Forgery to Hurt Hennings. One of the desperate schemes resorted to during the day by the Broatch gang was the distribution of a forged circular at the polls throughout the city which rend:

ATTENTION.

To the Voters of Omaha: Realizing the defeat at this time and having the terests of Omaha at heart and believe Realizing my terests of own, I now as mayor, 100 an open town, I now as mayor, 100 vote for W. J. Broatch for mayor, 100 A. H. HENNINGS, This circular, which was never heard of by Mr. Hennings until called to his attention last night, was distributed as early as 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The Broatch gang hoped to catch a large number of the workingmen in its dragnet who had not been advised during the day of whether I will support Mr. Benson or not. the facts and might be taken off their

I think I will not. I prefer a candidate of guard. "Yes, I saw the circular," said Mr. Hen that myself, but have not yet decided. I nings last night at his office in the city promised Omaha more than all the other hall. "They came out at 4:30. That is candidates combined, but the people didn't only one of the many dirty tricks that were worked and are to be expected in such a campaign, but it's all right. I shall make no statement further now. We have to endure such things from such people."

Glee at Fontanelle Club.

The Fontanelle headquarters in the Posstrongest republican head the ticket, for tal building on Farnam street was the scene of animation last night. Returns were received there, where leaders and GRAIN DECISION FOR CHICAGO followers of all factions were congregated. W. A. Saunders, *manager of the Benson campaign, and the entire Fontanelle representation present were not trying to conceal their delight over the victory, R. B. Howell, Byron G. Burbank, City Attorney Breen and a few others sat at CHICAGO, April 2.-Judge Bethea, in the a large table and tabulated returns as federal court, today denied the applicarapidly as they were handed to them.

"We have won; I guess that is certain." for an injunction restraining the Chicago said Mr. Saunders, about 11 o'clock. The doubt of Westberg's .nomination seemed to be quite general. Westberg, his face flushed and little beads of perspiration standing out on his brow, occupied a seat on one side of the room, with a paper and pencil in his hands, trying to make sure of his nomination. In the meantime Byron G. Burbank was making periodical trips over to Westberg to encourage him.

During the evening Tom Hollister, a Hennings man, made a speech in which he declared his belief the forged curcular announcing Hennings' withdrawal emamated from Benson men.

This dociaration met with prompt and vigorous denunciation. Charles L. Saunders voiced the sentiment of the Fontanelles in an emphatic statement that Mr. Hollister's impression was absolutely unwarranted.

"We sent out no such circular and it is unfair and absolutely unwarranted to charge it to us," declared Mr. Saunders. Mr. Hennings, in a statement to a reporter for The Bae, maid:
