Fashion Has Twisted the Calendar.

And now while winter snows are falling, new and beautiful spring and summer costumes, millinery, dress goods, wash goods and accessories are selling more and more each day—fashionable folk realizing the advantages of buying now while stocks are at their best. We have arranged with the makers and weavers so that the prettiest styles will not be duplicated, and styles are now here which cannot be secured at any price later on.

Buying here Friday holds many surprises in low prices, exclusiveness and superior qualities.

Corsets.

Your new spring dress? Hadn't you better begin at the beginning and consider your corset first. The new shape is a necessity, if you wish to be well dressed, as the corset must fit snugly and perfectly, tapering the waist and prettily rounding the figure. The bust, too, is a trifle higher than last season's models. Correct shapes are the well known Warner's Redfern Corsets. We have them in an assortment sufficiently varied to fit any type of form. Redfern corsets are stayed with the best quality Greenleaf Whitebones of the most pliant nature. They are made of the most elastic "Security" rubber button hose supports. When these corsets are fitted to you as we fit them, you will be perfectly and permanently corrected in the "new fashion."

STANDS BY STATEHOOD BILL.

Canons of House Republicans Decide to Fight Senate Amendments.

EXTENDED ADDRESS BY SPEAKER CANNON

Says Senate is Already Too Large and Appeals to Representatives to Assist Their Rights.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—As the result of a caucus which lasted for two and a half hours today, the republicans of the house voted 125 to 35 to stand by the statehood bill as it passes Friday and ask the senate for a conference on the measure. This vote followed immediately after a resolution offered by Mr. Mondell of Wyoming, representing the insurgents, had been defeated 123 to 43. The Mondell resolution being to agree to the senate amendment eliminating Arizona and New Mexico from the bill and asking a conference on the minor amendments in the measure. Several speeches were made. They were limited to five minutes each, but in the case of Speaker Cannon and Mr. Hamilton of Michigan, chairman of the committee on territories, the time was extended. Mr. Hamilton opened the discussion with a plea for the original house bill.

Cannon's Appeal for House Bill.

Mr. Cannon's appeal for the original bill for conference, paid a high tribute to the speaker, but declared that those who opposed his position were only acting in accordance with their duty. The speaker followed, touching first on the binding effect of both caucuses and conferences. He took the position that when the party took action on any matter of this nature, all members participating were bound by that action.

He made the point that there were twenty residents of Oklahoma and Indian Territory who objected to being tied together where there was one in Arizona and New Mexico. He admitted he was being deluged with telegrams from all over the country. He contended that the effect of admitting Oklahoma and Indian Territory at this time and not disposing of Arizona and New Mexico only meant that there would be four new senators from Arizona and New Mexico instead of two senators in case the house stood firm. To add four senators where two should be added, he declared, would give the senate too much influence as compared with the house, based upon population.

Reviewing legislation before congress, he said the rate bill would pass if the house would stand firm, its statehood bill would also become law and we can stay here for three months, he declared.

Addressing the insurgents, he added: "Why join the democrats? In order to have your own way?"

The speaker then turned his face toward the senate and remarked: "On what lead doth this our Caesar feed that it hath grown so great?"

Robbers and Railroads.

Vested with the rights of eminent domain to construct their lines, and granted liberal franchises and charters, the railroads, dependent on public carriers for the business of the whole people, in the last few years have become rapidly transformed into the hands of a few individuals. They do not trust their pistons in the faces of their victims and demand money or their lives today in the same manner as the pirates of the sea. They have monopolized the traffic of life and death in every way and have become a constant peril to the people and the nation's interests.

Mr. Tillman concluded with a word of caution to the friends of the proposed legislation. He said:

"The demand of the people for relief from the oppressive and wasteful expenditures of the railroad corporations. This influence has hitherto been maintained by their representatives in the two houses may feel that it is their duty to redress the wrongs and to continue the policy of interference."

Newlands on Bill.

Senator Newland's idea of the bill was presented by Mr. Tillman.

Mr. Newland said that while he has joined in the report on the Hepburn bill and is in sympathy with its general purposes, he thought that it is incomplete and fragmentary. He expressed his belief that the legislation would not be as effective as it should be unless there were added to the pending measures provisions for the incorporation of national corporations in interstate commerce, guarding against over-capitalization, fixing with certainty the rule for the taxation of such railway property by the states and prescribing a fixed limit for dividends.

Such legislation he contended should not simply cover the interests of the shippers and the public, but should also embrace the interests of labor by providing for an insurance fund against accidents and old age and for conciliation of disputes between carriers and their employees.

