Judge Start, who was one of the oldest members of the Vermont bar, died November 7. A few days previous to his death he sat reading in his chair, and seeing a fly on the floor beside him, leaned over to kill it.

Afterward he suffered much pain in one side, a swelling appeared and it is claimed his death was hastened from this cause. He was insured against accident in the Fidelity company in the sum of $5,000, and the estate brings suit to recover the face of the policy, while the company contends that Judge Start had been a sick man for several years, and at the time was suffering from' a hopeless case of septicaemia, or blood poisoning.

Fear Brings Mute's Speech.

Fear that her home was burning caused Mrs. Frances Maguire of Alton, Ill., to speak for the first time in her life last week. She ran down the street crying "Fire!" as if she had heard and said the word from chlidhood. Her neighbors were assistance. James Chessen, whom she met on the street, heeded her and turned in a fire alarm. When the fire department came it the music box under the hammer as the last was found that the fire was a bonfire built article to be sold the crowd surged for- outside the house by hoys and that the ward and the most spirited bidding during smoke from it had filled Mrs. Maguire's home and frightened her.

Neighbors who heard Mrs. Maguire ing played one bidder exclaimed: "I'll raise screaming "Fire!" declared she uttered the it from $75 to $100, Mr. Auctioneer; I must word plainly and had evidently been forced take that home tonight." Another raised to do so by great excitement. She has not

The experiment was eminently satisfuetory to both parties, and at the end of the week they were married.

The example is not altogether practical of emulation, and perhaps it will shock the sentimental and the romantic, but it contains the wise suggestion that folk desiring to become husband and wife should be sure of knowing each other in their commun clothes and under workaday conditions. Parlor manners on the part of the lady and picule gallantry on the part of the gentleman are not conclusive indexes of character, nor is the yumyum ecstasy of infatuation sufficient evidence of compatibility.

Cupid in Soldier's Cap.

A unique way to catch a husband was adopted several weeks ago by a girl employe in a cap factory at Pottstown, Pa., when she posted in the inside of newly finished soldiers' caps this bait:

Telephone News Service.

Several years ago an editor in a small Illinois town conceived the notion of strengthening his subscription list, and, dentally, making a little money on the side, by running out farmers' telephone lines into the surrounding territory. Anywhere from fifteen to thirty telephones were put on one line. The farmers paid $1 a month for the service, and in addition to having the free use of the line for greater boon. The editor, as an inducemen to subscribers, inaugurated a "daily telephone news service." Every night, read one day in his newspaper that the secretary of the navy lled some midshipmen for fighting. Jouett toddled over to the Navy department and called on the secretary. "What's this I hear about expelling some boys for fighting ?" he asked. "It is true," the secretary replied. "I expelled two." "What!" roared the admiral. "What is a naval officer for if it isn't to fight? We are not raising a lot of ministers over
