DEMOCRATS FACE A PROBLEM

Conference Shows Two Opinions at Least and Decision is Left Until After Dahlman's Return to City.

A few hours before James C. Dahlman broke away from the cares and trisls incident to being mayor-elect on Wednesday night to lay up a week at Excelsion Springs, the triumphant hosts recognized that the glories achieved have not wiped but differences inside the lines. As stated, before the new mayor got away the facons were forming and the issues were beng made. It amounts is substance to the same old story that has been running through the councils for years-the division of those who will yield to the wishes of the corporations and those who will not. The first named group wants to apportion the spoils among those who worked the hardest electing the ticket, while the other bunch expresses a desire to pick out men who are believed to have special capacities for filling the berths assigned. It has been observed that, though the mayor makes appointments, a majority of the council must confirm them.

Conference Declares for Delay.

Just so there would not be any needless energy wasted in arranging the disposal of the groceries, the democrats elected to the council-Dahlman and other successful candidates held a session at the Jacksonian club rooms Wednesday afternoon and agreed to do nothing whatever in the appointing line until the mayor-elect returns from his vacation next week. Meanwhile applicants for office were instructed to get as busy as they please and rest secure that sentence will not be pronounced for a week at least. The dictum went out from this meeting that the councilmen had decided to stand by the platform pledges, but how much debate and persuasion was necessary to arrive at the conclusion was not stated. Mayor Zimman didn't attend. The scrap in the new administration absorbed most of the attention of the democrats Thursday. These who profess to stand for "good government" and a "clean administration," are supporting Funkhouser for president of the council. The other candidate is Bedford of the Twelfth. The men closest to Dahlman say Bedford has a cinch and the other crowd declares the statement utterly without foundation. The wise heads were doing their best to figure out the line-up in the new council, but were not equal to the task, as the bulk of the new council will be composed of men absolutely new in the political game as developed in Omaha and it is about as easy to foreshadow their future political attitudes as to tell the presidential candi-

May Abolish Some Plums. Meanwhile the boys who want the pie are out with the crowbars and jimmles trying to pry open the combination and break into the bakery. In this connection a report has been floating around that the outgoing council may lop off a few jobs such as gas inspector, city hall superintendent and a few odd clerkships just to show how spiteful it can be. The offices cannot be recreated except by a two-thirds vote of the new council, and under the conditions this may be hard to get. Therefore the rumor has caused some consternation. The most likely candidate for city prose cutor is said to be H. S. Daniel, the young democratic lawyer who assisted Chairman Bullard in managing the democratic campaign. Daniel is a man with an excellent. personal record. Another man talked of Louis J. Piatti, who been identified with state and local democratic politics for years.

After Joe Scheid's Job.

Boller Inspector Joe Scheld has no illusions about holding over and a swarm of candidates are after the job. They include: Joseph Perkins, boiler inspector for a casualty company; E. D. Miller, engineer at the Paxton block and heretofore thought to be a socialist, and James D. Murphy, botler maker in the stock yards round house at South Omaha. Henry Schroeder. engineer at the plant of the Willow Springs Brewing company, hopes to succeed himself as a member of the board of examining engineers. He is looked upon as a protege of Walter Moise.

Plumbing Inspector Kugel has no political claims to hanging onto the job, buta number of plumbing firms want him retained. Among the democratic plumbers who have spotted the berth as just to their liking are Harry McVey, Dan Connell and Dan Clifton. McVey some years ago was very prominent in union labor

Worry Over the Grand Jury. The democrats are somewhat worried about reports that the grand jury will be asked to look into campaign contributions from the franchised corporations, both for the election and the primaries The persons who are pressing investigations along this line and collecting evidence may they have not dropped it by a long shot. > No Contest Likely. There was talk that City Attorney Breen and councilmanic candidates Willis and Bingham, defeated by small margins, would bring contest suits in hopes of having the entire vote in the Second and Third precincts thrown out on the charges of illegal practices by judges in the manner in which they assisted electors to cote, and illegal registration. The city attorney, however, studied up the law, and said that no votes could be rejected except those actually proven to have been raudulently or irregularly voted. This fact, he said, wilted any desire he might have for a contest to overcome the 561 votes he needed to catch up to his opponent. Mr. Breen said that the law relating to the instructing and assistance of voters in operating the machine was defective, in that it permitted the election officers to have too much supervision. He proposes to ask the next legislature to make it more stringent.

