deal to do with the penalty." County Attorney Slabaugh appeared well satisfied with the result of his labors in the O'Hearn case when seen last evening "As a public officer I cannot say much in connection with the case at this time, further than to state I believe the verdict. was a fair one under the evidence offered. and will meet with general satisfaction of that I feel assured."

It required just six ballots in the jury room before an agreement was reached There was no division among the jupors as to the guilt of the defendant. The only division was over the penalty. On the drut ballot nine stood for the death penalty and three for a life sentence. Then gradually one by one the jurors who at first objected to hanging swung over with the majority and finally on the sixth vote the verdict was unantmous.

The verdict met the approbation of practicully every body on the streets Saturday evening. The news was proclaimed to the ultitudes through extras, which were bought up by the hundreds. Favorable omment was heard on all sides. The Bee telephone was kapt busy answering questions as to the verdict and nearly everyone who inquired uttered exclamations of approval. Many compared the verdict and the jury with the verdict and jury in the Crown case. In the Jury's Hands. The case went to the jury at 2:55 o'clock and the crowd was so dense a passageway had to be cleared before the jurors could be escorted out of the court room by the bailiffs. O'Hearn was taken to the sheriff's office to await the decision.

During the final proceedings he maintained the same stolld demeanor that he has shown since the beginning. While County Attorney Blabaugh was making his final argument Mrs. O'Hearn, the defendife, leaned her head on the table and sobbed viotently. She remained in this position after the jury had gone out. O'Hearn's mother sat with her face buried in her hands during the entire afternoon

I think the and laid considerable stress on the testimony of Joe Warren that Nelson had tried to induce him to turn state's evidence. Nelson, he said, had given the 32 calibre revolver to O'Hearn in order to turn suspicion from himself and then had newsstand with a bundle of papers under gotten rid of the 38 calibre revolver by giving it to Warren. The next day he said he went out to O'Hearn's house to see that the gun was disposed of and found it had been given to Mrs. O'Hearn's

> He also declared the cause of the crime was drink and pointed out that the law takes the position a man might be so drunk as to be unable to form an attempt to rob. At the close he reiterated his plea

During the pleas of the defendant's attorneys handkerchiefs were frequently used. The wife and mother of the defendant sat near him and several times were convulsed with sobs. Other women in the crowd had their handkerchiefs to their eyes during the affecting parts of the pleas. County Attorney Slabaugh in his argument declared more sympathy is due the family of the murdered man than to the friends. "You may shed tears for the guilty man," he said, "but give me the sympathy for the thousands who will be murdered before the end of the year because of maudlin sympathy for the criminal.

Nelson Commended for Aid. He commended Nelson for assisting in the prosecution of the case, while O'Hearn was standing pat and refusing to talk. He appealed to the jury to do its part in the enforcement of the law, so that it might safe for law abiding citizens to walk the streets at night. He asked the jury to return a verdict of guilty with the death penalty attached.

The county attorney closed at 3:40, and Judge Sutton at once began the reading of his instructions. He directed the jury that a verdict of guilty must be returned if they find that either Nelson or O'Hearn fired the shot while intending to perpetrate a robbery. If not satisfied as to the intent to rob a verdict of not guilty should be returned. He instructed that Nelson's testimony must be carefully considered, especially if it were found that he expected leniency for testifying. Neither the testimony of Nelson or O'Hearn could be disregarded simply because of their connection with the case. Drunkenness, while not an excuse for crime, may be ensidered as to whether or not the derendant was in condition to form an tent to rob. The reading of the instructions occupied fifteen minutes and they were listened to with deep interest by the crowd. Jury That Tried the Case.

Story of the Crime. The crime for which Jay O'Hearn must hang was committed shortly after 11 o'clock on the night of January 20, while he and three accomplices, Raymond Nelson, Leo Angus and Joseph Warren, were holding up the saloon of Nels Lausten at Twenty-first and Cuming streets. O'Hearn and Nelson went into the saloon leaving Angus and Warren on guard outside. Besides Lausten, who was in charge, the only man in the place when they entered was Henry Bonney, who was drinking a glass of beer at the bar O'Hearn and Nelson walked up to the bar and called for three glauses of beer, saying a third man would be in in a minute. O'Hearn was standing next to Bonney and Nelson beyond him. As Lausten placed the three glasses of beer on the bar he was ordered to throw up his hands, but apparently thinking a joke was being shot answered his refusal, and he backed to the north end of the bar, where he stood for a minute, when he pitched forward dead. In the meantime Nelson had some behind the bar and rifled the cash register of $18.70. Then the two ran out of saloon and went away as rapidly as possible. Of these facts there was no dispute. The only question in dispute at the trial was whether O'Hearn or Nelson fired the fatal shot. Each accused the other on the witness stand. Bonney's testimony was that the man standing next to him with a short overcoat on did the shooting and the other man went behind the bar and rified the cash register. He also said the man who did the shooting covered him with his revolver as he (Bonney) started to leave the saloon after the shooting O'Hearn admitted in his testimony that it was he who covered Bonney, but he says he did it while Nelson was covering Lausten. Bonney testified neither one of them paid any attention to him until after the shot was fired and this was corroborated by Nelson. Ben Persinger also testified to looking nia perishable freight tied up in roundin at the saloon door and seeing O'Hearn houses along the line, owing to the exstanding in front of the bar with a gun tremely cold weather of the past few days, in his hand and Nelson behind the bar rifling the register.

