

COUNTY STORE SAVES MONEY

Costs About Four Thousand Less Than Last Year. SAVING MADE JANUARY AND FEBRUARY

The county commission committee does not claim credit, as Mild Winter Made Demands Light.

The cost of operating the county store for the months of January and February shows a reduction of from $2,500 to $4,000 under the cost of running the store during the corresponding months in 1904 and 1905.

Commissioner Ure, chairman of the committee on charity, has the following to say of the large reduction shown:

"The committee does not want the public to understand that it takes itself particular credit for this good showing. This winter has been comparatively mild with a good deal of work going on, hence there has not been such a strenuous demand for assistance. The county agent, too, has exercised wise discrimination and has gone to considerable pains to make investments which he has kept a list of all needy people and wherever they were found deserving they have been helped. The committee has backed him up in his work and has insisted that a definite system be followed in dispensing the county money and goods. We know from week to week and from month to month just what our expenditures are, and we have the additional satisfaction of knowing that only those who really need and deserve public aid have received it. This matter of systematizing the charity expenditures was well begun last year and we believe the showing presented indicates that we are getting into the habit of public charity down where it belongs without any worthy person suffering a refusal."