Immediately after receiving payment, the church greeted with a clapping of hands. As a advanced the money necessary to secure the title to the lot at the southwest corner new house of worship will be erected. The trustees of the church chafed considerably over the delay in transferring the Nineteenth property, though it seemed necessary in order to give a clear title. They feared they would not get the money n time to make the payment on the Harney street property.

Nebraska Congregationalists Take Import ant Action on Topic.

D DAY OF JUBILEE IS BUSY ONE

Matters Attended to and Some Interesting Papers Read, with Short Addresses and Debates Filling the Time.

The second day's session of the Nebraska Association of Congregational Churches began Thursday morning with Rev. J. J. Parker of Plainview presiding. The morning devotional services were conducted by Rev. P. A. Sharpe of Friend, who spoke upon the subject of "Strength for Present

The business meeting of the Nebraska Congregational Home Missionary society was opened by Rev. Hubert C. Herring, chairman of the advisory board, who made a statement of the progress in the campaign for self-support. The subject brought out a lively discussion and some of the members of the weaker congregations favored the continuance of the assistance of the National Home Missionary society until they could be put on a self-supporting basis. An effort was made to have the subject laid over until the October meeting of the association. This proposition was defeated by a strong vote and the association went on record as favoring self-support in home nissions by a strong vote. The announce ment of the vote by Rev. J. E. Tuttle, who presided during the business session, was result of this almost unanimous action of the association the home mission field of of Twenty-sixth and Harney streets, where | Nebraska will hereafter stand on its own bottom, without further ald from the national body.

Union with Other Churches. Rev. Laura H. Wild's address on the uestion of "The Proposed Union with the United Brethren and Methodist Protestant Churches" took strong grounds for such a union and predicted that within the next wenty-five years this union would be accomplished and the greatly enlarged Congregational church would look back with gratitude to the time that this union was ecomplished. Owing to the lateness of the hour the discussion scheduled for this question was abandoned.

Fifteen minute addresses were delivered by Rev. Charles H. Richards, secretary, been analyzed by prominent chemists and of the Congregational Church Building soclety, after which President Henry Churchhill King of Oberlin college spoke for half an hour on "The Way Into Life's Values.

GET TOGETHER THE SLOGAN

Time for the Republicans to Bury Their Factional Differences.

LOCAL LEADERS ON THE PROPOSITION

Men High in Party Councils Express Themselves on Necessity for a Unity of Action by All Elements.

Except from the most thoroughly idenified Fontanelle club leaders, republicans generally commend the Bee's editorial urging members of the republican party in Omaha and the county "to get together." Some of the men asked for an expression have responded as follows:

Howard H. Baldrige-In union there is strength. It is bad enough for a minority party to be defeated. It is infinitely worse for a majority party, for it shows that the fault is in ourselves. There is no excuse for surrendering to the democrats that which rightfully belongs to us as the majority party-the control of the city government. It is time that we put party above self and set aside our factional differences. "Get together" is a slogan that we should all give ear to.

No More Club Nominations.

City Attorney Breen-I agree with The Bee. Effective measures should be started at once to make our party locally the effeetive force that it should be. Political clubs should not make nominations-at least not while there is only one club of the kind in the city. It is a sufficient function of clubs to foster and encourage proper political ideals and to promote the interests of candidates after they are nom

T. W. Blackburn-I cannot agree with the editor that the Fontanelle club has outlived its usefulness; but am of the opinion that out of this defeat there should be a movement to get republicans together for the fall campaign. It is perfectly clear that if any one faction fights every nominee put up by the other faction we can never elect a ticket. The Fontanelle club has never fought the nominees of the other faction at any general election.

State Representative Mike Lee-I think all political nominating clubs should be abolished and the intent and purpose of the primary law should be carried out. Every such factional club organized increases disunion, whether it Fontanelle, Equal Rights or by other name-republican clubs should confine their labors to the promotion of the election of candidates after they are nominated by the party. Every club nomination means additional cost to the candidate, which is contrary to the spirit of the direct primary law.

Harry C. Brome-If getting together means following Mr. Rosewater's lead I am opposed to it.

Bury Factional Differences. A. H. Burnett-I am in favor of trying to bury factional differences. The Fontanelle club has helped elect and admitted to its councils men nominated from the other faction.

Mayor Harry B. Zimman-I can endorse The Bee editorial without reservation. There is pressing need for vigorous steps to reconstruct the republican party locally, and put it on a new footing. Factional difference have reached a point where they are at the same time suicidal and absurd
