Leaguers Beat Originals with University Crack in the Box.

FANS SIT DOWN ON JIM DAHLMAN

Dodge, Pa's Latest Importation, Holds the Amateurs to Six Hits and Makes Hit with the Fans.

Pa Rourke's colts yesterday beat the Lee-Glass-Andreesen Originals, the state amateur champions, at Vinton Street park by a score of 11 to 3, and the crowd beat "Jim" Dahlman, democrat nominee for mayor, by a score of 100 to 0. "Jim" undertook to thrust a speech on the fans, assuring them he would give them Sunday base ball if elected, but he got as far as the word "Benson" when an earthquake or something of the sort stopped him, and he calmly sat down and watched the game from that on like a law-abiding democrat.

Nilssen was in the points for the Lee-Glass-Andreesen team and he was expected to repeat his performance of Monday, when he beat Pa's colts with the Union Pacific shops team back of him. He reckoned wrong, however, for the Colts had on their batting clothes and took great liberties with his delivery. Eight hits were made on him up to the seventh, when six more were added for good measure.

Corns and Dodge obliged Pa and both had good control, holding the hardware men safe at will. Dodge is the hit of the season among the new players whom Pa has secured, and Father has not decided whether to work him against Ducky Holmes' bunch on the opening day or to save him for an opening day treat for the fans when the Lincoln team comes to Omaha Friday.

Dolan made good at the bat and was credited with three hits, one of which was a double. Carter, Howard, Bassey and Runkle each made two.

People's Store Team.

Under the management of Charles Gutting of Lincoln, the People's Store is organizing a ball team, of which great things are predicted. Mr. Gutting already has secured five of his players and he says they are stars. Among them are Fred Lowe of Hutchinson, Kan.; C. C. Springstun of Winfield, Kan.; George Day, Elmer Cox and Fred Barker, all three amateur players from Chicago. New uniforms have been ordered and grounds secured at Twenty-seventh and Corby streets. The grounds will be in charge of John L. Murphy. There are openings on the team for two more good players.

Season Opens at Millard.

The base ball season opened at Millard yesterday with a veritable war of hits, with the firing all done by one army. The Millards defeated the West Dodge's by the score of 29 to 1. Hoggen and Callon were in the points for Millard and Grover and Mumaugh for West Dodge.

Nonpareils Win from Starlights.

The Nonpareils defeated the Starlights in a fast game of ball at Jetter's park, South Omaha, Sunday. The features of the game were the sharp fielding on the part of the Nonpareil team and the effective pitching of Williams, he allowing the Starlights but one hit and striking out twelve. The score:

PICTURES "TOOK" AT HOME

Clever Work of a Western Firm of Traveling Photographers.

Photographing people amid surroundings is the specialty of an enterprising western firm of photographers, including a couple of men and one woman. The woman acts as a kind of advance agent for the firm. She goes to the house first and makes all necessary arrangements, studies the best lights and the artistic possibilities of rooms, porches or gardens, and suggests or talks over poses. But when possible the photographers try to catch the subjects at unexpected moments in easy, unstudied poses.

Some of the happiest results of their work are with children, elderly people and invalids, who are made tired and nervous by a visit to a studio and to whom such a visit is often impossible. Children photographed amid their natural surroundings make pictures indefinitely more charming than any that could be taken in a studio. A baby on the floor of his nursery with a woolly dog in his arms and his toys scattered around him is a picture that could not be obtained elsewhere. Neither could the little 8-year-old daughter, having her daily practice hour at the large grand piano, her feet far from the floor and her eyes intent on the notes. Three little girls having a tea party out under the trees in the garden, did not know a photographer was anywhere around and with their cunning little chubby legs twisted around the chairs, their pretty little hands holding the tea cups and, above all, their happy little faces smiling at one another, make a picture that could hardly be surpassed in the annals of photography. A most winning picture is that of a proud father carrying a new baby dowastairs. Both the baby and parent were unconscious of the camera's nearness, and as they stood on the landing of the handsome staircase they were photographed, thus giving to the wife and mother a possession millions could not buy.

A mother sitting before an open bookcase reading stories to two eager little girls, who hang on her chairi, listening to every word, was the subject of a charming picture. In a dainty room, hung with flowered draperies and full of girlish touches, a pretty debutante, sitting thoughtfully at her quaint desk, was taken. The picture of a patient invalid, sitting in her wheelchair, surrounded by the books, pictures and flowers that she loved, is pathetic and beautiful.

One of the finest pieces of work these photographers have accomplished is a likeness of two old women, friends for
