FOR GRAIN EXCHANGE ALONE

Members Oppose Consolidation of Traffic Interests with Jobbers.

GRAIN TRAFFIC TO BE INDEPENDENT

Statement Brought About by Suggestion Offered in Favor of Resolution at a Called Meeting.

The first clash in the grain exchange on the subject of Secretary Merchant's successor came yesterday. Another is slated for Friday.

The clash yesterday resulted in bringing out opposition to the proposed combination of the interests of the exchange and the Commercial club, as far as transportation matters are concerned, and of making J. E. McVann traffic commissioner of the exchange as he is of the club. Resolutions favoring such action met with strong opposition, and were finally given into the keeping of an amendment committee.

J. H. Hamilton, chairman of the grain committee, early in the morning, called a meeting for 9 o'clock at the Commercial club rooms, asking the attendance of the grain committee and the general membership of the exchange. About twenty men responded.

Nathan Merriam presented a set of resolutions providing for the proposed combination of interests, and a motion was passed to take up the resolutions by sections. The discussion proceeded no further than the first section, for by the time that had been before the meeting a half hour, it had become evident that the majority were in opposition to the movement and the friends of the resolutions were willing to drop the matter for the time being. At one juncture there was a motion to table the resolutions, but it was withdrawn and a decision made to leave them with a committee for revision. Friday, at 3 o'clock, the subject will be resumed.

No one spoke for the resolution with the exception of Mr. Merriam. It was opposed by J. E. Von Dorn, A. B. Jacquith, Floyd Campbell, E. P. Peck, James Walsh, W. B. Dexter and E. C. Twamley. Several members remained silent through the session.

Mr. Von Dorn said he was not in favor of cutting down the expenses of the exchange to the detriment of its interests, which would result unless the secretary or commissioner gave his whole time and the business. He added that the grain trade presented different problems from those ordinarily handled by the commissioner of the Commercial club. A. B. Jacquith and James Walsh said the exchange was perfectly capable of standing alone and ought to be able to maintain its separate identity.

"We want a good, capable, experienced traffic man and we can pay him a good salary," said E. P. Peck. "I believe in the Commercial club, and I believe in having the club help us just as it would assist the jobbers, but I do not believe in making the exchange the tail-end of the jobbers. We have a perfect right to ask the Commercial club for help on any occasion without passing any resolutions, and more than that, the club has invited us time and again to let it be known when we want co-operation."

E. C. Twamley got off the subject a little and said: "I should like to see a transportation committee appointed entirely of grain men. If Allen Bros. or Paxton & Gallagher want to have rates adjusted on groceries, they don't have a grain man talk to the railroads. Why should we have the jobbers on our transportation committee?"

The present transportation committee consists of F. P. Kirkendall, E. E. Bruce, Nathan Merriam, W. J. C. Kenyon and N. B. Updike.

Talk thus came about on the transportation committee of 1904 and one man said he did not think it proper thing to have had two railroad men in that body, since at times the exchange had to fight the railroads. The annual report for 1905 shows that the members of the transportation committee are E. P. Kirkendall, F. A. Nash, F. D. Parkhurst, W. J. C. Kenyon and John C. Wharton.

The matter has already been decided, as far as the Commercial club is concerned, said one of the men who was at the meeting, afterward. "Although I do not believe it has been put up to the executive committee, the combination has been agreed upon by the men who control things in that body. I believe that most of the members of the exchange who favor such action as the resolution suggest, are members also of the Commercial club. They want the exchange to pay half the salary of their commissioner. I understand that the proposition was being held back to pay Mr. McVann $100 a month from the Grain Exchange treasury, and was only to be broached after the passage of the first set of resolutions. The movement will never be successful."

It was suggested by a man who did not attend the meeting that the resolutions were never meant to be passed, but were introduced to bring out as much comment as possible unfavorable to the proposition. In order to encourage a decision especially to those against making the combination. The resolutions are:

Whereas, There exists in Omaha a Commercial club of nearly 1,000 members, made up of the chain of the commercial activities of the city, and

Whereas, This Commercial club has organized in every way possible all kinds of good business enterprises, on the way to success and prosperity, and especially to safeguard such industries against unjust and unreasonable freight rates; and

Whereas, The Omaha Grain Exchange is one of Omaha's most important industries, and a link in the chain of the commercial activities—an important spoke in its wheel of commerce, component or integral part of that which makes up a prosperous western city; and

Whereas, A majority of the members of the said Grain Exchange are also members of the Commercial club; and

Whereas, The success of a grain exchange is to a very large degree dependent on the enjoyment of equalized freight rates, as compared with the market rates; and

Whereas, In itself it may not be able to bring about such rates from various sources, but it is the duty of the Commercial club, as a body, to see that the grain exchange is not left out of the benefits of the equalized freight rates; and

Resolved, That the important freight matters of the exchange be handled by the traffic commissioner of the Commercial club. Or, in other words, that the grain exchange should be put on the same footing as the jobbing interests, or other commercial interests of the city.

Second—That a bureau of transportation be created from the active members of the Grain Exchange, to be composed of five members, as follows: One representative of a line motor company, two representatives of strictly terminal elevators and one, either brokers or receivers, who shall have no interest in any freight matter. Through this bureau all freight matters shall pass to the traffic commissioner.

Third—That the inspection and weighing department be separated from the secretary's office and made a distinct department, which will attend to all the clerical work. At present time, and possibly when success is made with it, it is now, the present force appears to be competent and sufficient.