After the Murder.

The four "pals" met after the murder, according to a previous agreement, at Washington hall, where, according to statement signed by Angus and the testimony of Nelson, Angue asked O'Hearn; "Did you shoot the barkeeper?" "Shut up," answered O'Hearn; "yes, was done was also a link in the chain of evidence which entangled O'Hearn. The bullet was a 22-caliber, and a 32-caliber revolver was found in the possession of Ralph Gray, O'Hearn's father-in-law, to whom it was given by Mrs. O'Hearn the morning after the shooting and after O'Hearn had been arrested. O'Hearn admitted it was the gun that killed Lauston, but said it was in the hands of Nelson when the shot was fired. Nelson and Angus purchased it at Council Bluffs the day of the murder, but, according to Nelson, it was given by Angus to O'Hearn when the quartet met that night. O'Hearn atempted to show it was in the possessio of Nelson. He said after the four had met Nelson asked him to trade guns, as he had a 38 and he preferred a 32. He said Nelson kept the gun until they started to run away from Lausten's saloon, when they traded back, Nelson saying he was going to stay in Omaha and he did not want be caught with a 22 gun on him. O'Hearn's overcost also implicated him in the shooting. He were a shert, light coat, which was identified by several of the witnesses

Angus was arrested that night at Washington hall for another offense and it was through statements secured from him that the other arrests were made on Sunday. O'Hearn was arrested about 2 o'clock Sunday morning. Warren about 11 o'clock and Nelson at 4 o'clock. Nelson was the first to make definite statements placing the responsibility for the shooting, but the confession of the others pointed strongly to O'Hearn. Up to within a few days of the trial it was generally conceded that O'Hearn was responsible for the shooting, but then Nelson's friends learned an attempt would be made to fasten the shooting or him. He was the only one of the four who took the stand for the state. Joe Warren testified for the defendant, but his evidence was not conclusive as to any of the main facts in the case. O'Hearn

March 17.-11 can be stated authoritatively that the officials of he United Mine Workers of America have decided to allow the Ryan resolution to e eliminated from consideration and will act upon the assumption that the adoption of the report of the scale committee has virtually repealed the resolution which precented one district from signing an agreenent with the operators until all districts had come to an agreement. The report of the scale committee was:

Resolved. That we heartly endorse the policy and action of President Mitchell in this matter and do now hold ourselves in readiness to meet our employers for the purpose of endeavoring to effect a satisfactory settlement of wage questions.

All resolutions in the convention today which endeavored to affect action on the scale or the Ryan resolution were quietly sent to the resolutions committee without omment. This position of the miners enders with reference to the Ryan resolu tion will enable the operators and miners to deal by districts, if there is a fallure to make an agreement for the entire bituminous field. Mr. F. L. Robbins and ther operators who favor signing by districts, even if an advance in wages is given, are greatly pleased over the position taken by the leaders, of the mine workers.

The convention of the United Mine Workers voted $5,000 for the fegal defense of C. H. Meyer, W. D. Haywood and Pettibone, officers of the Western Federation of Miners who are under indictment in Idaho charged with conspiracy.

FIRE RECORD.

Holt County Farm House Burns. O'NEILL, Neb., March 17.—(Special.)— John Fallon and family, living a few miles orth of town, were the victims of a serious loss when their house and house hold belongings were consumed by firthe inmates of the house barely escaping with their lives. The fire had got under such headway that it was impossible to save anything and all the frightened and aroused sleepers could do was to get out in their night clothes. At the risk of being burned, however, Mr. Fallon secured a picture of his mother before he left the burning building. The boys upstairs undertook to go down the stairway, but found it all ablaze and leaped from a window to save their lives. supposed to have originated from a box of ashes that stood in a shed adjoining Chicago Factories. CHICAGO, March 17 .- The Bradley building occupied by small manufacturing concerns was destroyed by fire today.

Company Grants Half of Demand. PITTSBURG. March 17.—An advance in wages of 1 cent per hour has been granted the employes of the Pittsburg Railway company, operating all the traction lines in Pittsburg and Allegheny. Recently the men made a demand for an increase of 2 cents an hour and the action of the company is regarded as a compromise.

"TORISCUS"

Centestants may select for subjects either "Kryptok" or "Toriscus" lenses, or both. The merit of competing verses will be considered solely from a standpoint of good advertising and competitors must accept our judgment as to their availability.

Verses for competition must be addresses to Ad. Dept., Columbian Optical Co., Omaha, and self addressed stamped envelope enclosed to insure their return in case no prize is awarded them. "Toriscus" lenses are made for any weater of glasses, and for many reasons are superior to any other lens made for the eyes. Owing to their deep curve they can be set closer to the eye than the old form without touching the lashes, thus giving an enlarged field of vision and doing away with "seeing the edges," which is so annoying to many persons. The lens is equally distant from the eye in looking at any angle, and vision is just as good when looking through the edges as the center. "Kryptok" lenses can also be made in the "Toriscus" shape.
