(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, April 10.-(Special.)-The legal department of the state and the legal department of the Burlington got together today for a short hearing in the Burlington railroad tax injunction suit, the intention of which is to restrain the state from collecting the taxes levied against the road for 1905.

Attorney General Brown placed on the stand Governor Mickey, Auditor Searle, Treasurer Mortensen and Secretary Bennett of the State Board of Assessment Bennett merely identified the records of the board and the papers and reports filed by the road before the board. The others gave practically identical testimony. Each stated positively he had not been influenced in his action as a board member by any public clamor, politics or prejudice against the railroad. Each said the board had considered in arriving at its conclusions, the report of the value of the physical property as made out by the tax commissioner of the road, standard railroad publications showing the value of the tocks and bonds, and the net earnings. Charles J. Greene, representing the Burlington, cross-examined Governor Mickey very briefly and tried to get the governor to say how much of the figure the value of the physical property of the road had very short duration, lasting only fortyeight to sixty hours each. In February the temperature was about seasonable from the 4th to the 15th, but the rest of the month was almost continuously warm. Practically all of the precipitation of these months was snow. The amount of snowfall in each storm was small and the high temperature following melted it rapidly, so the ground was free from snow most of the period and at no time was there more than a light covering, two or three inches in depth. March was a cold month with an excess in precipitation, most of which occurred in the form of snow. The ground was covered with snow almost continuously until the last week. Melting snow and rain made the soil very wet at the end of the month.

The following table gives the precipitation for each of the first three months of the year for a few selected stations, also the total amount and normal fer the same period:

Arbor Day Proclamation. Governor Mickey has issued the following Arbor day proclamation:

Governor Mickey has issued the following Arbor day proclamation: By virtue of the authority of legislative emactment and in accordance with a cus-tom which has been established in nearly every state in the union. I, John H. Mickey, governor of the state of Nebraska, do hereby issue this my proclamation appoint-ing Monday, April 32, 1906, to be observed as Arbor day. Nebraska owes a debt of gratitude to the "tree planters" of ploneer days which it can never repay. These pligrims of a generation ago not only demonstrated that trees could be successfully grown upon our then bleak pratries, but they realized the importance of such growth upon climatic conditions and they inspired the settlers with a zeal for forestry which has dotted the state with groves, making our climate more equitable in point of humidity and substantially adding to the beauty of na-ture and the enjoyment of man. Stat-isticians tell us that the natural forests are being rapidly depleted and that it is a question of a comparatively short time when the demand for lumber will have to be supplic, from artificial groves. Let us anticipate that time and get ready in the present for the necessities of the future. I regard the planting of trees as a pa-triotic duty and I call upon all citizens, in every walk of life, to devote at least a purition of the day to practical forestry. Let the minds of the school children be especially directed in this channel and let iheir instructors, by precept and example, teach them also the important place which the forest occupies in the economy of nature, and for the benefit of posterity.