Senator Newland discussed corporate activity in politics, saying it has been one of the great evils of the country. In politics, he said, because they feel that their property may at any time be the subject of attacks either by legislators or by administrative officers.

He said that when he introduced a resolution creating a commission to frame a bill for the incorporation of railroads he believed it unnecessary to seek either the co-operation or the consent of the state. But today, he said, upon reflection he was convinced it was wiser to secure the co-operation of both the United States and the states. National incorporation, he contended, contemplated a general law for the incorporation of national railways engaged in interstate commerce. "This," he thought, "should limit stock and bond issues to the cash paid in or to the value of the property acquired and no issue permitted save with the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission."

People Are Restive. Senator Newland said it is plain the people are restive under existing conditions. They realize, he said, that men prominent in the great industrial corporations are getting control over the transportation of the country, "and unless we unify and simplify this condition in a few thoroughly good bills, we are inviting to ourselves a political control of corporations whose financial and operations can be easily understood and whose functions will be entirely taken out of politics, they will drift to national ownership as the easiest solution."

He suggested that the argument in support of national ownership was a simple and taking one, saying:

Government ownership presents so difficulties, either constitutional or practical, that it is desirable to have a simple and efficient administration, and the country will drift to it unless the existing conditions are changed. It is not a matter of accomplished union between the producing and transportation industry, but a matter of national ownership. Discriminations are done away with. I believe the policy is an advocating would give you all the benefits of government ownership, with some of its dangers. It is the road to Wellville," in pages.

TILLMAN ON RATES

earnest and exciting contention has arisen and there is great difference of opinion as to the scope of this clause and the executive powers of the commission under the bill. Whatever may be the result of this discussion in the senate, it would follow a law the final determination of the question is in the hands of the supreme court. There is even greater solicitude upon the question of judicial review.

Congress Can Control Courts. Friends of the railroads contended, urged Mr. Tillman, that congress cannot limit the jurisdiction of the circuit courts, while on the other hand, he added, "it is asserted with equal emphasis that the power to create all courts other than the supreme court rests alone in congress and that such courts being statutory are necessarily limited in the scope and power by the authority which creates them." He continued:

"I myself incline most confidently to this view and have not the slightest doubt that it is possible to properly amend this bill and the last language is always the best."

"Six months ago I would have laughed at the idea that there could be anything better for a table beverage than coffee," writes an Ohio woman—"now I laugh to know there is."

"Since childhood I drank coffee as freely as any other member of the family. My result was a puny, stinky girl, and as I grew into womanhood I did not gain in health, but was afflicted with heart trouble, a weak and disordered stomach, wrecked nerves and a general breaking down, till last winter at the age of 38 I seemed to be on the verge of consumption. My friends brought me a bottle of Postum Food Coffee, and nothing else in the world." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

FIGHTING FOR A WITNESS

Ohio Court and Senate in Struggle for Banker of Cincinnati.

REFUSES TO APPEAR BEFORE COMMITTEE

Lively Contest Between Officers and Bank Clerks When Attempt is Made to Arrest Deceased Witness.

COLUMBUS, O., March 15.—A writ of habeas corpus was issued today by Judge Dillon in the Franklin county common pleas court, returnable at once, for Thomas J. Davis, the Cincinnati banker, who was secured yesterday by officers in the interest of the Lexow probing committee of the Ohio senate.

A deputy sheriff was given the writ and started out to find Davis, but returned later when he found that Davis was in Cincinnati. The writ commanded Davis to appear before the common pleas court at Cincinnati.

Senator Schmidt said today: "They may prevent us getting Davis before the senate today, but we are determined on the matter. We do not propose to be balked in our purpose without a fight."

Refuses to Appear. CINCINNATI, March 15.—Mr. Davis acted on the advice of the attorneys in refusing to appear before the committee, holding that the information which was sought from him was a business confidence which he had no right to make public.

At his desk as usual, even notifying the committee where he could be found if they wished to secure his arrest. Attorneys for the committee, however, said that they feared any attempt to secure his arrest in the ordinary way would be a cause for a delay through habeas corpus proceedings and the legal contest which would follow.

For this reason they took the somewhat unusual method of arresting him on a warrant from the state senate and then hurrying him from the city in an automobile before the local courts could issue a writ of habeas corpus and secure possession of the witness.

Struggle on Bank. The arrest was made at the close of the day and the officers had difficulty in getting away with their prisoner, some of the bank clerks who had crowded at one time, seeming about to use force to rescue their superior. Attorney Lawrence Maxwell, Jr., on behalf of the bank president, protested against the arrest as contrary to the power of the committee and immediately secured a writ of habeas corpus from Gammon, Meigs judge, before it could be served the party in the automobile had been hurried to Sharon, ten miles from the city, where a traction car was taken to Dayton. In that city a train was taken to Springfield, and in that city the party stopped at a hotel for the night.

