, brilliantine, a novelty wool or silk may be used. For the medium size 4 1/2 yards of 44-inch material are needed. Size, 20 to 26 inches waist measure.