LINCOLN POLITICIANS OBJECT TO PLAN

Twiside of Congressional Problem They Fear it May Be Contagious and State Committee Become Infected with Idea.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN: March 26 - (Special) - Aroused by the opposition to his renomination Congressman Pollard is expected to reach incoln Wednesday for a conference with ois friends regarding his candidacy. The latest rumor in the congressional fight, which is a fight now, inasmuch as Judge Holmes has announced his candidacy, is that Pollard will get his congressional committee to call a primary election to select the nominee rather than the convention. Pollard has four personal friends on the ommittee who can be expected to do what they can to further his chances, so if Pollard really wants the primary, as it is now said, he can get it.

Some of the politicians in Lancaster are proposed to the primary because they believe they would not be able to manipulate affairs as easily as they can in a convention. Another reason why the politicians down here don't want Pollard to call a primary election is because they fear it might have some effect on the state committee and re- Disrobes and Jumps from Car and sult in state primaries. Pollard's friends believe with a primary he would be able to get nearly all of the farmer votes, and thus capture the nomination a second time. Others, however, assert without Lancaster Pollard stands little chance of being the nom-

KEARNEY, Neb., March 3.-(Special Telegram.)-The preliminary examination of Everett Edwards, the traveling man charged with manelaughter in connection with the death of Miss Anna Grosh, which occurred last Tuesday, began today. That there is an unusual amount of interest in this case was shown by the large number of spectators present, necessitating holding the examination in the district court room Edwards is one of the coolest and most self-possessed persons who was ever compelled to answer so serious a charge in this or any other county. He appeared in court today entirely destitute of counsel, having assured Sheriff Sammons that he did not care for an attorney. Judge Marston advised, him, however, to secure a lawyer, Following this advice he retained C. A. Robinson, who is conducting his defense for him. Edwards sits behind his lawyer, however, and his interest in the case more esembles that of associate counsel than defendant. He is keenly alive to every situation and the portent of every question, and frequently prompts his attorney. He is neatly, though not gaudily attired, and is quite prepossessing in appearance.

George Martin. Relief Sent to Scene. There were thirty men in the car that was wrecked and only five of them escaped injury. Most of the killed and injured are foreign laborers who were employed on the railroad extension. The waycar caught fire, but the blaze was extinguished at once, Four doctors from here left at 10 o'clock last night with fifty men to assist in caring for the injured and clearing away the wreckage, and feur doctors and a nurse from Douglas arrived in Casper this morning and went to the scene of the disaster. On account of the Platte river bridge just west of Casper being damaged yesterday by ice gorges, those who went out early were obliged to drive or go on handcars. The bridge was hastily repaired and a train left here at 9 o'clock with additional help. The dead and injured were brought to Casper this afternoon and are being cared for at the hospital and at private houses, where cots have been set up. The dead podies of the foreigners were placed in the town hall and an inquest will be held tomorrow. Engineer Fisher and Fireman Stevens, as well as the other trainmen, escaped without the slightest injury. The onductor and brakemen were in the waycar at the rear, which remained on the track. The work of rescuing was carried on all night by the few who escaped. D. D. The engine passed over in safety, but the coach, loaded with the section men,-dropped into the roaring torrent and the flat cars and waycar piled on top. The coach was demolished. There were twenty-six persons in the car at the time of the accident. Foreman Charles Moli was killed and for a time the laborers being without a leader, were frantic and did not know what to do. The engineer and fireman and the train crew quickly assumed charge and the work of rescue began.

The train crew and the less seriously hurt worked all night and as fast as the injured were taken out they were carried to Natrona, where they received such reatment as could be obtained at the section house and two or three ranch houses. The wreckage caught fire soon after the ecident occurred and for a time it looked capital. as if the dead and injured would be incinerated before they could be removed. A bucket brigade was formed, however, and after a fight the flames were extin guished before any material damage was done. One or two of the laborers pinned under the wreckage near the stove were

NO REVISING THE TARIFF NOW

Chairman Payne Outlines the Attitude of the House.

WASHINGTON, March 26 .- What may be regarded as the final pronouncement against tariff revision at the present session of congress is contained in a letter from Chairman Payne of the house ways and means committee in reply to a communication sent him by Representative McCall on behalf of the Massachusetts delegation in congress. -Mr. McCall calls attention in his communication to the declaration in the republican state platform of Massachusetts for tariff revision with adherence to the policy of protection and to the declaration in the republican national platform regarding the readjustnent of duties when conditions demandand entrusting the question to a republican president and congress. The Massachusetts view as presented is that conditions have so changed as to demand changes in the Dingley rates, which have served nine years. In his reply Mr. Payne first will leave for America shortly.

to place the administration of the timber lands of the government under the secretary of agriculture. The work will be carried on under the supervision of the bureau of forestry. Ten per cent of the oneys coming from timber sales goes for the benefit of schools and roads in the countles where the timber is taken and he residue in the states named in the rrigation act goes into the reclamation fund. It is provided that after June 30, 1908, timber moneys from both reserved lands and forest reserves shall not be used except upon estimates made by the secretary of agriculture, and appropriated for in the usual way by congress. This is an important provision and establishes a new policy with what is known as "lump sum appropriations," indicating that the policy is later to be applied to expenditures by the reclamation bureau and may be extended to certain expenditures to connec tion with the Panama canal. The bill gives free use of timber for mining, agricultural and domestic purposes, and provides that lands chiefly valuable for stone may be entered under the placer mining faws.

Helps Irrigation Project. Congressman Mondell of Wyoming late this afternoon succeeded in passing his bill giving the state of South Dakota permission to select lands on the public domain instead of lands originally selected in order that the great irrigation enterprise may be carried out in that state. Originally these lands in question were donated to the state for penal and eleemosy nary purposes and under the constitution these lands cannot be sold except by act of the national legislature. As 10,006 acres are involved the bill is designed to make exchange possible.