Officers from Cincinnati, with copies of the writ, had been in various directions and round the city, Springfield during the early morning. The sergeant-at-arms did not resist the order of the court, but gave up their prisoner, who was brought back to Cincinnati, where he was to appear before Judge Samuel W. Smith today. The Drake committee had summoned Cashier Davis to testify whether his bank had paid either gratuities or interest to County Treasurer Hynicka as a means of securing the deposit of county funds. The hearing on the habeas corpus was postponed until next Wednesday. Davis was released on his own recognizance.

RAILROADS KILL FOUR PEOPLE

Fatal Accidents Are Reported from Railroad Yards at Sutherland and Lincoln.

SUTHERLAND, Neb., March 15.—(Special Telegram.)—Three young men met death in the local railroad yards today while attempting to cross the track in front of southeast train No. 10. They were Joe Leach, Will Robb and Alonzo Matthews. All were mangled and death was instantaneous.

LINCOLN, March 15.—(Special Telegram.)—Frank Hutchinson, a switchman employed by the Burlington, was perhaps fatally hurt this morning. He was making a coupling and in some way got his head caught between the bumper and his skull was crushed. He is barely alive. He has a wife and one child.

Clark caused this fall.

"That was a shooting we were mixed up in." I gave Clark my gun before we got into the house. I had my money up in a handkerchief, $5.00 or $7.50 and put it in my left pocket. I met Officer Joe Hillman, and he told me the coffeehouse was shot. I took a car and got off at Dr. McCann's office, and saw the conductor there. Afterward I walked to Omaha, as there were no cars in Omaha. I went to Mrs. Shepherd's, the South Fifteenth street, where I stayed all night.

Knows Clarke's Assassin.

It is stated that Wain also told the South Omaha police that he knew something about the shooting of Frank N. Clarke, which has been a mystery to the police officers of Omaha since the time of its occurrence. He said: "None of my companions had anything to do with it, but that a man by the name of Garfield and his companion were the chief actors in the holdup. Garfield and his pal took the Rock Island train a few nights ago, bound for Des Moines. It is likely that they may go from there to St. Louis. If the statement of Gathright turns out to be the truth there will be another large item of credit to the industry of the South Omaha police department."

Clark and Wain were taken to the city jail Thursday afternoon to have their Bertillon measurements recorded. The prisoners were returned to the county jail.

Well Known in Omaha.

Gathright is well known to the police of Omaha, and they recognize in him a desperate and dangerous character. He has at different times been the source of a great deal of trouble to the local police. It is only a few months since one of the members of the Omaha police force was saved from death at the hands of Gathright in the nick of time by the quick interference of another officer. This was last September, about the time Officer Al Jackson was shot while in pursuit of Pat Crowe. Gathright was making some trouble in a house at Sixteenth and Nicholas streets and Patrolmen Shields and Lahey were sent to restore order. Gathright was in an ugly mood and did not feel inclined to become quiet or submit to arrest. Officer Shields then sought to take him by force and while off his guard the burly black man stealthily drew a revolver and was actually pressing it against the lower left portion of the officer's abdomen, ready to fire, when the merchant happened to catch the eye of Officer Lahey. Quick as a flash the latter grabbed the pistol and "broke" it, the cartridges scattering over the sidewalk. It was a cheap gun or the feat would not have been so easily performed.

Clark Also Confesses.

Clarence Gathright was returned to the county jail yesterday afternoon after having made the full confession of his connection with the Lathrop robbery. His companions in the crime were taken with him

Who Will Get Rewards?

A total of $2,000 reward has been offered for the capture and conviction of the three criminals. The question arises now: Who will get this reward, assuming the three men in custody are the guilty ones? Chief Briggs, Detective Elshofer, Officer Ballew and any other South Omaha police officer who participated in the capture, naturally are considered eligible to share in the reward, and then there is some sentiment among the men who were with him on the first tip to the police, which led to the arrest of the trio, will become entitled to a part of the money. The fact that the woman confesses to having made the masks worn by the murderers and to have had knowledge of the premeditated crime, leads some people to the view that she is a party to the crime, and is entitled to any reward, but prosecution. The fact she voluntarily "gave up" to the police, however, is counted by those believing her entitled to reward as absolving her so far as the law is concerned. This point is generally disputed.

General Baggage Agents Meet.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 15.—The business meeting of the American Association of General Baggage Agents today discussed the question of excess baggage. The session closed with the reading of a paper on the subjects of interest to baggage agents of all railway lines by F. D. Taylor of Chicago, general baggage agent of the Chicago & Northwestern road. Tomorrow morning the baggage agents and their wives will start on their southern California sightseeing trip.