Fourth—That a secretary be employed at a salary ranging from $125 to $150 per month, according to ability, whose duties will be those to which he is accustomed, according to the by-laws of the exchange, and in addition thereto, assist as far as possible and advisable in freight matters.

Fifth—Be it further resolved, that it is the sense of this meeting that the territory in which the Omaha grain dealers may operate, must be largely increased, since the handling capacity of the elevators at Omaha and Council Bluffs has been increased tenfold or more—add that, too, at the earliest possible date.

Turks Busy on Frontier Problem. CONSTANTINOPLE, March 27.—The Turkish frontier incident is engaging the constant attention of Turkish government and the opinion prevails that a satisfactory solution will be arrived at in a few days.

MICKEY FAVORS HOME RULE

Announces He Will Recommend Change in Omaha and South Omaha Charters.

NAMING POLICE BOARDS A THANKLESS TASK

Rumor Pollard Favors Primary in the First Congressional District Has Stirred Up the Politicians.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, March 27.—(Special.)—I shall recommend to the next legislature the repeal of that part of the Omaha charter which provides the governor shall appoint the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners for Omaha.

This is the way Governor Mickey expressed himself just before appointing J. W. Thomas to be again a member of the police board.

"The fact that the governor has to appoint this board is an acknowledgment of the people of Omaha that they cannot govern themselves," continued the executive. "The governor has to appoint men on the recommendation of others and he never knows whether he is getting good men or not."

"There are so many factions in Omaha that the job of naming a Board of Fire and Police Commissioners is one of the most disagreeable that comes to a governor. The same thing applies to South Omaha. There is a town that cannot govern itself and the citizens come down to the legislature to get a bill passed to force the governor to take the responsibility of naming the board of police commissioners."

"I have come to the conclusion the proper thing to do is to recommend to the legislature home rule for Omaha and South Omaha so as to save my successor the trouble and the trials I have had with these two towns naming police boards. The governor should not have to interfere with these local affairs at all."

Objections to a Primary. The report that Mr. Pollard's congressional committee intended to call a primary to select a nominee rather than the old-time convention has caused several indications of bucking all along the line. Lancaster politicians don't want the primary and some of the candidates before the convention which nominated Pollard are inclined to go straight up when the matter is discussed. One of them said: "The counties composing the district will not submit to a primary. The congressional committee can do what it pleases in the way of recommending a primary, but it has no power to compel a county committee to submit to it. The primary is recognized in law and the primary is not. If the committee does recommend or order a primary you can put it down that the outside counties will not stand for it at all."

Congressman Pollard reached Lincoln this afternoon and was met here by Congressman Clapp of the congressional committee. "I have just got here," said Mr. Pollard, "and have not looked over the situation. I don't know what the people think of the primary and I do not know what the committee will do. However, I look for very little opposition in my candidacy for re-nomination."

After a conference with Congressman Pollard, Chairman Teikeland tonight announced the congressional committee would meet at Lincoln on the evening of April 6, the day following the meeting of the state committee.

Food Commissioner Redigns. W. F. Thompson, for the last three years food commissioner, has resigned his position and left for his home at Wood River to join his family. Mr. Thompson informed the governor he intended to devote all of his time to farming and that he had already removed his family back to the farm. No successor has yet been appointed and may not be for several days.

New Precedent at Soldiers' Home. By finding a member of the house guilty of being drunk and in violation of the law, submitting his decision to the members of the house for endorsement, then filing with the State Board of Public Lands and Buildings, the supreme power in the case, a record of the proceedings, which resulted in Andrew Guinman's discharge from the Soldiers' Home, Commandant Presson of the Soldiers' Home has established a precedent.

The records filed with the State board included the formal discharge of the old soldier, and Commander Presson's letter of explanation follows:

Upon the assertion of Mr. Guinman that he was not guilty of being drunk, I submitted to the members of the house the question, by ballot, whether or not Mr. Guinman's right hand was as one of the tellers, and the result was 44 yeas sustaining my action. I allowed Mr. Guinman to vote. I trust you will approve of my action.

I submitted the matter to a vote from the fact that I wished to give him every possible opportunity to defend himself. I did not wish to deprive him of his right to be heard in the matter, and in order to satisfy him as to the sincerity of my action, I submitted the question, and am gratified to learn that so large a majority of the members of the house have endorsed my action. Of those voting in the negative, I am satisfied that a majority of them were actuated by a desire to bring liquor to the home. The action of giving liquor to members of the home, in the opinion of the majority, is a crime, and is being recently returned to the home from the asylum of insanity.

Tax Hearing Postponed. The railroad tax hearing, which was to have been started this afternoon, has been put off for several days owing to the sickness of Special Examiner Pearsall. Attorney General Brown received a message from Mr. Pearsall this morning that he was taken suddenly ill last night, but he would be able to come to Lincoln within a few days. R. J. Clancy, tax commissioner of the Union Pacific, and Assistant George Holcomb both came down and learned of the sickness of Pearsall after they got here.

Pleased Wrong Party. Mrs. Nellie B. Reynolds was today given a decree of divorce from her husband on the charge of non-support. The woman, however, told the court she had married Reynolds to live with her mother and because she loved him. They lived at Hastings and recently Mrs. Reynolds moved to Lincoln, where she went through a business college and learned stenography. She refused to say anything against her husband or the actions of her mother in bringing about the marriage.