Great Northern to Improve.

ST. PAUL, March 15.—The Great Northern spent more than $5,000,000 for freight and passenger equipment this year. It will also purchase.

Wreck Survivors Arrive.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The steamer Manheim which rescued part of the crew of the steamer British King, which sank in the North Atlantic last week, arrived here today.

UNUSUAL DISTINCTION FOR TILLMAN

Report on Rate Bill Read at Length in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—"I say unto you here, love your enemies," said Dr. Edward Everett Hale in beginning his prayer on opening the senate today, but Mr. Tillman was the only senator present to listen to the admonition. The absence of senators did not, however, deter the venerable chaplain from proceeding with his invocation, which was a prayer for general co-operation among individuals, corporations and nations.

A bill was passed repealing the provisions of the tonnage law of 1884, authorizing the president to suspend the law in the event of a national emergency. The senate chamber soon filled and by the time Mr. Tillman took the floor to present his report on the railroad bill there was an average attendance.

The report was distinguished by the unusual distinction of being read at length. In presenting the document, the South Carolina senator stated that the report contained only his views and was not, therefore, a report in the ordinary sense.

"Let the senators' views be read," said Mr. Aldrich. Mr. Tillman at first demurred, but Mr. Aldrich replied that he had read curiously to know what Mr. Tillman's views were, and other senators joining in the demand, he yielded and the clerk proceeded with the reading.

When as the reading progressed the clerk was about to read an extract from a message by the president, Mr. Tillman objected. "It is the most important part," he said. Mr. Tillman also presented Mr. Newland's views on the bill.

The president's message on the subject of the recent battle between the United States troops and Moro insurgents in the Sulu islands was then read and Mr. Culbertson asked whether this was intended as a reply to the resolution recently adopted by the senate at his instance, and Mr. Bacon replied that it could not be a reply to the resolution as it failed to cover the ground.

Mr. Lodge replied that so far no news had been received except by cable and he had no doubt that as soon as news was received it would be supplied as a matter of course.

Big Flow of Water Struck. VERMILION, S. D., March 15.—(Special.)—Charles Erickson, living in Greenwood township, in boring for an artesian well struck flowing water at a depth of sixty-two feet. The well is a gusher, throwing the water twenty feet in the air. Erickson's neighbors are excited over the flow, as it is the best ever secured in the north part of the country.

Sheriff Effects Compromise. KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 15.—A compromise was effected in the federal court here today in the case of the government against J. W. Fox and his bondsmen as sheriff of Knox county. The government sought to recover damages from Fox on account of the escape of Harvey Logan, a notorious criminal, from the county jail. Fox escaped from jail here in June, 1904, while awaiting transportation to the Columbus (Ga.) prison.

NEEDLESS ALARM. Here's a poor man coughing away his lungs—at least so his relatives think. It's cough, cough; hack, hack, hack, all day and sometimes all night. "Must be consumption," think the alarm-bell ringers. And of course there is always a possibility that they may be right. But in most cases they're wrong; because Dyspepsia is so much more common than consumption.

And Dyspepsia causes chronic Cough, just like Consumption. The dyspeptic cough, it is well to remember, can be quickly cured by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

No need to be alarmed about it, unless you make up your mind to neglect it. Then, indeed, you must look out for danger, for a cough which is coughed often grows into a Consumptive Cough, often neglected by the constant lung irritation which it causes.

So the best way is to waste no time, but begin at once the use of these famous little tablets, the timely use of which has saved many a sick person from ending in a consumptive's grave.

Remember, however, if you please, that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will positively NOT cure Consumption, but prevent it. Of course, they can always be depended on to cure all the other symptoms of indigestion.

These are a universal cure, for one universal disease. They cure nothing else; but what they do, they do thoroughly and well.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the result of the most thorough investigation into the inside causes and the cure of indigestion that has ever been attempted.

They have solved a problem, the answer to which a hundred thousand physicians in America are today groping for in vain. They cure the most severe, long-continued chronic, complicated cases of indigestion that can be found. They are far ahead of the most modern medical practice, because the most successful physicians of the day, in the cure of diseases of the digestive organs, are using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets as a basis for their success.

They stop to Stuart's to conquer. And Stuart's lift them up out of the rut. If, therefore, you are a victim of this dread disease, which counts its victims by the million, brace up and take new heart for you cannot fail to cure your trouble if you will only put your faith in this great remedy, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

They are positively, frankly, truly, a sure and permanent relief. Try them.
